WACO IS MECCA OF SIGHTSEERS

MULTITUDE ATTRACTED TO CITY BY INAUGURAL CEREMONIES.

FIRST DAY SCENES ANIMATED

Season Ticket Sellers Unable to Meet Demands of Eager Buyers in Time Allotted for Sales.

At 10 o'clock yesterday the gates were thrown open to the fourth annual Cotton Palace, and the grounds were overflowed by hundreds from all parts of Central Texas. The interurban line and the railroads were taxed to their capacity to handle the crowds which came in from various points of McLennan and neighboring counties. T. H. Williams, local agent of the Southern Traction company, stated that his company did twice as much business as it had since the line was opened.

Ticket Buyers Turned Away.

It was impossible to satisfy the hundreds who were seeking to buy season passes. When the ticket office in the Adams hotel closed last night at 6:30 there were scores of men waiting in line.

All day long the street cars, most of them dragging trailers, rolled in an almost continuous stream to the grounds, beneath the gay arches of banners which hung in brilliant colors across the tracks.

Gorgeous and Spectacular.

On entering the grounds the effect of the recent improvement was immediately noticeable. The strings of red, white and blue lights, hanging in a triple line along the central walk, formed an unsurpassed vista toward the entrance of the main building; and the effect was indeed a splendid one when their patriotic illumination flashed out through the darkening evening. The luxurious ranks of chrysanthemums in Wolff's greenhouse, next the machinery building, the increased space, the larger number of shows on the Warpath and the new poultry building were other witnesses to the fact that the Cotton Palace has made a great step since November a year ago.

Exhibits Excite Admiration.

In quality, as well as in number and size, the exhibits in the main exposition buildings this year outclass anything that has ever been produced here before. The feature which is unique among expositions is the department of cotton modeling. Not only ingenious, but in many cases artistic and worthy of lasting memory, are the examples of statuary and portraiture that this department presents. The collection ranges from automobiles and airships to fireplaces and easy chairs, in the way of inanimate portrayal; and in the reproduction of life, from miniature turkey-trotters to more than life-sized figures of Mutt and Jeff.

Art in the Waco Schools.

A section of the displays of more than usual interest to children and their parents is the space devoted to art productions from the Waco public schools. This newest development in the educational line is receiving adequate attention from local instructors.

SEES GREAT FUTURE FOR WACO

"You Have Better Prospects Than Any of the Cities in the State for a Glorious Future."

The oratorical program was the notable feature of the formal opening exercises at the Cotton Palace last night, the orators of the occasion being Governor O. B. Colquitt and Mayor James H. Mackey. The speakers were enthusiastically received by the largest audience that has ever witnessed the inaugural ceremonies ushering in a Cotton Palace season.

President Hoffmann of the Cotton Palace requested the vast coucourse to rise while Rev. E. E. Ingram delivered the invocation.

The Invocation.

Mr. Ingram's prayer was as follows:

"O Thou, who art the everlasting unto the everlasting our Father's God and our God, thou who art the maker of every good and perfect gift, in whom we live and have our being, we come to offer praise and thanksgiving to thee. We have come to glorify thee as the God of wisdom and the God of life. We come to thee as the author of life and the source of our every being. We come to thee with the privilege to thank thee for the bestowal of all that is good. We come to walk in thy footsteps, to give thee thanks for all the fruits of the earth, for the bountiful harvests, for the blessings of life and the source of peace and happiness. We thank thee for the joy that is in our hearts tonight, and so we pray that we may do those things that will always be acceptable in thy sight at this festive time, and we pray that we worship thee in the true light and see thy face. We pray that this great exposition may have its place in the great scheme for the uplift of mankind, for the glorification of thy work and for the common good of all. We pray that this exposition may meet with thy favor for the blessings, for the joys and the happiness of thy servants and thy people. Bless our state; bless our city and bless this occasion for all the good that comes to us through it in bringing together thy greatest work in the harvest time, and for the good that comes through the fellowship and the achievements of a thankful people. Let us return thanks to thee at all times, let us praise and glorify thee and the blessings about us in thy matchless name in this life and the life to come, and do it in the redeemer's name. Amen."

President Hoffmann Speaks.

At the conclusion of this invocation, President Hoffmann, in a short speech, eulogized the Cotton Palace workers as a whole and the loyal women of Waco in particular, saying in part: "I wish to here tender my most sincere thanks and deep appreciation for the most untiring efforts put forth by every one connected with the Cotton Palace in any way for the success of the 1913 exposition, to the citizens of Waco and to every organization, to the press of the state and to all officials of the city, county and state, and particularly do I wish to thank from the bottom of my heart the loyal women of this city who have labored unceasingly, as if it were a labor of love, and it has been (loud applause) for good old Waco and her glorification to the highest. It has indeed been a monumental task, but with willing hands and a loyalty unlimited, we have gone ahead. The result is before you. May you all enjoy the Cotton Palace to the fullest. I now take great pleasure in introducing Hon. J. H. Mackey, who will deliver the address of welcome."

Mayor Mackey's Speech.

Mayor Mackey said:

"Your Excellency, Mr. President and Directors of the Texas Cotton Palace Association, Ladies and Gentlemen: "Has it occurred to you this evening that the most memorable gatherings that ever assembled on the soil of our imperial Texas occurred at the head of navigation on the Brazos river? And has it occurred to you that some of the most notable events in the history of Texas took place on the banks of the Brazos river, at and around the head of navigation? But no matter whether it has occurred to you or not, it is nevertheless true that seventy-seven years ago the Fathers of the Republic of Texas gathered together at Old Washington, at the head of navigation on the Brazos river, and then and there formulated and adopted the Declaration of the Independence of Texas. It is also true that it was on the banks of the Brazos at Old Washington that those old heroes with their dauntless spirit and lion hearts, amidst dreams of aspiring patriotism, first unfurled the Lone Star flag of Texas. And again it is true that the first capitol of Texas stood on the banks of the Brazos at Columbia, just below the head of navigation, and it was here that the first congress of Texas was convened, and here that the first governor of Texas took the oath of office.

History Repeats Itself.

"What does all this argue? Does it not suggest to you that history is repeating itself? Not so heroically and

GOVERNOR'S BALL INITIAL SOCIAL EVENT OF THE SEASON.

CLIMAX OF DAY'S FESTIVITIES

Grand March Is Led by Governor Colquitt and Mrs. J. W. Bass—Buildings and Grounds Thronged.

The estimated total of paid admissions for the first day of the season of 1913 at the Cotton Palace is 9,000.

Standing on the floor of the Cotton Palace coliseum as he watched the governor of Texas and a hundred of the social leaders of Waco encircle the floor in the march that opened the exposition last night before an audience of over 6,000 people, President W. H. Hoffmann said:

"It's the happiest moment of my life. I am amply repaid for all the months of work and discouragement. The Cotton Palace this year is going to double anything that we have ever had before. It is already a gloroaus success."

Most Successful Opening.

That the first day of the Cotton Palace of 1913 is the most successful opening day that has ever been known in a Texas fair is the opinion of Governor O. B. Colquitt, as expressed last night in his speech at the coliseum. Not only was the seating capacity of the coliseum filled to its 5,000 capacity, but almost half that number were forced to stand in the aisles and against the back walls to hear the opening speeches and to witness the grand march and ball that followed. And still the grounds outside were crowded with pleasure seekers along the Warpath and in the minor buildings of the park.

Aglow with Light and Color.

The riot of colors that met the gaze of the spectator on entering the park gates last night was never equalled this side of a world's fair. Beginning at the electric fountain, a centerpiece of flashing red and blue, the walks led away between brilliant borders of tri-colored lights, across illuminated bridges, brought out in bright relief against the heavy foliage of the trees, with the light fringed outlines of the exposition buildings a yellow radiance in the background.

Crowd of 8,000 at 8 P. M.

By 8 o'clock, 8,000 of the crowd that had thronged the streets to witness the opening parade had passed the gates of the Cotton Palace, the majority of them assembling in the coliseum. Here the governor, with his staff and officials of Waco and the Cotton Palace, took their places on the speakers' platform. Those on the platform with the governor were Lieuten-

The Weather

Fair weather today with little change in temperature was the encouraging forecast last night of Dr. I. Block, local volunteer weather observer. The high barometric pressure centered over Waco yesterday morning, he said, has moved to the eastward, which would seem to argue for fine weather for the Cotton Palace crowds today.

Local Temperatures.

State of thermometer and barometer as recorded yesterday by Dr. I. Block: Maximum 58⅘, minimum 47, barometer 30.41, humidity .63. Total wind passage for the twenty-four hours ended at 9 o'clock last night, 67 miles, the highest velocity of the wind being 7 miles an hour between 4 and 5 a. m.

Government Forecast.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Waco and vicinity—Fair Sunday, local rains north portion Sunday, followed by fair and warmer; Monday fair, light to moderate northeast to east winds.

West Texas—Fair Sunday, warmer north portion; Monday fair.

MURPHY BREAKS LONG SILENCE

In Campaign Leader Talks More Than Ever Before—Whitman Only Untouched Candidate.

Elections will be held next Tuesday as follows:

New Jersey—Governor, legislature.

New York—Chief judge court of appeals, associate judge of court of appeals, nine supreme court justices, assembly and state senator Twenty-First district.

Maryland—United States senator, state comptroller.

Pennsylvania—Two judges superior court.

Kentucky—Two circuit judges, legislature, two constitutional amendments.

Alabama—United States senator.

Virginia—Governor and state officials.

Congressional—Third Massachusetts, Thirteenth and Twentieth New York and Third Maryland districts.

Municipal elections will be held in many cities, the more important contests being held in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Louisville.

New York, Nov. 1.—The battle for the mayoralty of New York with attendant skirmishes for lesser offices, virtually closed tonight, ending a campaign in which economic issues were buried under an interchange of personalities and a flood of vituperation. On Tuesday ballots will be cast. Final speeches will be made Monday.

The foes of Tammany hall, united under the fusion standard with John Purroy Mitchel as their leader, have centered their fire upon Charles F. Murphy, Tammany chieftain. Mitchel, although a tireless campaigner, was eclipsed as an orator by John A. Hennessy, a political comet whose course deflected candidates from their prescribed orbits of campaigning to acrimonious debate, largely centered about the recent removal of Wm. Sulzer from office and revelations resultant therefrom.

Hennessy was Sulzer's investigator of graft in state departments and he has made public what he claims to have unearthed in the way of corruption. His bombardment of Murphy and Edward E. McCall, Tammany candidate for mayor, resulted in a John Doe investigation by the district attorney and the revelation that former State Senator Stilwell, now in Sing Sing prison for bribery, sought a pardon from Sulzer by turning informer against Tammany hall. These charges have been met with hot denials.

Fusion leaders predicted tonight the election of Mitchel by pluralities ranging from 75,000 to 125,000. Tammany was equally confident that McCall would win by from 50,000 to 100,000.

The turmoil of the campaign has resulted in unloosening the tongue of the Tammany chieftain for the first time in the memory of his followers. Under the assault Mr. Murphy talked daily with reporters and on one occasion issued a statement of 1,800 words. Hardly less striking has been the apparent sympathy of the east side for Sulzer in his fight for election to the assembly on the progressive ticket in the Sixth district. Twenty years ago he represented the district. The former governor also waged a campaign against Aaron J. Levy, democratic leader of the assembly, who is seeking election as municipal court justice.

In the epidemic of mudslinging one figure has been untouched. This is Charles S. Whitman, district attorney and candidate of all parties and factions for re-election. He is aiding in the fight against Tammany.

Of minor interest are the contests for congress in two districts, and for state senator in the district represented by Stilwell before he was sent to Sing Sing.

In the Thirteenth congressional district a successor is to be chosen to the late Timothy D. Sullivan, "Big Tim" of the Bowery, and in the Twentieth district a successor will be elected to Francis Burton Harrison, who resigned to become governor-general of the Philippines.

New Jersey Campaign Closes.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 1.—The campaign in New Jersey which involves principally the election of a governor practically closed tonight. The campaign has been marked by the presence of several men of national prominence. Secretary of State Bryan, Senator James of Kentucky and Congressman Glass of Virginia were among those who spoke for James J. Fielder, democratic candidate for governor.

Senator Borah and other republicans of progressive tendencies spoke for former Governor Edward C. Stokes, republican candidate. Former Senator Beveridge of Indiana and Governor Johnson of California were among those who spoke for Everett Colby, progressive candidate.

Retired Naval Commander Dead.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Commander Thomas S. Wilson, U. S. N., retired, aged 42, died today in Media, Pa. He was graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis in 1893 and was retired of ill health last February.

BARR CONFESSES TO KILLING MISS BROWN

SAYS DANGER IN DEFEAT OF WALSH

FOREIGN POWERS OBSERVING

Japan, Germany and Mexico Will Consider Results of the Week's Elections.

Boston, Nov. 1.—The Orient, Europe and Mexico would regard the defeat of Massachusetts' democratic candidate for governor, Lieutenant Governor David I. Walsh, as a repudiation of President Wilson's foreign policies, according to United States Senator James H. Hamilton, who addressed a democratic rally here tonight.

"Mexico will go further," he said. "She will preach to her people that this condemnation was because the president had not recognized Huerta. Is the conclusion too far fetched that war might be precipitated with all its horrors?"

Senator Lewis entered the Massachusetts campaign hurriedly at the request of President Wilson. While in Chicago Thursday he received a telegram from Secretary Tumulty and immediately cancelled several conferences to hasten to this state.

"Just now, before the nations of the world, tremble two serious problems," said the Illinois senator. "One is the effort of President Wilson and his administration to maintain before the Orient, particularly Japn, that doctrine of home rule—the right of the states to regulate and control their home affairs, their schools, their lands, the manner and kinds of people who should mingle in their citizenship to increase or dilute.

"This question, as to whether this privilege shall continue as against the oriental theory of government, or government, or whether our national government shall attempt to override it merely at the demand of a foreign nation, is the great problem at Washington which President Wilson is seeking to solve. He is teaching the oriental and all other peoples that under a democracy presided over by a democratic president, no sovereign state shall be imposed upon or intruded upon by any system of government, either at the demand of a foreigner or by insistence of the national government, which our own people felt was disastrous to the home rule and to the welfare of their citizenship.

Reference to Mexican Situation.

"Again, in Mexico, we have a very delicate situation. The public press brings us the information that England and Germany—doubtless misunderstanding the issue—have been about to join Mexico aginst us. The president has asked these governments to wait until they can be fully informed on the situation and thus be advised as to our policy, known as the Monroe doctrine.

"Foreign governments don't understand your state issues, but they do know Massachusetts. You decide this election against the democracy and the morning after this decision the Japanese in the Orient, recalling the fight of Massachusetts in behalf of the liberty of the black man, will cry aloud that Massachusetts has repudiated her president on the yellow question, that she has defeated him in his purpose to protect California and Massachusetts in her right of state rule and home government.

"England, Germany and Spain, misunderstanding the issues because of the same reason, would at once conclude that President Wilson's Mexican policy had been repudiated, that he had been condemned and the administration overthrown. Mexico will go further; she will preach to her people that this condemnation was because he had not recognized Huerta. Is the conclusion too far fetched that war might be precipitated, with all its horrors?"

BEFORE GRAND JURY

IMPLICATES WOMAN, WHO IS ARRESTED AND DENIES.

STORY TALLIES WITH MURDER

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1.—At a night session of the county grand jury Saturday, Mead Barr, 32 years of age, confessed that he murdered Miss Florence Brown on the morning of July 28, this year, in the office of Robinson & Styron, 119 Field street. He told a dramatic story and accused a woman.

His confession was concluded shortly after 11 o'clock and, althought at first denied, officials finally declared that Barr had confessed. He was, it is believed, spirited to Waxahachie. At any rate he was taken out of town later. He was brought back to Dallas by Sheriff Brandenburg and taken to the county jail. A newspaper man was sitting in the corridor and the prisoner was spirited away. It is not known where the man was taken.

Barr, it was learned authentically, told the grand jury that he beat the woman into insensibility with a pistol. That he then took his pocket knife and cut her throat from ear to ear, he declared. He said the woman told him to kill her and to be sure that she was dead. The robbery motive he denied. Barr said after he killed the woman he walked to the front of the office, pistol in hand, expecting to have to kill somebody in making his escape. He said he boarded a South Belt car and went to Fair Park, where he met the woman.

Woman Arrested on Affidavit.

After this confession and the grand jury had presumably concluded its night session, Mrs. Ellie Lake was placed in the county jail on an affidavit in connection with the case.

She denied any connection with the murder. "How could I have had anything to do with that? How could I look that man square in the face and deny it if I had had anything to do with it?" she pleaded, as she was taken to the county jail.

In the grand jury room the woman sobbed aloud. She could be heard in the hallway as she pleaded she had nothing to do with the killing.

In confessing Barr stood erect and told his story without a quiver. When taken away from the grand jury room to the big automobile in which he was spirited away he smiled and pulled his hat over his eyes. He wore a big gray overcoat.

While the grand jury returned no bill of indictment, it is expected that action will be taken Monday morning shortly after 9 o'clock, when the probers reconvene.

The solution of the case created a great sensation in Dallas Saturday night. Special officers were placed on duty and when a crowd was seen together officers interfered and compelled the men to go on their way.

Barr's confession, it is said, tallied in every way with the physical facts in connection with the murder. He was brought to Dallas Friday night by Chief of Police John Ryan, County Attorney McCutcheon and Detective DeWitt, from Memphis, Tenn. He was placed in the Ellis county jail. His confession, it is said, is the same as made to authorities at Jeffersonville, Indiana, where Barr was held in a reformatory. Two physicians from that institution are en route to Dallas and will testify as regards the prisoner's sanity.

Inmate Reformatory Several Years.

Barr was an inmate of the Jefferson Reformatory and has been there for several years. He was sent up for manslaughter.

"I buried my husband only a short time ago," the woman sobbed. "Now that I am accused of this, how can I stand it?"

Mrs. Lake appeared before the grand jury in the morning. She sobbed all during the proceedings and Margurite is discovered by Faust and Mephisto in her prison cell, shackled and lying on a pallet of straw. The devil wishes her to fly with them in order that he may claim her soul. He keeps in the shadow. Marguerite, on hearing the voice of her lover, awakes and flies to his arms and there, in a dreamy condition, sings snatches of the lovely melodies of the love music of Act III. On a sudden she catches sight of Mephisto and with a loud cry tears herself from the arms of Faust and, flinging herself on her knees, invokes the angels to save her from the clutches of the arch-fiend. This is the beginning of the sublime trio which closes this wonderful selection.

Natives in Coahuila Flock to the American Border

Eagle Pass, Nov. 1.—Advices received at constitutionalist headquarters in this city tonight from points in the southern part of the state of Coahuila are that the inhabitants in that part of the Mexican republic have been seized with terror and are flocking toward the Texas border in large numbers. According to these advices the town of Lampazos has been practically deserted, the people leaving in a body in an effort to reach the American border.

Constitutionalist leaders in Eagle Pass stated today that the expected attack on Piedras Negras, opposite this city, would not take place for several days because of a shortage of arms and ammunition.

BELTON TO IMPROVE STREETS

Commercial Organization is Jubilant Over Results of General Paving Law Election.

Belton, Tex., Nov. 1.—The Young Men's Chamber of Commerce here is jubilant today over the results of the special election held in this city Friday for the purpose of voting on the adoption of the general paving law of Texas adopted by the Thirty-Second legislature and which becomes effective in any city by referendum vote when a majority is registered in favor of same. The proposition was sustained at the polls by the handsome majority of 186 out of a total vote polled of 360, the returns standing: For the law 273, against the law 87, or a majority of 3 to 1 in favor of the same. Ward 3 gave a majority of one vote against adoption, while Ward 1 came in with a majority of 98 for and Ward 2 gave a majority of 99 for. The paving of the business streets and macadamizing of residence streets will now proceed with unabated vigor. The chamber of commerce is greatly elated over the victory, which is considered as a distinct turning of the tide in favor of progressive policies for Belton.

SERIOUS CATARRH YIELDS TO HYOMEI

Do not let this serious disease extend along the delicate mucous membrane, gradually going from the nose to the throat, thence into the bronchial tubes and downward until the lungs are reached.

There is no other treatment for catarrh that is like Hyomei or just as good. None can take its place, none give such quick, effective and sure relief and at so little cost—furthermore Powers-Kelly Drug Co. will refund your money if you are not benefited. Hyomei, as sold by all druggists, reaches the most remote cells of the air passages, kills the catarrhal germs, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane.

Begin its use now—today, and see how quickly the droppings into the throat, the discharges from the nose, sniffling and all other symptoms of catarrh are overcome; and remember—no stomach drugging—you breathe it. The complete outfit containing inhaler and bottle of liquid costs but $1.00. Extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents.

EDITORS ASSIST IN THE OPENING

MANY TEXAS NEWSPAPERS REPRESENTED AT THE COTTON PALACE.

WELCOMED BY LOCAL PRESS

A. R. McCollum and W. V. Crawford Deliver Addresses in Y. M. B. L. Hall.

The press's share in the events of the opening day of the Cotton Palace began at noon yesterday in the rooms of the Young Men's Business league. There representatives of the local newspapers, of the Cotton Palace association and that of the Young Men's Business league united in receiving the editors of Central Texas and their families.

There was first an exchange of informal greetings in the league's hall, A. R. McCollum, editor of the Waco Tribune, speaking for first welcome, in behalf of the press of this city. He cordially requested all present to dispense with formality and to feel and act as if they were in the home of good friends through all the events of the Cotton Palace season.

Baylor Band Plays.

Before the gathering in the league hall and when the guests of the press assembled, a concert was given by the Baylor band. This was followed by more addresses of welcome and responses. President W. H. Hoffmann of the Cotton Palace warmly greeted the press party, and extended an invitation from the directory to enjoy to the fullest all that the exposition has to offer. Waco, he said, is proud of its "Healthy Child" of four years and proud of the Cotton Palace's every success that has come through cooperation of the citizens and the commercial organizations. He urged the editors to make this their chief outing year after year as the event of all events in the state at which they could have a genuine good time.

W. V. Crawford Speaks.

Mr. McCollum in introducing President W. V. Crawford of the Young Men's Business league paid high tribute to the part played by the organization in the upbuilding of Waco. This was Mr. Crawford's welcome to the press day company:

"Mr Chairman and Representatives of the Press of Texas:

"In extending a welcome to the newspaper men of Texas, in behalf of the Young Men's Business league of Waco, I feel that it is far too important a welcome for me to trust to an unprepared or memorized talk.

"I feel, gentlemen, that before the 1913 Cotton Palace is over we of Waco will have forcefully brought home to us the truth, that printers' ink via the newspaper is the greatest power in America in the bringing of success to commercial enterprises and especially in putting the Texas Cotton Palace before the people of this state. You, gentlemen, have been most kind to Waco and to her greatest pride—the Cotton Palace—your papers have carried the dates and information concerning this event into the homes of Texas. And we of Waco are going to see the results of your papers' influence every day from now until the 16th of November. There is no greater force than the newspaper and realizing this and the efforts that you gentlemen have put forth in behalf of our exposition, we feel a deep sense of gratitude toward each and every one of you. You are Waco's guests today and not alone today, but any day that you come among us. Right heartily do I welcome you in behalf of the Young Men's Business league of Waco, and may the pleasures that we hope to make yours during this press day linger long in your minds.

Chancellor Responds.

The response for the guests was spoken by Frank Chancellor, editor and publisher of the Iredell Record. Mr. Chancellor made an interesting address, replete with glowing expressions of friendship and with reminiscence of the earlier days of Waco newspaper's history, especially of the career of Editor McCollum. It was his opinion, he said, that Waco is the grandest and best little town in the state and that Mr. McCollum, the Tribune and the press of the city had contributed greatly towards the success of his community.

M. B. Davis, publicity agent for the Cotton Palace, added a welcome from this department of the exposition, and detailed the arrangements made for the entertainment of press day guests. All these brief addresses were received with hearty applause and a spirit of enjoyable good fellowship was created for the press' share of the events of the opening day. Refreshments and cigars were served by the officers of the Y. M. B. L. and then the party was well entertained at the New State House with a five course luncheon. Some thirty guests participated in this function.

Applause for Mayes.

During the luncheon Lieutenant Governor Will H. Mayes of Brownwood came to the table and was greeted with applause. Mr. McCollum presented Mr. Mayes in a happy fashion, saying that no member of the Texas press was more welcome at a gathering of newspaper men. Mr. Mayes voiced his appreciation briefly and said he "might make a speech later on." He was given a seat at the right of Editor McCollum and remained until the end of the repast in conversation with his friends.

Some Souvenirs.

During the luncheon souvenirs were distributed, Crow Bros. (Waco Steam Laundry) giving flatiron pins and the Cotton Palace association combination pencils and cigar cutters.

After the luncheon the guests were taken motoring over the city and to Cameron park, the cars finally conveying them to the Cotton Palace, where they were at liberty to entertain themselves at the exhibits and amusement features.

The cars were furnished by H. M. Baine, Herrick Hardware Co., B. C. Nettles, E. W. Marshall, J. C. Kilgore, Joe Kemendo, Frank Crow, Percy Willis, J. F. McGrath.

A. R. McCollum, chairman of the committee on entertainment, expressed his appreciation of the services of the gentlemen, who volunteered their automobiles, stating that their efforts had added very greatly to the success of the occasion, and to the courteous welcome which was given the representatives of the press.

VISITING CROWDS PLEASED.

So Says President of Waco Ad Club, Who Talked With Many.

W. J. Mitchell, president of the Waco Ad Club, was one of the most enthusiastic men in Waco yesterday, as he viewed the enormous crowds on the strets. He said that the Cotton Palace was fully justifying its being.

"Every one with whom I talked, who had visited the exposition grounds were thoroughly pleased with the Greater 1913 Cotton Palace, and all stated they were surely going to come several times and tell their friends all about the beauty and merits of the exposition," Mr. Mitchell remarked.

JOHN H. KIRBY COMING.

His Famous Fiddle Will Be Heard Traveling Men's Day.

John H. Kirby has assured the committee from the Waco traveling men that he will be in Waco on Traveling Men's Day, Saturday, November 8, with his famous fiddle, to take part in the elaborate program being arranged for the entertainment of the knights of the grip on their day during the exposition.

The Traveling Men's Parade will start at the corner of Fourth and Franklin, Franklin to Third, Third to Austin, Austin to Eighth, thence to the Cotton Palace in street cars. The time of formation will be given later.

BISHOP FOLKS TOMORROW.

They Will Come on Special Train, Arriving Here at 6 A. M.

The Bishop excursion will reach Waco Monday morning at 6 o'clock over the International and Great Northern. There will be 150 people in the party, occupying six big Pullmans. Editor Zenor Deer of the Bishop News will be in the party and advises the publicity department that the delegation anticipates a very pleasant time in Waco, and especially at the Cotton Palace. A request is made that as many as possible be at the train to greet the party. This party is coming from an enormous distance—all the way from the Texas coast. The glad-handers of Waco, as many as possible, should turn out to extend the welcome handshake to the pilgrims from afar.

Will Boost Bishop.

Bishop, Tex., Nov. 1.—A train of six Pullmans bearing 150 Bishop boosters, will reach Waco Monday morning at 6 o'clock to attend Bishop Day at the Cotton Palace. The train comes direct from Dallas to Waco. It is the largest crowd ever sent out from this town in one single train, having as its object the attendance of an exposition. The train load of Bishop Boosters attended the State Fair at Dallas and will go directly from that city to attend the Waco show. F. C. Bishop, head of the party and founder of the town, will be amoung the crowd. As an advance agent to make arrangements for the Bishop visitors, Zena Deer, editor of the Bishop News, will reach Waco Sunday morning.

PUZZLING PICTURE.

Fine Specimen of Art Phenomena Is "The Shadow of the Cross."

Lovers of art as well as those interested in phenomena, will have an opportunity of a life time, when "The Shadow of the Cross," the great unfinished, mysterious painting is placed on exhibition at the Cotton Palace this year.

Seen in the light there is a life sized standing figure of the Christ, one hand resting across his breast, the other hanging by His side. Of all the famous paintings of the Savior, perhaps none other so conveys the clearness of His realization, the pathos of His resignation and He brings in nearer touch than ever before the peace vouchsafed to all mankind.

Seen in the dark the figure of Christ seems to be walking in the pale moonlight—an effect of light no human hand could paint—above and behind the figure hovers a dark cross and this is what first suggested the famous title "The Shadow of the Cross."

At the World's Fair in Cormack's Chapel, in the Irish College the painting registered more paid admissions than any other single attraction of the fair grounds. It received a gold medal there and the daily papers were pleased to state it was the only novelty on the grounds. It also received gold medals at the Jamestown Exposition and the Alaskan-Youkon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle, Washington.

There is no question but that there will be an enormous array of cakes and bread of different kinds to be exhibited by the housewives of this section, and full co-operation on the part of the exhibitors will be sincerely appreciated and full co-operation should be given.

"THE ROSARY."

Well Known Drama Enjoys Fair Patronage at Two Performances.

Edward E. Rose, always essentially a dramatiser of sensational stories rather than a creator of melodramas, has put in his "The Rosary" just enough passable playwriting to relieve the whole from the charge of amateurish cheapness. In the past few years "plain speaking" has covered a multitude of very garish sins in playmaking; it has been the term misapplied to lines that approach very near the border of decency while doing nothing to strengthen the plot or making the plot worth a place in a play justifying an admission charge on the public.

There is plain speaking enough in every act of "The Rosary," the plot of which—with a complication or two more than usual and a somewhat original manner of placing responsibility for the domestic contretemps—is the usual tale of a rifted home caused by the revengeful machinations of a rejected suitor of the mistress of that home. Of course the rosary as an emblem of purity, the kindly interposition of an Irish-American priest in the troubles of the man and his wife, and the spiritual tone given the play by incidents featuring this emblem and religious utterances by the cleric ,are the best recommended phases of this play, as the public knows after three road seasons of it. But these phases are fairly skillfully drawn; there is nothing in the religious aspect that jars. And drama of this sort still has a considerable following.

The company is small, but Rufus L. Perry as "Father Kelly," and Miss Bethel Barth in the dual part of "Vera Wilton" (the wife, and "Alice March" (a twin sister on whom hinges the inception of the domestic trouble), are deserving of especial mention as giving earnest, capable reading to rather difficult parts. "The Rosary" was at the Auditorium yesterday, matinee and night.

Magical Effect of New Face Peeler

(Woman's National Journal.)

To maintain a clear, rosy, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolised wax, which you can get at any drugstore. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream. In the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. The wax causes the worn-out scarf skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young underskin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality, you wish you had heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago.

To get rid of your wrinkles, here's a formula that is wonderfully effective: 1 oz. powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pt. witch hasel. Bathe the face in this and you will be simply astonished at the results, even after the first trial.

NOSE AND HEAD STOPPED UP FROM COLD OR CATARRH, OPEN AT ONCE

My Cleansing, Healing Balm Instantly Clears Nose, Head and Throat—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges. Dull Headache Goes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharge and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing, but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

CALL FROM MISS GROSS FOR CULINARY DEPARTMENT

Miss Esther Gross reminds the women who intend to enter the bread and cake contests that on Wednesday of the coming week, also on the second Wednesday of the Palace season, her committee will receive entries and conduct the contests as has been done previously. The cakes will be judged on next Wednesday. Miss Gross will announce where these may be delivered and the hour for delivery, on Tuesday morning.

CITY FEDERATION MEETS FOR ROUTINE BUSINESS

Mrs. F. J. Lennox presided over a call meeting of the City Federation on Friday. Since the federation has applied for membership in the state federation a delegate is to be sent to Corpus Christi. Mrs E. M. Dotson with Mrs. Leslie Stegall, alternate, was selected. The standing committees for the year were announced. A professional decorator was present to present her plan for getting up the floats for the clubs that will enter the Woman's parade.

MR. AND MRS WILLIAM EARLY HAVE A SURPRISE SHOWER

It was the sweet reminder of absent though not forgotten which came into the William Early household with Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Early are just removed into their own home, out on Bell's Hill. The neighbors from Columbus street, where they resided from their marriage, together with members of the family, gathered in mass, each with some article for the new home, and showered Mr. and Mrs. Early. Nothing further need be said to assure that this was a sweet act upon the part of those near to this home, and that it was appreciated as such acts cannot fail to be.

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST HAS ENDORSED "THE LURE"

During her stay in New York City Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst was the box, for George Scarborough's play, guest of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont in her "The Lure." Between curtains Mrs. Pankhurst rose from her box seat and gave a short talk to the audience. She endorsed cordially the strong lesson taught by "The Lure." Mrs. Pankhurst is a believer in presenting the problems of morality before the footlight, since the lesson of the stage reaches many which the pulpit does not. The home friends of Mr. Scarborough are naturally interested in anything that comes from his successful theatrical venture in the East.

MISS EULA ROBINSON HAS BAYLOR SENIORS

For the first time since the senior class for Baylor 1914 was formed, the members came into social session. Miss Eula Robinson on North Thirteenth street thus has the distinction of being the first to entertain her classmates. She selected the witching hour of Hallowe'en and prepared her home, diversion and refreshments accordingly. Mrs. A. J. Armstrong and Miss Lily Mellroy were invited chaperones. The witch disclosed Miss Carrie Shell, who, in her cave, read the fate of each one, something "truly true," so she insists. The usual Hallowe'en devices of black cat and Jack O'Lantern gave the weird atmosphere which must come on the twenty-first of every October. The evening was full of fun and frolic.

THE VAUDEVILLE COMMITTEE IS DOING GOOD WORK

Because little is said, it is not because the vaudeville members for the entertainment on the night of Woman's Day is not to be something well worth while. The committee, the Mesdames Ludwell Williams, Miss Emma Beer, Mrs. Howard Mann and Mrs. W. J. Lincoln, are rehearsing the several numbers, and those who have been permitted behind the curtain, report that something will be doing along the line of vaudeville greatly to the credit of the committee and of the performers. It is intnded that each number shall be a surprise to the immense audience, both as to the performers and the nature of the number. This, it is, which makes little said. But, be assured, the committee is working hard, and something worthy their effort is to come on the night of the eighth.

THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY WITH MRS. M'REYNOLDS

The first monthly social session in a private home found Mrs. W. I. McReynolds of North Fifteenth street hostess. This home is admirably arranged for entertaining, and, for this occasion, gave welcome to a number of newcomers into the circle of the Austin Avenue Methodist missionary workers. Through the provision of the Mesdames H. D. Knickerbocker and J. W. Harris a delightful parlor program was enjoyed. In this the contributors were the Mesdames Tom McCullough, Wood, W. H. Forester, Knickerbocker and Miss Amelia Lewine. The attendance was quite full, notwithstanding the many distractions incident to the Cotton Palace opening. These social afternoons are provnig quite acceptable to the members of the society. The principal purpose is attained, that of making the newcomer feel that she has fallen among friends.

SUL ROSS MOTHERS CLUB HAS ROUSING SESSION

Many more mothers than usual, the teachers who are evidently interested, formed the meeting for the Sul Ross school on Friday afternoon. The vote was unanimous that this mothers club should join in the education section of the great Woman's Parade. The committe is appointed to get ready for the event. The mothers, by their interest give promise of a good club for this school. They were more than interested in viewing the many improvements to the school building since last year, especially the heating plant which has been installed. The social feature in this session was given accent. The enrollment is quite satisfactory, yet there are many more mothers who should be concerned in promoting the interests of the children who attend the Sul Ross school.

THE NUMBER TWO SOCIETY HAS CHANGE OF OFFICERS

The last Friday afternoon session of the Number Two Society was devoted to the hearing of reports from retiring officers and the induction of those who will carry forward the work for another year. In this Mrs. G. B. Foscue, the retiring president, was especially commended for the favorable reports made from all departments of Number Two work. None has ever been better. Among those present was Dr. F. C. McConnell who expressed for himself, and Mrs. McConnell, their appreciation for the reception tendered them on the night previous. This reception was the outward testimonial from the congregation for the pastor and his wife with whom they had been associated for four years. The time was consumed with the routine matters incident to a change in administration. Mrs. E. M. Dotson now holds the gavel for the Number Two.

MISS MARY ANNE WRIGHT HAS FOUR-YEAR-OLD GUESTS

On the east side, an important event has transpired. Miss Mary Anne Wright, the interesting little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright, has reached four years of age. But, more important to all the little lady's friends is the fact that she invited them to a birthday. And, most important is the fact that Mary Anne was brought into this home by the Hallowe'en fairies. Thus it came that a Hallowe'en party must mark this birthday. The lucky black cat stood guard everywhere, while Jack grinned through the pumpkin lantern to the intense delight of the little folks. Indeed, so many Jacks grinned that there was a lantern shower over the table where sat the birthday cake. This was cut, to find the ring in the slice of Josephine McGhee, the dime for Gilbert Ryan and the button for Adelaide Morris. Many little gifts went to the hostess, her most valued being a real diamond set into a tiny ring, from the aunt, Mrs. John Wright. Quite a number of grown ups were onlookers at these little party goers, they being Misses and Masters Myrtle Ingram, Clyde Coates, Alta Banner, Josephine McGhee, Adelaide Morris, Mary Frances Ryan, Winifred Gillam, Rose Mary McGhee, Aline Crippen, Mattie Crippen, Virginia Ryan, Franies Hall, Freddiebel Studer, Tilley Buchanan, Wilbur Wright, Gilbert Ryan, William Gill, Woody Chambliss.

MR. AND MRS. KINGSBURY HAVE HALLOWE'EN GUESTS

One of the jolly Hallowe'en gatherings came through the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kingsbury. These gathered the young folks of their neighborhood out at Alta Vista, together with some personal friends in other parts of the city, and afforded them the relaxation of a genuinely jolly time. The witch set up her cave for the evening in one of the home niches. Spooks came from Spookland to assist with the refreshments. The black cat perched at every point of vantage to impart the good luck atmosphere. The grotesque came in jack o'lanterns grinning from all sorts of odd nooks. The gruesome skull was on hand. Over it all the yellow and green of the Hallowe'en tide gave color tone. Fortunes came in plenty. The spooks are not quite clear as to who is to marry who, neither were the laws of bigamy clearly disentangled; but, one thing is sure, everybody has a fortune from the witch, and it will all come out right in the end.

Those who were thus entertained by a genial host and hostess are Misses Kathleen Scales, Ruth Scales, Mary Alexander, Josephine Caldwell, Nadine Hardy, Celia Moore, Mary Strange, Edith Lake and Turner, with the Messrs. G. H. Zimmerman, Herbert Ogg, A. E. Moore, D. C. Wood, John Atkinson, Giles Lester, Frank Machen, Joe Alexander, Tom Montgomery, Russell Kingsbury and Will Sedgwick.

MRS. GEORGE HUNTER SMITH COMPLIMENTS MRS. DUGGAN

The return to her old neighborhood and the friends of her former residence afforded Mrs. J. A. Duggan quite a pleasing card compliment with Friday afternoon. In this Mrs. George Hunter Smith invited the neighbors who were thus first to welcome the return of their friend. Auction bridge was played, one or two who are not card devotees calling during the game. From the neighbor gardens were cut sufficient beauty buds to give Mrs. Smith's parlors a beautiful setting. The place of honor in the floral treatment came in the reception hall, where, with Mrs. Duggan's compliments, a cluster of mammoth white "mums" were in evidence. The transit of the game was exciting, since auction bridge always is. Mrs. Duggan was greeted cordially at each table. Her especial favor for the afternoon was a lace stitched handkerchief, its duplicate going to Mrs. Robert Tolson for the high consolation cut. Mrs. J. J. Powers made the high score, her trophy being a book of late fiction. Following the game Mrs. Smith gave the acceptable departure in an old time tea drinking, the literal five o'clock tea where sociability is ever engendered. The guests of the afternoon were the Mesdames Sam Hanna, Harvey Penland, Erwin Clark, W. R. Davidson, J. J. Powers, Camille Franklin, Silas Newton, George Patten, Nathan Patten, Robert Tolson, Stark West, Clarence Hubby, Carter Brockenborough, Robert Coleman, M. D. Baker, W. A. Weddington, George McGhee, Huffman Baines, Howard Sanger with Miss Agnes Steele.

COTTON PALACE IS HERE; WHAT WILL THE WOMEN DO?

It is now the first day of the Cotton Palace. What will the women do with it? This means the women at large, for those who have worked heroically since midsummer now find their duty ceased until the close of the exposition. The rank and file of women, who have talked Cotton Palace, and have read about Cotton Palace, what is their part in this city's annual entertainment? This it is, and disloyal indeed is the woman who does not participate:

First of all, get the green, white and gold and wear upon the coat. Tie the same on the vehicle, and see that the husband has his knot in his coat button. Then secure free some of the Cotton Palace bunting flags, and place on the home. The women who live along the line of the parades can not afford to be unmindful of this last.

Next, inquire from the down-town shops for the women's Cotton Palace postcards. Direct these to friends who live in Cotton Palace territory and send to remind them of the great parade and general excitement of Woman's Day.

What more? There is plenty more. Every woman of Waco should feel her personal responaibility in making the stranger feel at home. We read our home papers daily; we know the lines of street car; we know how to get to the Cotton Palace; we know our city. But, does the stranger? Do

On The Firing Line

And Aiming for

100 Per Cent Efficiency

Just about one year ago our new and enlarged Department Store—the pride of Waco—was thrown open to the public; since that time, with an organization second to none, and a merchandise knowledge of a superior sort, it has established a record as the fastest-growing store in Texas.

Buoyed by the appreciative interest of an intelligent and friendly public, we are striving to make this "the 100 per cent Efficiency Store." But of course this is a human store, subject to the frailties of human nature; we do not claim absolute perfection here; but we are constantly "on the firing line"—striving, improving and working up to as near perfect system and service as intelligent and earnest effort can attain.

And now the opening of the Fourth Annual Cotton Palace Exposition finds every department in complete readiness, with the most extensive collection of high-class merchandise ever shown in Waco. The add interest for the thousands who will visit this store during the coming two weeks, we have opened up our Christmas displays, and our big Toy Shop on the Fourth Floor is well worth a visit.

Notice to Subscribers.

Delivery routes in the city of Waco are in the hands of independent Carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they can not afford to extend credit except month by month. They are not required, and are advised against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hardworking young men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the City of Waco by 6:59 a. m. and subscribers failing to receive the paper at this time will confer a favor by phoning the circulation department, both phones 1132, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

THE COMMISSION IS MAKING A SERIOUS MISTAKE.

The first meeting of the commission subsequent to the renewal of agitation for strict regulation of the driving of motor vehicles in this city, in view of the increasing number of casualties resulting from reckless and incompetent operations of cars and cycles, occurred Friday morning.

The commission in its meeting did not even touch on the situation.

The only official utterance concerning it that has been noted since the fatal striking-down of young Gill on October 26, was the Periclesian wisdom of our mayor that a drivers' examination and licensing ordinance would be "of little benefit" to Waco as it would not protect the public here against the recklessness and incompetence of visiting drivers!

Though the sheer necessity of such regulation and the sheer need of rigid enforcement of the speed and traffic regulations already established, have been brought home to the commission and the police month after month and emphatically with every recurrence of serious accident in the streets, there has been not the slightest move officially to put a stop to driving by the reckless and irresponsibly young and little apparent tightening of the lines in enforcing the regulations that do obtain.

If those in city hall are again possessed of their usual idea that this demand in behalf of public safety will be dropped as soon as the public memory of and comment on the Gill tragedy stale, they are making a careless, serious mistake.

If the commission and the police do not at once provide safe and sane regulations for the operation of motor vehicles, they are making a serious mistake.

There will be no end to killings by motor vehicles until means are provided for the police to put a stop thoroughly to reckless driving, and until the commission sees to it that present regulations are impartially and unceasingly enforced.

This nonfeasance of the commission in a matter of deep public concern will cause the people to speculate on the exact cause of the commission's trepidation.

Not a word of contradiction has been offered to our statement that ordinances requiring drivers of motor vehicles to pass an examination and be licensed has obtained beneficial results in other cities—even Texas cities.

There has been not a word of contradiction of the statement that the position of city examiner of motor vehicle drivers pays for itself.

The majority of owners of motor vehicles in this city are law-abiding, public-spirited citizens. The commission might incur the displeasure of a few selfish persons who are accustomed to permit young children and weak, unskillful women of their families to operate cars on busy streets, if it ordained that there must be official approval for all drivers of cars, but the general sentiment and opinion of the citizenship would be squarely behind such action by the commission.

If city hall does not act in this situation, the bulk of the blame for the next motor vehicle tragedy will be placed where it will belong—on city hall.

At latest advices, Mexico's George III and Lord North—Huerta and Blanquet—were still at work on the 274th statement of what they are going to do to the revolution.

THE CO-OPERATION OF EUROPE.

As to the announcement the president is expected soon to make, one of even greater importance, that will have to do with the relations of the United States and of European powers respectively in dealing with the problem of Mexico in particular, and with all similar problems on this hemisphere, the New York Herald says:

"The news contained in dispatches from Paris that European governments are exchanging views in a desire to come to some kind of an agreement upon a course of action to be pursued by them in regard to Mexico and the revelation that has come of the differences of opinion between the government of the United States and that of Great Britain have converted the Mexican problem into one broadly international."

Expressions of opinion of leading English newspapers, which have been emphasized by the Herald, show that many of them are seriously concerned lest the activities of the British government are being manifested along lines that may endanger the traditional friendship between the two great English speaking peoples. It has been openly charged that the policy of Great Britain toward Mexico has been dictated by political rather than national considerations, and an earnest protest against this by influential representatives of British public opinion was to be expected. This charge may not be true. If it is true it raises an issue that must be settled by the British people. President Wilson believes the responsibilities of the United States in the settlement of the Mexican problem far outweigh those of any European nation and of all Europe combnied. He will, in due time and through proper channels, give his reasons for the faith that is in him.

Analysis Rather Than Inspiration.

WANTED—a real ideal lover. Men who create them for books fall short in actual life.—Mary Boazman, in the Strand Magazine.

Naturally. Lamp a photo' of Bob Chambers, the world's premier maker of book lovers, for example. Bob's likeness would indicate that he could no more make love a la one of his hothouse heroes than he could fly with his ears. He has the face of an analyst, not of an inspired lover—or a novelist who novels under the inspiration of love. So with Hal McGrath, so with George McCutcheon. They are lookers on in the game that gives them the material for exaggeration; more, they are analysts of the feminine mind and nature insofar as any man can be an analyst of these. They give the ladies the mush the ladies think they want, large gobs of it. Thus their books a la carte get by and multiply.

"Confidence," says Jim Hill, pessimisming on the currency bill, "cannot be restored until the name 'bond' has won back something of its old standard." Fish tush! Any bond that is worthy of confidence has its old standard, alright—the standard of substance to back it.

THE SOUTHERN CYPRESS.

The federal department of agriculture announces that Mr. W. R. Mattoon, forest examiner, has left Washington to study cypress in the south.

Cypress grows along the Atlantic coast and Gulf of Mexico from Maryland to Texas, and in the Mississippi river valley it extends as far north as Cairo, Ill., at the junction of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. It is distinctly a tree of the swamps, and more than 90 per cent of it is found at an elevation of less than 100 feet above sea level. Extensive cypress forests occur in the delta of the Mississippi, covering several thousand square miles, and also in some of the large swamps of Alabama, Georgia and Florida, such as the Okefenokee and the great cypress swamps fringing the Everglades. In some places it occurs where the soil is covered with water for weeks or months at a time, and in a few places the base or trunk is submerged throughout the year. Usually the lower part of the trunk is heavily buttressed and numerous projections, or "knees," are sent up from the roots, probably as an aid in securing air.

Cypress wood has great durability, which adapts it to many purposes for which some other species are unsuited. Census statistics show that in 1911 over 981,000,000 feet of it were used for lumber, lath and shingles, and that in point of annual consumption it stands seventh among the various soft woods, or coniferous trees. It is one of the few conifers which shed their leaves each winter. It is used for a great variety of purposes, such as tanks, cisterns, columns, exterior and interior finish, railroad ties, poles and wharf piling. It is especially valuable for greenhouse construction.

While cypress wood has so many good qualities, the tree itself presents many problems to the forester. Its rate of growth, they say, is extremely slow, so that the cost of producing large-sized timber is great as compared with that of producing wood from other more rapid growing trees. Furthermore, it does not readily reproduce itself, and there is some doubt as to whether mature stands will replace themselves after being cut. It is an open question, according to the authorities, whether it will pay to maintain the species in localities where it now occurs. Much of the land upon which it grows is capable of high agricultural development when drained. Even where it might be reproduced, it is not known how this reproduction may be brought about. It is with a view to throwing light on these important problems that Mr. Mattoon is undertaking the present study.

The Sense of Edison.

Thomas A. Edison asserts, "No man knows one seven-billionth of one per cent of anything"—and he does not make an exception even of the high school seniors.—Kansas City Star.

There is no relevance in the comment. The wizard said, "no man."

THE "RIGHT MEN" NEEDED IN EVERY CASE.

In every instance of the innumerable comparisons of commission form of government for cities with the aldermanic form, the true conclusion advanced is that the success of the newer system has the same dependency as the success of the older—on the men who are elected to the commission. An illuminating case is noted in connection with the Cheyenne, Wyoming, change from aldermanic to commission form and the election of the coming week that will name the new commissioners. The State Leader of that city frankly discusses the change from the standpoint of personal fitness of the city's government under any form:

The theory on which the people of Cheyenne voted to change from the old plan of mayor and nine councilmen who were acting alone from publice spirit and patriotism, without any adequate compensation for their government, was, that a mayor and two commissioners who were paid an adequate compensation, would induce capable men to seek the positions, and would give all of their time, thought and labor to the problems of good government.

That theory proved abortive at the primary, considering, as a whole, the class of persons who were proposed for the places. Fortunately for the city the weeding-out process of the primary eliminated most of the incompetents and undesirables but at the same time resulted in the defeat of some first-rate men who aspired to the mayoralty and commissionerships.

While we notice no improvement in the personnel of the nominees for either of the positions to be filled, over the general run of the mayors and councilmen who have so unselfishly served the city for the past decade or so, it is vitally important that the electorate of the city, wisely, conscientiously and patriotically, in the final election on the 4th day of November, elect the best material among the present nominees for the respective offices.

It was never as incumbent upon the people to be vigilant and wise in the election of the city's rulers as now. There will be only three of them.

All of which goes to show that there is no automatic short and easy cut to good government. The citizen must do his duty under any form of government and he should not only be honest and sincere of purpose but he should comprehend the situation. He should to an extent be a master of the details of city affairs. His first duty of course is to vote for men for public affice who have integrity, honesty and ability, that is, whenever it is possible to do so. Sometimes there really isn't much choice.

"How Come?"

The tiger has fattened while the city has starved. The politicians have thrived on the city's sustenance. From this distance away it appears that New York, for the first time in many years, now has an excellent prospect of throwing off the grip of Tammany.—Macon News.

What a singularly erroneous opinion of the late Judge Gaynor and, by the same token, what an inconsistent estimate of the character of New York's probable mayor, John Purroy Mitchel. For Gaynor's was a "reform," anti-Tammany administration intrinsically and it is sought to put Mitchel in city hall to continue that principle and practice. Mitchel in Gaynor's rule was a member of the all-important board of estimate. If Tammany fattened and the city starved under the Gaynor and Mitchel regime, wherein by the election of Mitchel is there excellent prospect of throwing off the grip of Tammany? The News should track the news and follow the facts.

WOMEN HELP ROAD WORKERS.

The Christian Science Monitor (Boston) finds something pleasing in the attitude of the club women of Texas toward the movement for better roads and points to the instance in San Antonio as evidence that club women and society leaders are not altogether useless in the material advancement of the world and activities of a meaner nature which go to make up the sum of the world's progress. The Monitor considers that certain features of the program for good roads day on November 5 reflect "very eloquently some modern social conditions in the great southwestern state." Speaking of San Antonio, the Monitor has it that the leading club women there have "announced their intention of co-operating with the men in the improvement of the highways. Some forty of the leading club women of San Antonio are to take the matter of providing eatables and drinkables for the workers. Club women and women of social prominence all along the line of the San Antonio-Austin road in Bexar county have also indicated their intention to lend a helping hand to the cause. The club women and social leaders have fathers, husbands, brothers and friends in the working force, and when these are signaled by the different superintendents to lay down their picks and shovels for the noon hour, 'a procession of automobiles,' loaded with provisions and refreshments, will be on hand to provide the luncheon.

"That this process of road construction and this method of treatment for the road builders will be very different from the system that was in vogue throughout the southwest a few short years ago may be true without affecting the value of the work accomplished, except to increase it. The laborers will not be outcasts of society, nor will they represent an inferior grade of workers, but they may, nevertheless, be excellent road builders. It has been demonstrated in many vocations and many undertakings in these recent years that intelligence counts for more than ignorant drudgery, no matter how the latter may be backed by main strength, in any line of constructive effort.

"It is safe to assume that the fathers, husbands, brothers and friends of the advanced thinkers among the women of Bexar county, Texas, will make a showing in their day's work none the less creditable because a procession of automobiles has been attached to the amateur road making commissary service. The same impulse that moved them to strive for commercial, industrial and professional and social success, can be expected to spur them to excellent achievement in highway construction, and this impulse will be strengthened by the sympathy and practical assistance of women."

Wondrous Metamorphosis.

The Brooklyn Eagle, founded in 1841 and intended for a single political campaign, celebrates its seventy-second "birthday."—New York Herald.

"Tall oaks," wrote David Everett, a prodigy of the late 18th century, for a school declamation—"tall oaks from little acorns grow." Still are his lines quoted to the young as incentive to take heart, be ambitious, strive mightily; as an example of most wondrous change and growth. But here we have a more wonderful metamorphosis—a wouldbe David becoming a very Goliath; or that which was created for a raven of warning transformed into an Eagle of liberty. But we hope that political campaigns hereafter will not start allied newspapers, despite the example of Brooklyn Eagle. This is a very different day and political campaigns and newspapers in this day are very different.

GUAGING CANAL TRAFFIC.

Two and one-third billion dollars' worth of imports entered the various ports of the entire Pacific in 1912 and their exports aggregated another two billion. These figures, compiled by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, relate exclusively to international trade and do not include the domestic traffic of the score of countries fronting on that great body of water to which the Panama Canal gives a new entrance. Of this two and one-third billion dollars' worth of imports by the Pacific frontages, about one-half represents eastern Asia, a little less than one-fourth western America, and the remainder the countries and islands of the south Pacific. The imports of China are approximately 350 million dollars value; Japan about 300 million; Hong Kong 200 million; Straits Settlements, approximately 200 million, and Siam, French Indo-China, Chosen (Korea) and Asiatic Russia about 100 million dollars. Those of western South America are about 200 million; western North America (including 125 million at the Pacific ports of the United States) 200 million; Australia 375 million; New Zealand 100 million; Dutch East Indies 150 million; Philippine Islands 55 million, and the Hawaiian Islands 34 million dollars.

The figures of the Pacific coast trade go to show what traffic may be expected at the outset when the Panama Canal is opened to merchant ships.

WHERE PROGRESS AND FOOD SUPPLY CLASH.

The Department of Commerce features a report received from British Columbia regarding the catastrophe which has befallen salmon in the Fraser river. During recent blasting operations on the Canada Northern railway large masses of rock were dislodged and fell into one of the tributaries of the Fraser river, completely blocking the stream. At that time the sockeye salmon were ascending the river to spawn, and a body of fish, estimated to number not less than 1,000,000, were intercepted and all of them ultimately died before being able to deposit their eggs. This species of salmon is very particular in the choice of its spawning grounds and always selects for this purpose streams which are the feeders of lakes.

Great interest attaches to this matter because of the very extensive fisheries and canning plants in Puget Sound which are supported by the annual runs of spawning fish bound for the upper waters of the Fraser river. Minor spawning grounds exist on several streams in Washington, but the success of the industry and the livelihood of thousands of persons depend on the fish which reach the headwaters of the Fraser.

Assuming that half of the intercepted fish were females, it has been computed that the shortage in the egg crop this season will not be less than two to three billions. The effects of this catastrophe will be seen three or five years hence, when the 1913 progeny come back to the rivers to spawn. How serious the outcome will be can only be surmised, but in view of the large economic interests that are at stake in both Washington and British Columbia it is essential that extraordinary efforts be put forth in order to counteract the shortage as far as possible. The work should be conducted with greater consideration than ever before for the maintenance of the supply.

ANTI-TAMMANY FIGHT FORTIFIED.

The New York World, noting that independent Democrats have been freed from the necessity of voting in the Republican column or the Progressive column by the action of the Direct Primary Nominations Alliance in filing petitions for members of the Fusion ticket, and are now entitled to a column of their own, through which they can stand up and be counted as a separate body, says:

"A double opportunity is thus afforded independent Democrats to strike a blow against Tammany at the polls on election day. They will be supporting the Fusion ticket and repudiating Boss Murphy, and at the same time they will be giving emphatic expression to the demand that the fake Tammany primary system be done away with in favor of real direct primaries. They will be rejecting Tammany's candidates in the present campaign and the Delmonico Directorate that named them, and at the same time they will be voicing the will of decent Democrats that their party shall not be ruled by a boss, but by the voters themselves. The Direct Primary Nominations Alliance has united two anti-Tammany issues in one ticket and enabled independent Democrats to put themselves doubly on record by a single vote."

After the verdict in the Eaton case at Plymouth had been returned, Chief Justice Aiken warned the jurors to keep secret the proceedings in the jury room. And when a judge of the Massachusetts superior court thus holds converse with a jury, the jury neither spits tobacco juice on the floor of the courtroom nor brags of its deliberations in a neighboring saloon.

"Fiat money," Mr. Vanderlip terms the "ruinous policy congress is in danger of saddling on the country." Certainly. This congress has done no more than its predecessors to saddle the country with fiat manners, fiat morals and fiat marines, so it is entitled to fiat a little in the money line. With a little more fiat we will have a deal less Aldrich.

A really "modern science" alchemist is reported from London, but the Londoners are still too busy selling goldbricks in the form of clothes, antiques and African and Indian enterprises "debentures" to American tourists to pay much attention to mere laboratory manufacture.

It is cabled that Hon. Yuan Shi Kai has not decided whether he will have a Chinese or an American private secretary. We trust the new republic can go the American vaudeville and lecture lyceum managers a few thousand better and—boy! page ex-Hon. Bill Sulzer.

It may be that we will learn to love Julian Hawthorne. Washington Post suggests that if he should turn out a good line of literary stuff we will know what to do with Bob Chambers and Jack London.

President Wilson having enjoyed a trip "Down Mobile Bay" in the matter of the canal and the Mexican mess, will be in no mood for a journey up some creek in the matter of the currency bill.

Federal anti-trust performances were ever popular with the rank and file until congress—as per the cracker-barrel sages—invented the income tax in order to reach them malefactors of gur-reat wealth.

To date Indiana's oracular orator has not been requested to deliver the oration for the obsequies of the Republican party which is dying, by his diagnosis, of "internal strife."

A Boston man was given two months in the house of correction (theoretical correction) for heaving a cobblestone through the window of an eating place wherein he had been charged 15 cents for 42 baked beans. The sentence was just. The man was not sufficiently Bostonian to be possessed of genuine indignation at being accorded a raw deal in the matter of baked beans; he was merely seeking an excuse to indulge his national pastime of throwing a brick. His name was Mack.

Salt Lake City clubs are still placing an occasional stack of blues on the wives of the Latter Day Saints in Prophet Joe Smith's campaign against their split skirts.

Felix will find Galveston a much pleasanter wintering place than Vera Cruz and perhaps kind friends in that corner of Texas will prevail on him to remain away from San Antonio.

Washington ought to do something handsome when Johnny Lind comes marching home.

Texas Viewpoints.

Unusual and Praiseworthy Enterprise.

Viewspoints regrets that the extra edition of The Daily Texan (State University) of October 25 has not come to his table, that he might note first-hand the newspaper-like work of the staff that is making the Texan this year the banner volume in the history of that publication. He has heard of the issue, however, and a letter from the editor in chief, Ralph B. Feagin, indicates that the Texan is taking a deal of pride in this feat of regular newspaper publishing. The "extra" was due to the fact that the Texan arranged for a direct wire from the grounds in Dallas where the Texas-Sewanee game was played, to the university auditorium—thus giving some 300 students "at home" flash-prompt reports of the plays—and could have the game in print by 5:13 o'clock in the afternoon, and the paper on the campus for sale to students as they left the auditorium. This was an original departure not only among college papers in the south but among daily newspapers of the state, for football "extras" have been confined to the cities wherein the games were played. This feat is not surprising to one who has watched with much interest the course of the Texan since it entered the ranks of Texas dailies, for this little sheet is all alive and on the job. This and like unusual and praiseworthy enterprise by the university newsgatherer assure success in great measure; though the Texan already has succeeded notably.

Federal, State and City.

McKinney Courier-Gazette notes that "Representative Hull of Tennessee, author of the income tax provision of the tariff law, has begun a vigorous campaign for an amendment to the constitution limiting the membership of the national house of representatives to 50. The membership is now 435, and rapidly increasing, and Mr. Hull proposes this measure to keep the house from getting 'top-heavy.' The idea is a good one and it is hoped that the resolution, when presented, will pass without opposition. Our representation is sufficient even now for several million more people." Ability, statesmanship, disinterested patriotism—not numbers—are forming the criterion urged by publicists and many, many people in connection with the demand for more centralized governments. There are, too, many who have never been able to understand why population should cut any figure in states' representation in congress, each state by our governmental theory being due equal rights in the ordering of federal concerns, as exemplified by the makeup of the senate. From the first appeal for the abolition of the house of lords in England down to the proposal by the governor of Kansas, last winter, of commission form of government for states, the cry has been against unwieldly governments and specifically against two-branch legislative departments of government. The movement is gaining head more rapidly than the people seems to believe and has a remarkable deal to commend it.

A La Mex.

"They do," says Laredo Times, "some things in a queer fashion in Mexico." And they do. And none better than the Laredo Times knows they do. This was the "queer" that moved the Times's rumination: "A Mexican killed an American with an axe. Then the rurales came along and killed the assassin. Some other Mexicans thought that the partner of the dead American had killed the Mexican slayer, so they proceeded to pump the suspected American full of lead. Latest developments have not been learned." Undoubtedly latest developments have not been learned, if the latest developments were what we suspect they were, under the Mexican system of suppressing news of "government" setbacks. Probably these other Mexicans next proceeded to finish the rurales who finished the Mexican who finished American No. 1.

Boomerangy Brilliant.

We are indebted to Four States Press (Texarkana) for noticing that "the announcement that a Berlin baby was born without brains and lived four years causes the Memphis News-Scimitar to remark that there is nothing strange in the announcement, as most any of us fancy we can lay our hands on men and women who have lived many times four years multiplied, without brains." Which, from our experience, we would class as a boomerangy brilliant. Few paragraphers are without a correspondent in the woods somewhere who is accustomed to turn on the poor paragrapher any comment he may offer desperately on the longevity of the brainless.

PICK COLLECTORS OF NEW TAX

Three Hundred and Thirty-four Deputies, Forty Agents and 40 Collectors Are to Be Appointed.

Washington, Nov. 1.—With most of the regulations for the collection of the income tax out of the way internal revenue officers today turned their attention to the selection of the staff to collect the money. In the next few monthes three hundred and thirty-four deputy collectors, forty agents and forty inspectors are to be appointed.

Several thousand applications for these positions have been received at the treasury department. Appointments probably will be apportioned among the states and in most cases successful applicants will need the endorsement of collectors of internal revenue in their districts and be acceptable to senators and congressmen.

Although the operators of the income tax laws so far as concerned collection at the source of income began today, the actual cash will not reach the treasury for many months. Corporations and others who pay interest on bonds or mortgages or who pay salaries or other forms of income must withhold the normal tax of 1 per cent except as provided by the law. The return of the sums withheld will be made early in the year, but the collections will not begin until June.

Secretary McAdoo said that the regulations for the collections of the tax put out by the department might resuire changes from time to time.

WRONG DATE IS ANNOUNCED

Colquitt Gets Letter From President of Academy of Political Science.

Austin, Nov. 1.—Governor Colquitt was in receipt of a letter today from Samuel McCune Lindsay, president of the academy of political science of New York, regarding the appointment of delegates to the second national conference of currency reform.

An error was made in the communication of the president, giving the dates of the conference as November 14 and 15, instead of October 14 and 15, and as a consequence many delegates were not able to attend because of this discrepancy. The president of the association is writing each of the Texas delegates inclosing complimentary copy of the proceedings of the conference and asking their permission to be enrolled as members of the conference in the same manner as if the notice of their appointment had been received prior to the date the conference took place.

TEXAS POSTOFEICE RECEIPTS

Run Well Above Same Month Last Year—Rural Disbursements Show Increase.

Austin, Nov. 1.—Postoffice receipts for the state during the month of October reached the sum of $321,600, as compared with $286,200 for 1912. The rural disbursements for the quarter ending September 30 were $362,700, as compared with $490,100 for 1912. The receipts from the Austin office showed a decided increase. In 1912 the receipts were $11,632.82, while this year they totalled $13,650.47.

CLERICAL CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF MEXICO.

The clerical party leaders claim the election in the federal district of both the Presidential nominees and Members of Congress. D. R. PORTER TO SPEAK TO BOYS

WILL SPEND TWO DAYS HERE AFTER THE STATE CONFERENCE.

NEW CLASSES FOR Y. M. C. A.

High School Club to Hold Its First Meeting—First Aaid Class Will Be Organized.

David R. Porter, one of the senior boy secretaries on the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, will spend two days here immediately following the state conference held at Fort Worth on Thanksgiving Day.

Thousands of boys and young men from all parts of the United States can testify that the Y. M. C. A. is fortunate in securing Mr. Porter for these special metings for men and boys.

L. A. Coulter, state secretary for the Young Men's Christian Association, says: "I regard David R. Porter as the strongest and most effective speaker to boys in the country today. He is peculiarly fitted for his work among grammar school and high school boys."

Dalas and Waco are the only towns in Texas that he will visit while on his southern trip. The "High School Club" will have its initial meeting at this time and Mr. Porter will address them.

For Cleaner Living.

Plans are being made at the Y. M. C. A. for a hygienic and first aid class which will begin its regular work after the Cotton Palace. The object of this class is to promote higher and cleaner living and reach some fallen man or boy. The work in these classes will be more practical than it has ever been and every member will be urged to do some personal work. In this line of the work several of the best physicians in the city have been engaged as teachcers and instructors and in some cases they will make diagnoses and experiments along different lines.

Mothers Were Pleased.

On last Friday afternoon the mothers of the boys in the Y. M. C. A. visited their classes and expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the character of work that the boys were doing. It was explained by Mr. Flowers, secretary of boys' department, that several Bible classes would be started soon and that men had been secured to teach these classes who know how to instruct, interest and entertain. The social side of the boys' development will receive careful attention and at different intervals there will be entertainments and public contests.

For Physical Development.

Recognizing the great need of physical training in the world today the Y. M. C. A. makes a special effort to develop a man in an all-round way. Every man must have a certain amount of exercise for his actual needs. The close application of the average business man is an injury to the health unless some means of physical relaxation is daily indulged in.

For good all-round development, nothing is superior for the youth than track athletics. Considerable interest now centers around the track meet which will be held here at the Cotton Palace next week. Owing to having to practice indoors there has not been any opportunity for any heavy training, but the Y. M. C. A. has not neglected this important contest. Captain Coley says he has a number of star track men and some that would develop into record smashers if they only had time for proper training.

An Old Member's Reflections.

An old member of the Y. M. C. A. in years as well as in membership, has submitted the following:

"This is what I lost by not becoming a member of the Young Men's Christian Association years ago:

"I lost the opportunity for physical development which would have come through consistent work in the gymnasium.

"I lost the opportunity to learn to swim and as a result come near losing my life in the river one summer.

"I lost the knowledge of increased familiarity with the scriptures, which would have come to me by attending the Bible class.

"I lost the chance to make a lot of new friends who would have meant much to me in my recent days of sorrow and trouble.

"I lost the chance for a past record of service to others which would have been a joy to me in my old age."

The above is the lamentation of an old man to one of the officials a few days ago.

Rev. Mr. Greer of the Presbyterian church will address the men and boys Sunday afternoon and all men and boys are invited to attend.

HARVESTER SUIT BEGINS MONDAY

ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO DISSOLVE COMPANY AS ALLEGED TRUST.

IT WAS ORGANIZED IN 1902

In Answer to Suit Defendant Admits Purchase of Various Properties But Denies Monopoly.

St. Paul, Nov. 1.—The suit of the United States vs. International Harvester company to dissolve it, will come on for hearing in the United States District court here before Circuit Judges Sanborn, Hook and Smith on next Monday. In its petition, which was filed April 30, 1912, the government alleges that the International Harvester company was organized in 1902 as a trust, in violation of the Sherman law; that its purchase of the plants, properties and business of the McCormick, Deering, Plano, Warder, Bushnell & Glassner and Milwaukee companies created in that company a monopoly of the business in binders, mowers, rakes and binder twine in the United States, and that, in its business methods and practices, the company had increased its prices, to the grave injury of the farmers, and had coerced dealers and eliminated competitors.

The company, in its answer, filed August 5, 1912, admitted the purchase of the Harvester properties and business of the five vendor companies, but denied that the company was organized for any unlawful purpose or that such purchase gave it a monopoly in the harvester trade, or that it had increased prices, or that its business methods and practices had injured the farmers or the dealers, or its competitors, but, on the contrary, its answer stated that its organization and business had been a benefit to the farmers in improved machines and service, and in the low prices of the machines.

The taking of evidence on behalf of the government began at Chicago on September 16, 1912, before Robert S. Taylor, examiner. The government called witnesses at hearings held in Chicago, New York, St. Louis and St. Paul.

On behalf of the Harvester company witnesses were called at hearings held at Omaha, Neb.; Wichita, Kan.; Kansas City, Mo.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; St. Paul, Minn.; Pittsburg, Pa., and Chicago.

The taking of evidence was completed on June 27, last. The record returned to the court by the examiner consists, with the exhibits of eighteen printed volumes, of about 600 pages each.

This case is believed to be a record, both in the number of witnesses examined and in the short time taken in preparing the case for hearing.

Counsel representing the government are Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the attorney general of the United States, and Joseph R. Darling; and for the defendants, Judge William D. McHugh of Omaha and John P. Wilson and Edgar A. Bancroft of Chicago.

SOCIALIST ORATORS

TWO SPEAKERS OF NOTE WILL BE HEARD ON NOVEMBER 9.

Renters' Convention to Be a Feature of the Gathering of the Texas Socialists Here.

The socialists of Waco are making great preparations for their day, next Sunday, November 9, when T. A. Hickey, of Hallettaville, will lecture on "Land and Liberty" at 12:30 p. m., and Stanley J. Clark of Oklahoma City will lecture on "Socialism" at 1:30 p. m., both addresses to be delivered to the throngs in the spacious Cotton Palace coliseum. Socialists headsuarters will be established and all visitors will be furnished with plenty of literature.

Renters' Convention.

Delegates to the Renters' Convention, which convenes in Waco on the eighth and the State Socialists Convention, to be held on the tenth in Waco, will add considerably to the crowds who will be here during the exposition on business and pleasure bent.

Stanley J. Clark is the associate editor of the Social Democrat of Oklahoma City, and has been connected with the socialist movement eighteen years. He was chairman of the socialists national convention of 1908 which nominated Eugene V. Debs for the presidency of the United States on the socialist ticket.

Clark Noted Orator.

He was also a member of the platform committee of that convention. Mr. Clark is known as one of the greatest orators and debaters in the south on socialism.

T. A. Hickey, editor and publisher of "The Rebel," at Hallettsville, Texas, is one of the best known socialists of the southwest. He has made the land question a special study and his address will be very interesting.

According to two French scientists, 10 per cent of the chickens in that country have tuberculosis, and the disease among poultry runs as high as 28 per cent in some other lands.

Cotton Palace Ginger Ale is better. At all first class fountains, clubs and bars.

TO BUILD BRICK ON SOUTH EIGHTH

ABEELS TO TEAR AWAY OLD HOUSE AND IMPROVE PROPERTY.

ICE PLANT TO BE ENLARGED

Geisler Buys a Lot on North Ninth and Will Build—Duke Buys From Brown.

The old landmark at the corner of South Eighth and Mary streets, which thirty years ago was a pretentious building, and which for many years was owned by Tom Padgitt, but within the last year has been purchased by Alfred and W. C. Abeel, is to be torn away and modern improvements will occupy the site.

The low red brick, with the round corner, is really an "oldest citizen." It has served its purpose in many lines of commerce in the days gone by. Being directly on the route to the Cotton Belt and M., K. & T. depots in the early days of the building of the railroads through here, it was a good business site, and it has had its earning capacity in its time. But of recent years it has been out of harmony with the surroundings. The big Cameron building across the street from it and the overshadowing freight depot opposite, have made it look rather inconsequential. Since it passed into possession of the Abeels plans have been making for its use for manufacturing purpoes, and the announcement is now made that the property is to be improved.

To Put in Ice Plant.

Within thirty days work of tearing away the old brick is to commence. The Big Four Ice and Cold Storage company has made arrangements for a two story pressed brick building, on the Eighth and Mary streets property, the Mary street frontage of 116 feet to be entirely occupied. The front of the new building is to be occupied as stores and the rear will be for a fifty-ton ice plant, that addition to be added to the ice making capacity of the Big Four company.

With this addition the Big Four company will have a capacity of 150 tons of ice per day, besides the refrigeration of their own cold storage vaults of the Turner-Coffield company, the Robinson Packing company, the M. B. Ise Kream company and the Big Four Packing company, all of which plants are located on the Big Four property.

The Big Four company maintains its own line of refrigerator cars and ships ice to twenty-five adjacent towns, where the company has ice houses and delivery systems.

Waco is well equipped in the matter of ice making capacity. The plants here are not only of sufficient capacity for the local use, and can supply the demand under all circumstances, but more than double the amount of ice is shipped out of Waco every season than is shipped out of any other town in the state.

Geisler Is to Build.

A real estate deal which may mean that a store building may soon occupy the piece of ground that changed hands was consummated yesterday when E. M. Ainsworth sold to W. J. Geisler a lot 37½ by 110 feet on North Ninth street between Austin and Washington streets. The consideration was $6,000. The deal was made through the Peyton Randle & Co. agency. It is understood that Mr. Geisler will within a short time begin the erection of a building on the lot which will be occupied by his firm of Geisler & Wosnig.

The lot is situated just around the corner on Ninth from the Riggins hotel building, now in course of erection. At present there is no building on it.

Trackage Property.

Another real estate deal in which business property figured was also closed yesterday wherein W. S. Duke purchased a lot at Eleventh and Webster streets from Dr. R. C. Brown. The consideration in this sale was $6,000. The property is considered trackage lots, affording facilities for easy access to the railroad lines.

JOHN A. HENNESSY IS BORN FIGHTER

LEADING FIGURE IN WEEK'S NEW YORK POLITICS LOVES A SCRAP.

IS FORMER NEWSPAPER MAN

As Managing Editor of New York "Press" Defied State Senate and Assembly.

The chief figure of the week in politics is without doubt John A. Hennessy, whose attacks on Edward E. McCall and Charles F. Murphy have given an utterly new twist to the New York municipal campaign. It has been asked on many sides who he is and what is the calibre of the man who has made such sensational statements. To newspaper men and to politicians the answer has been easy, for Mr. Hennessy is known thoroughly by both, having worked for newspapers since boyhood and at various times engaged actively in politics.

Mr. Hennessy is a fighter. He loves a fight as much as a duck loves water. He is short of stature, well knit, sandy haired, blue eyed—all qualities of a fighter, and of course he is Irish. His fondness for strife has been put down by friends who admire him intensely and enemies who denounce him just as ardently as having led him to extremes. But in most instances it has been admitted that Mr. Hennessy has gone to extremes not for himself, but in the interest of his friends.

His Coolness Big Asset.

Another quality of Mr. Hennessy is coolness. He is full of "nerve," ready to tackle any proposition, and throughout his life he has been conspicuous in smaller ways for just such a contest as he is waging at present.

Mr. Hennessy's father was John C. Hennessy, who for many years was connected with the New York Times. "John A." as he is called along Park Row, went to work first as an office boy and soon became a reporter. He wrote racing articles for the Mail and Express under the signature of "Black and Blue." Then he became a political writer. He was elected to the state assembly from the old Tenth ward district, Brooklyn, ruled at that time by Alderman James McGarry and James Shevlin. He met at that time William Sulzer, who became speaker of the assembly. On the floor of the assembly Sulzer relied on Hennessy for much help, and the friendship that started there has been unbroken for twenty years.

Mr. Hennessy fought Hugh McLaughlin and John Y. McKane in Brooklyn and in the course of that fight he became acquainted with William J. Gaynor, the late mayor of New York. Mr. Hennessy sought re-election, but he was defeated and he returned to devote his entire time to newspaper work. He has been just as fearless in his writing as in his campaign speeches. As managing editor of the New York Press in July, 1905, he defied the joint session of the senate and the assembly at the time of the hearing of the charges against Justice Warren B. Hooker.

Hennessy Subpoenaed.

The Press printed a story on July 12 of that year charging that "politics and boodle" seemed to be playing a part in the hearing of the charges. Straightway Ervin Wardman, editor, and John A. Hennessy, managing editor of the Press, were subpoenaed to appear before the joint session and to bring with them messages, copy and other material that might show the authorship of the article. Mr. Hennessy retorted by defying the joint session.

He sent a letter denying the right of the joint session to subpoena him regarding the authorship of the article, and he did not obey. His action caused a sensation in the legislature. Finally the subpoena was modified, making him a witness at the hearing.

Mr. Hennessy figured in a row with Oscar Hammerstein and his sons several years ago in the course of which Mr. Hennessy struck one of the impresario's sons in the Jefferson Market court. The trouble was started when Hammerstein sent a letter to the editor of the Press regarding two reporters sent from the Press to interview him. The reporters demanded an apology and failing to receive it attacked Mr. Hammerstein.

The incident caused a long disagreement between the Press and the theatrical interests.

When Mr. Gaynor was elected mayor he selected Mr. Hennessy to make an investigation of the City Record. Mr. Hennessy's inquiry enabled the mayor to save large amounts yearly on the publication. Mr. Hennessy refused to accept a place in the mayor's cabinet.

Becomes Sulzer's Auditor.

After Mr. Sulzer became governor Mr. Hennessy became his auditor with powers to examine all bills and pass upon them before they were paid. He resigned that job to take a place in the highway department and to become investigator under the Moreland act. In other words he became Mr. Sulzer's chief graft investigator and remained one of his chief advisers.

Mr. Hennessy's first investigation caused work to be stopped on the rebuilding of the burned capitol in Albany. He says that caused the first trouble between Sulzer and Murphy. Next Mr. Hennessy delved into the highways and the barge canal contracts. He says he found that roads were being built throughout the state at a cost of $15,000 to $20,000 a mile and that many of them needed repairs within six months.

The statement is made that after Sulzer was impeached and the authority of the Moreland commission was denied as a result of the impeachment Mr. Hennessy spent his own money in continuing his investigations, using more than $2,500.

Mr. Hennessy has two brothers, Joseph P. Hennessy, a city assessor by appointment of Mayor Gaynor, and Charles O'Connor Hennessy, who is a member of the New Jersey legislature.

BIRD MEN RACE AS MEMORIAL TO THE FIRST FLIGHT.

As a memorial to the first flight in a power driven aeroplane, which took place ten years ago, when the late Wilbur Wright piloted his biplane for the first time through the air, five aviators completed a circuit around Manhattan Island, starting from Oakwood Heights, Staten Island. The meet was held under the auspices of the Aeronautical Society and the winner of the prize of $1,000 was W. S. Luckey. It seemed fitting that the decennial celebration should find the victor flying in the same type of machine that the Wright brothers made famous. In spite of the fact that the monoplane has demonstrated its superiority as a machine whose chief essential is speed Luckey's biplane, a 60 horse power Curtiss, showed the way to the field. Frank Niles, in another biplane of the same make and horse power, finished in second position, winning $750, and C. Murvin Wood in his 80 horse power Moisant military monoplane was third, getting the third prize of $500 for his flight.

Wants Pay for Ice During War.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Because Samuel Ramsey, a government clerk, was kind to the ice man during the civil war, his estate is now seeking to have the supreme court require the ice man's estate to pay some $9,000.

The ice man was Joseph W. Parish, who furnished ice to the army in 1863. In the nineties, while still pressing his claim for payment, Ramsey helped Parish make computations and loaned him money. It is contended Parish promised to pay Ramsey five per cent of whatever he should collect.

Parish's estate recently received $181,000 from congress for the old ice bill and now Ramsey's estate is insisting upon its five per cent.

our women when they arrive at another city? Think what it means to the excursionist to see women who have approachable manner from whom they feel at liberty to inquire which car to take, what the program is, when the parade will pass, where certain shops are, and so on. Women of Waco, it is your imperative duty to be on the outlook for this, and to be all that comes in your way to the guest within our gates. Out at the Palace, approach the strangers, tell them some of the interesting points in the exhibits, call their attention to the history of our town as given in the rotunda, tell them what you may know of the program. In other words, take an interest in the stranger. Give of your personality so that the welcome will be felt. Make the visitor feel at home this season and he will come, perhaps with his friends, next. The few Cotton Palace directors and lady managers cannot produce this impression; it takes the combined citizenship to do it. Every woman is a part of this and every woman must feel her responsibility.

Another, although a minor feature, is, we should cultivate the habit of applauding parades. So far, thousands of us gather and stand as silent as the Sphinx in the African desert. We must remember that thought, time and money has been put into the floats and vehicles which form the parade. The musicians have practiced long for their parts. The Cotton Palace is a carnival and we should all get the carnival spirit. Read Hawthorne on the carnivals which he attended at Rome. Hear about he carnivals of Mardi Gras over in New Orleans. Attend the Battle of Flowers in San Antonio. Everybody is jolly. Everybody catches the carnival spirit. Waco must do the same. Every parade which comes with this Cotton Palace season must receive hand clap all along the line, and the women must start it. The mass will very soon fall in.

So, women of Waco, you have a duty for the coming two weeks, will you meet it? We are sure you will.

Society Notes.

The expected visitor to Mrs. Adrian Moore, Miss Louise Harrison, has deferred the time of her arrival indefinitely. This is owing to an attack of appendicitis since the promised November visit to Mrs. Moore and Texas.

There was the time when we talked about our babies and our cooks; now, is the time, when we talk altogether about the rush of living.

Among noteworthy homecomings will be that today of Mrs. J. C. Eaton, who has spent several months with her son, Fred Eaton, in California. She arrives for the winter at home and is with her daughter, Mrs. Curran, on Lyle avenue.

Relatives with whom she is visiting in Ohio have prevailed upon tMrs. Bessie Ficklen to prolong her absence from Waco. She now has no time set for her return home.

The first evidence of Cotton Palace loyalty from those who represent the social life of our city must be one grand rally to the society ball. This comes on Wednesday night, and will be the most brilliant living picture ever shown in the Cotton Palace coliseum. This will be society's contribution to attract thousands of spectators.

Have the smile of welcome and the word of information for every stranger whom we meet within the next two weeks.

Among the departures of Saturday was that of Miss Hallie Jenkins for Pilot Point. Miss Jenkins will be maid of honor for Miss Katherine Harper, who has more than once been a guest in the Jenkins household here.

By the way, do you know why we wear the green, white and gold during Cotton Palace days? It is because these were selected as the tones nearest the three tints of the cotton boll, patron of our exposition.

The Texas flag at last! Are we not proud to see it waving from our Palace? Not once, but everywhere does the Lone Star float. Why the single star? Who can tell?

Have a thought for the persecuted animals in the Palace park. Let every one be a humane officer, if the little folks worry the animals too much.

Notwithstanding the warning given in this column, the police had to be called for the Hallowe'en hoodlums, children from neighborhoods where mothers are expected to exercise more authority. Why does this occur? Are there not refined ways of enjoying one's holiday?

Take one afternoon for the relics in the general curio booth, also those in the Mary West booth. Many things there are of absorbing interest. For instance, will not every minister in Waco take kindly to the copy of the first sermon ever preached in America? Also, will not every good southerner take interest in seeing General Lee's chafing dish? Also, many styles and customs will be observed. This is an historical education for the children. And yet, we sail by these interesting exhibits to run out where the "spielers" for the side shows are busy.

Be it said to the public spirit of the women of Waco and loyalty to their Cotton Palace that not one social entertainment is scheduled for downtown; and, scarce is there a social club in session. This is in order that all may concentrate upon the Palace and make it a success.

Have all noted that C. H. Cox with Mr. Colman will advise with the women concerning their floats, designs and decorations, free of charge? Mr. Cox requests the women to feel free to call upon him between this and the woman's parade.

Make the Cotton Palace instructive to the children. Many a mother takes her child out, turns him loose for a good time, and never sees him until the time comes to return home. How great an opportunity lost! Do go with the child through the Palace, call his attention to what is educational, talk with him, interest him. After he has seen the exhibits intelligently, then let him have all the frolic possible. The Cotton Palace is for amusement, to be sure, but instruction should come first.

Is not this a good time to carry home bundles? If we do, the delivery boys may find time for more evenings at the Cotton Palace. It is a wholesome accompaniment in thought to carry, "A little nonsense, now and then, is relished by the best of men."

Some one suggests that it would be an interesting opening to the women's vaudeville for all who appear in costume within the grand woman's parade to give the grand ensemble opening for the evening's entertainment, something after the grand entrance into the circus tent. We all know how imposing this is. From what is heard in advance the women will appear in every age of costume, and all sorts and conditions of impersonations of women.

Personal friends and members of the Methodist congregations are hearing with pleasure that Mrs. J. T. Bloodworth is now a permanent resident of this city.

Among present old home visitors is Mrs. M. S. Hotchkiss, now of Mineral Wells. She remains a guest in the N. A. Olive household, Fort avenue, until Tuesday, when she leaves for Temple, but returns to enjoy the Cotton Palace before her homegoing.

INJUNCTIONS AGAINST INMATES.

Reservation at Dallas Is to Be Closed Tomorrow.

Dallas, Nov. 1.—One hundred and fifty petitions asking for injunction against the residents of the reservation are in the hands of the district clerk and process is being prepared for issuance. Unless the inmates of the restricted district leave the place for two weeks' board when she said issued. Officials will not make statements regarding the plan of operation in closing the district but it is believed they have planned to have as many officers as possible to take the papers to the defendants in the petitions for enjoinments. About 400 names are mentioned in the petitions.

Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock is the date and hour fixed for closing the reservation. It is believed by the time the hour arrives, most of the inmates will have abandoned the place. Several complaints have been verbally made to county officials, in which it is claimed the owners of the houses are holding the trunks belonging to the inmates. A woman this morning appealed for help at the county attorney's office and declared the proprietor was holding her trunk by Monday afternoon these will be she owed nothing.

Dallas Warehouse Fire.

Dallas, Nov. 1.—A blaze occurred about 7 o'clock this morning when the copper shop and asphalt warehouse of the Texas company caught fire. The cause of the fire is not known, as hardly anyone was at the offices at the time of the fire.

The fire, which was fed by the asphalt, made a very dense smoke, making the sky look as if the whole of South Dallas were on fire. The firemen made a quick run to the scene and put out the fire with a slight damage, compared to the value of the buildings and stock in the immediate vicinity of the blaze, which were saved from the fire.

...THERE IT'S CRUEL TO FORCE OIL OR CALOMEL INTO A SICK CHILD

"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" CAN'T HARM TENDER STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "physic" that mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing give "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow. It should be the first remedy given as it always does good, never any harm.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

GOVERNOR IN GALA PARADE

decorated with the colors of the Cotton Palace.

Holds Public Reception.

Other waiting automobiles accompanied the members of the committee and the entire party was whisked away to the State House, where for nearly two hours Governor Colquitt held levee, strolling about the lobby and corridors and shaking hands with scores of old friends, personal and political.

Shortly after the executive's arrival he was joined at the hotel by Lieutenant Governor Mayes, who assisted him in receiving the crowd that flocked to shake hands with the chief executive officer of the state.

Colonel Wahrmund Ill.

Col. E. R. Yorke, assistant adjutant general, was with the reception party at the railroad station. He came yesterday to assist Col. Gross and his committee in making arrangements for the reception and entertainment of Governor Colquitt. Col. Otto Wahrmund of the staff of the governor, who was expected here, sent his regrets, explaining that illness prevented him from making the trip to Waco.

Military Escort.

Among the first to welocme the executive on his arrival was Captain Preston A. Weathered, in command of Company K, Second Regiment, Texas National Guards, who presented other officers of the military company to the distinguished guest.

Following the informal reception to the public held at the hotel the governor and his party returned to the decorated automobiles and joined in the parade to the exposition park, Captain Weathered's company acting as a military escort for the executive.

An Imposing Parade.

The parade with the governor of Texas as its central figure was even a more imposing pageant than the committee in charge of the arrangements had planned. The line was organized by Chief Marshal S. S. Fleming and his aides shortly after 7 o'clock.

Thousands of spectators thronged the streets around the State House, the starting point, for more than an hour before the marching order was given by the chief marshal.

From 6 to 7 o'clock Governor Colquitt was serenaded by two brass bands, Alessandro's musicians and the band of sixteen pieces from Baylor university playing alternately. The music served to relieve the monotony of a long wait for the assembled multitude.

How the Column Moved.

The procession was led off by a detail of twelve mounted police, with Alessandro's band following. Then came Company K, with Captain P. A. Weathered in command. Following the military came the automobile occupied by Governor Colquitt, Mayor Mackey, Adjutant General Hutchings and a chauffeur, the adjutant general being in the full uniform of his rank and the governor attired in conventional afternoon dress, while Mayor Mackey adhered to his democratic business suit.

Next in line was an auto carrying two members of the Colquitt staff, Lieutenant Colonels Frank A. Chapa and Abe Gross; Col. E. R. Yorke, assistant adjutant general; E. R. Bolton, W. P. Hobby and Lieutenant Governor Mayes.

Farther down the line the parade was graced by the presence of two ladies in H. M. Baine's auto, Mrs. H. M. Baine and Mrs. M. M. Harris, with Mr. Baine, Mr. Harris, State Treasurer J. M. Edwards and E. M. Drake of the Chamber of Commerce.

Directors in Line.

President W. H. Hoffmann and the rest of the directors of the Cotton Palace appeared just behind the governor's party, and following them came a brave army of the officers and directors of the Young Men's Business League, the latter riding in decorated cars.

The band from Baylor university marched immediately behind the business men and after them came the cute little ponies from McGregor, with riders that were cuter still. The little girls and boys, the girls being in the majority, wore khaki uniforms and ranger hats. The children's division was followed by the members of the city commission in autos, and after them the county commission and county officers, including Judge Denton.

Fire Department's Fine Display.

Other automobiles were occupied by members of the Chamber of Commerce, city officers and citizens not marching with any organized body. Bringing up the rear was the fire department in goodly array. The eighteen pieces of apparatus were decorated with small United States and Confederate flags and all carried the colors of the Cotton Palace, the firemen making a display that reflected credit upon the department. Commissioner Dollins expressed himself as delighted with the splendid showing made by the men and the apparatus.

The route followed by the parade was down Franklin street to Third, thence to Austin, up Austin to Twelfth, to Clay, thence to the Cotton Palace. All along the route the sidewalks were banked so deep with spectators that the streets were impassable. At several points along the line the governor was cheered by street crowds.

Governor Arrives at Palace.

The arrangements committee had provided large quantities of red fire flambeaux and distributed them among the business men and officials before the parade started. These were burned as the procession moved through the streets, the illumination the red lights afforded giving a spectacular appearance to the whole pageant.

Arrived at the exposition park, Governor Colquitt and his staff officers were escorted by the reception committee to the main building and shortly after 8 o'clock the formal opening exercises were in swing.

as is plainly evidenced by the exhibit. The collection ranges in variety from the primary work of cutting out paper dolls to the stages when books are written by the pupils, with their own illustrations.

The wisteria tea garden on the second floor of the main building, besides being a welcome invitation to rest, is exceedingly picturesque. Chairs and tables are disposed beneath an arbor of imitation wisteria that lacks little of being a perfect picture of a summery bower in Japan.

The Pony Drill.

The feature of the afternoon's program was the drill of the pony cavalcade from McGregor, under the management of Joe A. Cavitt. The khaki-clad boys and girls put their ponies through the complicated movements of the regulation army drill with absolute precision, bringing frequent rounds of applause from the crowd as they wheeled into their formations in perfect order. The drill was performed on the race track, back of the Warpath.

Daredevil's Narrow Escape.

The most sensational of the free acts proved to be the daredevil bicycle leap, which, on its very first performance, came near to a fatal termination. The rider, dashing down a precipitate runway on his bicycle, sprung out into the air; he was supposed to disengage himself from the wheel in midair and dive forward into a tank, a net breaking the fall of his machine. A slight miscalculation, apparently, caused him to fall short of the tank into which he attempted to plunge; but, striking the edge of the net, he bounced off into the water without injury.

Oratory and Music.

After a concert by Alessandro's band President Hoffmann made a short speech to show the appreciation of the exposition management for the work of the citizenship of Waco, and especially for the work of the ladies.

Mayor Mackey then introduced Governor O. B. Colquitt, who made the address by which the Cotton Palace was declared open to the public.

The Governor's Ball.

After the close of his speech, the floor of the coliseum was cleared, the band struck into a spirited march and Governor Colquitt, with Mrs. J. W. Bass, led the march that inaugurated the first Cotton Palace dance of 1913.

Fifty couples followed the chief executive of the state in the march. But the dance had not been in progress five minutes before the floor capacity was crowded.

Alessandro's dance music was of the liveliest nature and an encore to every piece was forced by the applause.

While the dancers continued their revelry indoors, the rest of the throng scattered along the Warpath. Above the music of the merry-go-rounds and the loud entreaties of the "spielers," the shouts of the crowd of pleasure seekers could be heard for blocks away. It was past 11 o'clock before the crowd had begun to thin, and midnight when the last scattering remnants of the revelling thousands left the park deserted.

The total of admissions for the day was approximately 9,000, which is double the number ever known before on an opening date.

GAME SEASON OPENS.

Gun Cracks Heard in the Coast Country.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 1.—Gun cracks heard from one end of the coast country to the other today signalized the official opening of the game season. Sportsmen report but few ducks and geese in evidence as yet, but the crop of doves and quail is declared to be unusually large.

Seaman Commended.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Secretary Daniels today sent a commendatory letter to John Michael Keane, ordinary seaman, on board the destroyer Cummins, for bravery in jumping overboard and rescuing a drowning man.

The largest two direct current dynamos ever built have been completed in Germany, each with a capacity of about 50,000 sixteen-candle power lamps.

Some Thing.

In the early days of Arizona, an elderly and pompous chief justice was presiding at the trial of a murder case, says the National Monthly. An aged negro had been ruthlessly killed, and the only eye witness to the murder was a very small negro boy. When he was called to give his testimony, the lawyer for the defense objected on the ground that he was too young to know the nature of an oath, and in examining him, asked:

"What would happen to you if you told a lie?"

"De debbil 'ud git me!" the boy replied.

"Yes, and I'd get you," sternly said the chief justice.

"Dat's jus' what I said!" answered the boy.

OUR NEWEST AMERICAN PLAYGROUND

Blackfeet Indians at McDermott Falls

Reflection-Two Medicine Lake

Going to the Sun Camp

Cut Bank River and Camp

This American Switzerland Is One of Nature's Tramps and Its Magnificent Scenery Equals Any That the Alps Can Offer.

How would you like to ride by horseback, stage or automobile, over a road bordered by a tall spruce, fir, cedar and tamarack and see the timid, gentle deer peep out at you between the lower branches? How would you like to fish in mountain lakes and glacial streams and in one day catch several ten and twelve-pound trout? How would you like the exhilarating experience of climbing a glacier and picking your way past deep crevasses, carefully following a trusty guide while you dig your hob-nailed boots into the ice? How would you like to take a launch ride over a pellucid lake, hemmed in by high mountains and land at a little chalet—for the time being your very own—on a cliff overlooking this deep blue lake? How would you like—? But why repeat the question? Of course you would like it. What normal person, man, woman or child would not?

All this is being done in the heart of our own America, in that newly acquired and magnificent Rocky Mountain playground, the Glacier National Park. Best of all it is a distinctively "See America Region." It belongs to the people of the United States, to you and me, and to future generations. People have been going to Europe for many years just to get a glimpse of what we have here at home.

Backbone of American Rockies.

It is a magnificent country this—the Glacier National Park region. It is so new, so unspoiled, so filled with natural wonders, and it holds the very backbone of our American Rockies with their stupendous elevations which range from three thousand to over ten thousand feet. The eastern entrance to this American playground is at Glacier, and Belton furnishes a gateway at the western end. This makes the park readily accessible to either eastern or western travelers. A frequent and delightful mode of travel is to enter at one gateway and depart at the other, making in this way the circuit of many of the park's best known and most interesting attractions.

Coming from the east, one approaches to the very foot of the Rockies, where he finds a new up-to-date hotel modeled after the Forestry Building at the Portland fair. Set on a knoll that overlooks surrounding mountains, it is equipped with the conveniences of a city hotel, while its architecture gives the keynote to the outdoor life that awaits in the park's interior, for it is built of huge logs.

Here, when one is ready to depart for the park's interior, the clothes of fashion are cast aside and the hunting suit, divided skirt, shirt waist and nailed boots and broad brimmed hat are donned. From here the traveler starts to see the wonders, to sleep and eat in unique Swiss chalets built at Two Medicine Lakes, Cut Bank Canyon, St. Mary's Lake, Going-to-the-Sun Mountain, Gunsight Lake, Sperry Glacier, Mary Glacier and Granite Pass. You can take your choice of one or all of these but concerning their scenic beauties there is a secret. It is this. If you see one you will want to see them all and when you have seen them all you will wish to go back and see them over again, for the lakes, mountains, glaciers, and meadows of wild flowers are so beautiful and the chalets so unique.

One can stay one day or many in this magnificent Park, the number of beauties that one sees depending of course on the time. Some persons spend all summer, others stay two weeks or ten days, and pass from camp to camp to get an idea of what the park offers. In a region which embraces 1,400 square miles of the main ranges of the Rockies, that is a part of the great Continental divide, that is sixty miles from northwest to southeast and forty miles wide from east to west, one can spend a whole summer and feel that many of the attractions have not been seen.

The Blackfeet Indians.

Let us in imagination take a hurried trip through this park, stopping at the attractive camps to get some idea of its beauties. At the Glacier Park hotel at the entrance we may have been greeted by the chiefs and principal men of the peaceful Blackfeet Indians whose reservation borders the park on the east. Perhaps they have danced for us dressed in rare and expensive embroidered and beaded costumes, ancestral garments that no amount of money can buy. The next morning we, too, have thrown off the conventional dress and clothed in outing garments, city man, drivers, rangers all look alike and the women are untrammeled by long skirts and high heels. If we want a one-day outing we will take horseback or stage to the Two Medicine Lakes, a leisurely jaunt over meadows and through forest until we reach the beautiful mountain rimmed lakes where legend says that the great medicine men of the Blackfeet used to hold their councils of war. Ever since the valley has been called the Two Medicine Lake country and on the shores of these lakes we can lunch in the pretty chalet dining-room, or we can boat on the water or perhaps decide to remain and spend some time in the little Swiss chalets that are built to accommodate one or several persons. The reflection in the lakes are beautiful and the walks tempt one to linger.

From here we can pass to Cutbank Camp, the next camp in the circuit, or can return to the large hotel and go by horseback or automobile over a magnificent automobile road constructed around the mountains and revealing wonderful views nearby and at a distance. In half a day we are at St. Mary's Camp on St. Mary's Lake where again we find hospitable chalets, some built so near the water that wonderful moonlight effects can be viewed from the windows. At this camp, we find horses, stage, and launch ready for trips in several directions. We have a choice of Going-to-the-Sun Camp, Mary Glacier Camp and "going over the pass," which means taking horses and going to Gunsight Camp, Sperry Camp and Lake McDonald. It is a wonderful trip wherein one crosses the continental divide and sees the magnificent Sperry Glacier.

A Beauty Spot.

One camp, however, must not be missed, and this is Going-to-the-Sun. Its charms remain as an indelible picture for its location is conceded to be the most attractive of any in the park. It is reached by a delightful launch ride on the emerald hued lake which is bordered by lofty mountains. One of these, Going-to-the-Sun, or, according to the Indians, Looking-toward-the-Setting-Sun Mountain, at certain seasons of the year shows near the summit the face of a woman with floating hair. As this is formed of pure white snow the Indians call it the face of the Virgin Mary. The camp itself is an aggregation of pretty log chalets located on a rocky ridge two hundred feet above the lake, while the mountain towers behind. Another magnificent lake is McDermott, where Mary Glacier Camp affords a fine view of the green water set in a pocket of the mountains and in the chalets we can hear the dashing of the falls which form an outlet to the lake. From here, or from the Gunsight trail, or by railroad from Glacier Park Hotel we can reach another beautiful lake—McDonald—near the other park entrance and take side trips or boat or enjoy the beautiful trails by the side of rushing brooks. All of these trips can be taken by horseback, or we can diversify the mode of travel and take stage, automobile or launch as desired.

It is a wholesome, delightful trip and every camp affords opportunities for side trips. For instance it is great fun to take a lunch and spend one day at Avalanch Lake, to visit Iceberg lake, where the icebergs float in the water, on some other day, to climb Sperry glacier, etc. The Department of the Interior has an appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars to spend on this park for the coming fiscal year and this will go for development and care, so that the principal points of interest can be made more and more accessible.

Varied Scenery.

It is a grand divide that twists through this park and the two ranges, the Livingston and Lewis, lift into the air two stupendous types of mountain scenery. There are magnificent glaciers, some accessible to the average climbers, others waiting for the more intrepid mountaineer. Most of the lakes are mountain rimmed, the rugged peaks and ridges towering above and reflected in the transparent waters. Some waters are sapphire blue, others are dark as the sky at night and ice-girdled the year around, many more are ever changing in hue. One learns to greet the brawling mountain streams of pure glacial water, to call the mountains by their poetic names, to gain some inkling of the Indian legends connected with them. But best of all he loves them. He loves their unspoiled beauty for they allure with the mysteries of the wild and the unsubdued. There are parts rich in Indian legend and sections where the voyageur and pathfinder blazed the trail, but the flower-strewn passes, impressive solitudes, charming lakes and tarns, vast snow fields, turbulent torrents, magnificent virgin peaks, all convey the impression that they are part of a harmonious, majestic whole which is for the first time being discovered. Around and everywhere is that ethereal spirit of the mountains, the call of the unconquered, which elevates and dignifies and imparts a new spirit to all who come within their shadow.

They're the latest triumph of science,
An invention perfectly new,
Achieved after years of labor
And many experiments, too.
The material in them is so different

Excluding heat from eyes too weak
And soothing the eyes that are sore.

So step up and be fitted,
And be benefited, too;
The world through Eyetonic Lenses
Will look as good as new.
Whatever you turn your gaze on,
Fresh beauty now appears;
Your pain and headache have vanished—
You are younger by several years.

Now of these wonderful glasses
Dr. Georgia has sole right
To sell them here in Waco
So we may have perfect sight.
Don't let opportunity pass you,
But buy Eyetonics today,
Then take in the sights at the Palace
All happy and bright and gay.

GIRLS! GET A 25 CENT BOTTLE AND TRY A "DANDERINE HAIR CLEANSE."

After washing your hair with soap always apply a litle Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dryness. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few moments you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Men! Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.

WONDERFUL DRUG THAT STIMULATES GROWTH OF HAIR

And Revives Pigment-forming Cells That Give Hair Its Natural Color.

Hardly any of us are entirely free from dandruff or other scalp affections. Millions of us, so long as the trouble is slight, do little or nothing to cure the affection. Other millions are trying to do something, but getting no results, by applying all sorts of fancy colored and fancy named hair "tonics." You are not likely to get much benefit, if any, by using any preparation that does not contain the one known drug that positively stimulates the growth of hair. The safe and sure way is to mix your own tonic or go to a reliable druggist and have him mix it for you. Here is a simple formula: 6 oz. ordinary Bay Rum; 2 oz. ordinary Lavona de Composee; ½ drachm Menthol Crystals. If you choose, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. Apply to the scalp with finger tips, night and morning, to destroy dandruff, to stop falling hair, to cleanse and beautify the hair, and to stimulate the growth of the hair. This treatment is recommended to stimulate the growth of the hair, even in cases of complete baldness. If your hair is prematurely gray, try it and see if it will not make the pigment-forming cells active enough to completely restore the natural color. This formula contains no dye or artificial coloring matter but is designed to make nature produce the natural color in the natural way. Any druggist can supply you with the ingredients or mix to the tonic for you.

GRILLIANT SHOW SAYS GOV.

strenuously, of course, as in the days of 1836, but in that the most important events of each day and generation in Texas occur at the head of navigation on the Brazos river. Is not this vast concourse of people assembled in Waco this evening? Is not Waco now the head of navigation on the Brazos river? From Sabine to the Rio Grande and from the gulf to Red river is not the Texas Cotton Palace the most important event in Texas today? Does it not make your hearts thrill with pride that this occasion, so dear to us, has the seal of the approval of our highest dignitary? Yes, his excellency, the governor of the greatest state in these United States, honors us with his presence this evening, and honors us in that he will speak the formal words that will open to the world this woven wonder of a dream, our Texas Cotton Palace.

Glad for Autumn Days.

"Yes, our hearts are glad today, glad that these autumn days have come. These days that bring the sun-kissed fruit and garnered sheaves; these days that fringe the world with tapestries of brown and gold, and turn the woodbine red. For upon the calendar of these days is emblazoned the dates: November 1 to 16, the days on which we invite the world to come and enjoy with us this festal occasion; to enjoy with us this institution that was conceived midst the love, longing, hope and ambition for a better day; was born amid the tears of joy and triumphant realization, and is dowered with the wealth of the united hearts of the Waco people. Glad indeed are we that you are here this evening.

"We hail you, from those who wear the purple robe of power, to those who wear the rag of wretchedness.

"We greet you and bid you taste with us the blessings we enjoy.

We welcome you to our beautiful, healthful city, to share with us the delights of the Texas Cotton Palace.

"And now officers and members of the Texas Cotton Palace association, I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to the people of Waco this evening, did I not publicly give expression to their feelings of gratitude toward you; you who have, without money and without price, given so unstintingly of your time and energy; you who have worked so earnestly and loyally for this enterprise which means so much to us.

Gratitude of the People.

"Gentlemen, our hearts are full of gratitude to you, and we know that when the astrologer comes to measure the plane upon which men move, and looks into their hearts for the motives which actuated them, and weighs the good they did their fellow man, that he will write upon his scroll of honor the names, Hoffmann, Neale, Migel, Drake, Mayfield, Pryor, Herrick, Cox, Cameron, Friedlander, Sanger, Forman, Duncan and Abernathy. And now, gentlemen, when you have reached the shadowy shores of the evening of your lives, may each of you, as you sit upon your vine-clad porch, thinking of the yesterdays, while you watch the golden afterglow of a Texas sunset, see a vision of this enchanted wonderland; then may the gentle breeze waft to your ears the echoes of the joyous laughter of the children you have made happy here, and then the lingering strains of the divine, inspiring music you have heard here, and then your mother's voice, soft and low, singing a lullaby, and then sleep, sweet sleep."

Mayor Presents Governor.

At the concusion of his address, Mayor Mackey introduced Governor O. B. Colquitt of Texas, who formally opened the Cotton Palace. Governor Colquitt said, after being loudly cheered at the conclusion of a rendition of "Dixie," by Alessandro's band:

"Mr. President, Mr. Mayor, Gentlemen of the Board of Directors, My Fellow Citizens: The mayor of your city has just stated that you are honored by my having laid aside the duties of the governor's office and coming to Waco to officiate upon this occasion. The governor of Texas, I want to assure you, feels highly honored and complimented by being invited to be amongst you this evening to participate in these exercises. (Loud applause.)

He Recalls 1909 Exposition.

"Well do I remember four years ago when I came here upon the occasion of the inauguration of this magnificent Cotton Palace. There was no one then who doubted the future of your beautiful city and the success of your exposition. I remember taking a peep into the future at that time with you and predicting that this Cotton Palace, in all its glory, would weld your citizenship together into one common cause, united in your efforts for the further progress of your city. (Applause.) I am told that in 1910 there were perhaps 75,000 to 100,000 visitors to your great exposition; in 1911 that there were 140,000; in 1912 there were 200,000 or more, and I do most earnestly hope and here predict that in 1913 there will be 250,000 to 300,000 visitors. (Tremendous applause.) If the attendance of the people increases like the attendance has increased upon this occasion as compared to previous openings you will have 500,000 registered within your gates during the sixteen days' festive period. (Prolonged applause; great enthusiasm.)

Biggest Texas Crowd.

"For this is by all odds the very best opening I have ever witnessed in Texas on the initial day of any fair or exposition of the kind. (Loud and repeated applause.)

"I see before me tonight men and women who can make Waco the leading city in the southwest by a united effort, by the spirit of unselfishness that seems to pervade the very atmosphere.

"You can push Waco's interests to the front as never before, and I know you are going to do it.

"This president of yours of the Cotton Palace; these directors, I know, have labored faithfully and unceasingly in season and out of season to make this occasion a success, and I dare say that the people of Waco will back them up unanimously in their efforts to the end that this exposition will be a glowing success financially and otherwise.

Growing in Usefulness.

"Your great Cotton Palace is growing in usefulness and in power. Its good is becoming more and more appreciated for the general advancement of the livestock, agricultural and all interests of the people. It attracts people to Waco and Waco deserves to have the people come here to the entertainment and the exhibition placed before them. The Cotton Palace is an advertisement for your city, and it is an advertisement for the state. People hear of the Cotton Palace everywhere and you are a great builder for this great commonwealth.

Waco the State's Center.

"Waco deserves to grow as she is growing as never before. You are in the center of the state, you have better prospects than any of the cities in the state for a glorious future by reason of your geographical location. You are destined to become a great commercial center. (Applause.) You are destined to become a great manufacturing center, (applause) and all that that implies. You are going to continue to work together harmoniously, and where this is done success is bound to follow. I predicted as much four years ago when I opened the first Cotton Palace in a short speech in this building. You have progressed marvelously since. I am told that when the first Cotton Palace opened in 1910 the building permits in the city would perhaps not exceed $50,000 per month. This year I am reliably informed, it has averaged over $190,000, and that in September last it actually climbed to $365,000. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

Great Future for Waco.

"I predict great strides for the city of Waco; a great increase in wealth, a great increase in population, and an equal increase in public spirit and unity that will further propel you to the very forefront in the list of leading southern and southwestern cities.

"I want to say in reference to the patriotic remarks of my distinguished friend, the mayor of your city, that while it is true that the Texans met on the Brazos in 1835 and declared the independence of Texas and afterward fought and won it, that in 1910, led in part by that big-hearted, whole-souled, enthusiastic friend of mine, John Fall (loud applause), and I dare say that each member of the directory of the Cotton Palace and every citizen of Waco will join me at this time in paying a hearty and justly deserved tribute of friendship and appreciation to the memory of John Fall, whom every one loved that knew him.

Tribute to John Fall's Memory.

"I wish he were here tonight to participate in this opening, to view the wonderful progress and the great achievements apparent on all sides, in which he was so deeply interested and about which his big heart was entwined. It is true, my fellow citizens, that in looking around I jokingly remarked to your mayor that I did not see the Texas flag, but immediately upon its mention by the chief executive of your city the president of the Cotton Palace informed me that on the flagstaff of the main building was a beautiful Texas flag, made by the hands of Mrs. Fall, and that that flag floats over us tonight in memory of our friend. (Applause.) May it continue to gracefully wave in all honor to his name.

Congratulates Directors.

"Mr. President and gentlemen of the board of directors, I wish to congratulate you upon this occasion for the success of the Cotton Palace in 1910, for the success of the Cotton Palace in 1911 and for the success of the Cotton Palace in 1912, and I want to say that I feel that the success of the Cotton Palace of 1913 will be grander than ever. If I can be of any assistance to you whatsoever at any time you have only to command, and I will come to you. I consider it a great privilege and and I know it is a pleasure for the chief executive of the state of Texas to officiate upon an occasion like this, and I predict a more successful Cotton Palace this year than ever, and I now have the honor to declare and take great pleasure in so doing, that the Cotton Palace of the year 1913 is opened."

Ellery's Band Today.

President W. H. Hoffman then made a few announcements, the principal one being that Ellery's band would render its first concert this afternoon in the coliseum, having been delayed in getting to the exposition, and acknowledged thanks to Director Alessandro and his splendid band for their delightful concerts in the interim. Mr. Hoffmann also announced that the sale of season tickets had far exceeded all expectations, and that those who had been unable to procure same would again be given the opportunity on Monday to make their purchases, as the rush was unprecedented and he and the directors realize that many were unable to be accommodated by reason of the terrific demand.

To seat one's self at a festive board or a heavily laden table and not be able to eat is positive sorrow to most dyspeptics and stomach sufferers, and likewise pain.

"I Walk to My Meals and Eat All I Want, Then a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Makes Good For Me."

When your system is robbed of its natural digestive juices, in their correct proportion, a little candy-like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet gives to them the qualities they lack and you thereby rest the digestive apparatus and allay irritation, pain, gas and stomach trouble.

Pepsin such as used in a Stuart's tablet is one of nature's greatest aids; and when this is combined with the other ingredients you simply bring happiness to every worn-out nerve of the stomach, liver, intestines, pancreas and other organs.

Predigested foods will not aid nature if she insists on manufacturing the wrong juices. Besides this the bowels need coarse and heavy foods in order to make bowel pack which is vitally essential to health.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets mix with the food in the stomach, have a tendency to stop gas formation, sour stomach, decay, etc.; then as the food passes into the lower digestive tract (the intestines) it takes the Stuart's digestive agents with it, and there is where the real work is done.

The nutritive value of food and tablet is separated from the waste matter and is assimilated and distributed into the proper parts of the body. The blood is enriched and the liver stored with the qualities the system needs.

Go to your druggist now and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price 50c, and then eat what you will; but take a tablet afterwards. Then will come to you the beginning of the end of all your stomach troubles and food fears.

Sacrifice Sale of Real Estate

To be sold at the courthouse door Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, under the hammer, the Cornish building on Elm street, East Waco—building 50x100 feet; pressed brick front. Mr. J. T. Cason and Mr. Jimmie Harrison, contractors, say it would cost at least $13,000 to build. On account of litigation the building has been vacant, but for $1,500 it can be fixed up and rented for at least $200 per month, which would pay interest on $24,000. This property ought to carry a loan of $10,000. You might be able to buy this at a great bargain—say $13,000 to $18,000—a bargain at either price. Interurban runs right by the door. Did you ever stop to think about 8,000 people live in East Waco? It has the car line and good prospects of a $300,000 bank. Be sure to come to the sale. Call at our office for further information.

Catching Cold on the Street Car

Many people persist in riding on the street cars, insufficiently protected by clothing.

They start out perhaps in the heat of the day and do not feel the need of wraps.

The rapid moving of the car cools the body unduly. When they board the car perhaps they are slightly perspiring. When the body is in this condition it is easily chilled. This is especially true when a person is sitting.

Beginning a street car ride in the middle of the day and ending it in the evening almost invariably requires extra wraps, but people do not observe these precautions, hence they catch cold.

Colds are very frequent in the autumn on this account, and as the autumn advances they do not decrease. During the autumn months no one should think of riding on the car without being provided with a wrap.

Always Take Wraps With You

A cold caught in the autumn is liable to last through the entire winter. Great caution should be observed at this season against exposure to cold. During the pleasant days of autumn, the liability of catching cold is great.

No wonder so many people acquire muscular rheumatism and catarrhal diseases during this season.

However, in spite of the greatest precautions, colds will be caught.

At the appearance of the first symptom, Peruna should be taken according to directions on the bottle, and continued until every symptom disappears.

Do not put it off. Do not waste time by talking it over. Begin at once to take Peruna, and continue taking it until you are positive that the cold has entirely disappeared. This may save you a long and perhaps serious illness later on.

Cold Caused Deafness.

Mr. Turner Sampson, R. F. D. 5, Manchester, N. H., writes: "I have been troubled with catarrh in my head by spells for a number of years. Last July I took a hard cold and was deaf in one ear. I got discouraged and thought it would never be any better.

"I was advised to try Peruna. I took one bottle and was cured. I would advise anyone who is afflicted to give Peruna a trial, believing that they will experience the relief that I have."

She Took Cold Easily.

Mrs. C. E. Long writes from Box 493, Lindsay, Cal., as follows: "My little girl had a cough that had been troubling her for four months. She took cold easily, and would wheeze and have spells of coughing that would sometimes last for a half hour.

"Before she began taking your Peruna she suffered everything in the way of cough, colds and croup, but now she is well and strong as she has ever been in her life."

Those who object to liquid medicine can now procure Peruna Tablets.

COMMITTEE HITS CURRENCY SNARL

HOURS SPENT IN DEBATING CAPITALIZATION AND CONTROL OF FOUR BANKS.

FIGHTS FOR BOARD POWERS

Administration Forces Will Fight Bank Control to the Floor of the Senate.

Washington, Nov. 1.—A snarl was reached today in the running discussion of the administration currency bill by the senate banking committee when the committee spent hours in debating the capitalization and control of the four regional banks tentatively proposed to administer the new system. The debate at times waxed vociferous and the committee adjourned tonight until Wednesday without affirmative action on the question.

Several members took the position that hope for a unanimous report from the committee hinged upon the question of the control of regional reserve banks, which lie either in the goversment or in the member banks. The supporters of the strict governmental control theory declared they would combat any bank control of the regional banks even to a fight on the floor of the senate. Administration supporters in the committee adhered to the plan in the administration bill as it came from the house by which the banks would elect six directors of each regional bank and the federal reserve board would appoint three. The board, however, would have the power to remove three of the bank directors.

The committee rejected a proposition advanced by Senator Hitchcock by which the entire system would be capitalized at $100,000,000 to be subscribed by the banks underwriting the stock and selling it to the public. This $100,000,000 would be under the absolute control of the federal board which would distribute it among the regional banks as conditions warranted. The committee voted this down 7 to 4.

Senator O'Gorman proposed that each regional bank be capitalized at 10 per cent of the national bank capital in the district which it served, and that each bank control its own capital. He suggested two means of securing the capital. The first would require the banks to underwrite and offer it to the public. The second would require the banks to subscribe the amount of 5 per cent of their capital stock and would leave the remainder open to public subscription. Senator O'Gorman's plan was not disposed of today.

The committee deferred further meeting until Wednesday owing to the absence of several members who have left Washington on account of the elections.

TARIFF CAUSES LITTLE LOSS

Customs Receipts Practically Same as Same Month Last Year—Pensions Increase Deficit.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Although the new tariff act, with its lowered rates of duty has been in effect practically a month, the customs receipts so far have shown little falling off. According to the treasury statement today, the customs receipts amounted to $30,138,000 for October, just about $80,000 less than those of October, 1912. The deficit for the fiscal year to date, the statement shows, is $5,757,627, about $300,000 more than the deficit at the corresponding period last year.

Pension payments under the Sherwood act apparently are largely responsible for the larger deficit. The payments for the period in 1912 through October amounted to about $52,500,000 and for the same period this year to nearly $57,000,000 an increase of more than $4,000,000 in this one disbursement item.

The total pay warrants for October, 1913, were $59,356,994, with total receipts of $64,196,663, leaving an excess of receipts for the month of $4,829,639.

The net balance in the general fund of the treasury at the close of the day's business was $124,923,123 and the grand total of cash in the treasury was given at $2,037,846,293, with a total gold in the trust fund of $1,098,995,169. In national bank depositories to the credit of the United States treasurer there was $91,121,101.

At the close of business yesterday there were 7,514 national banks in existence, with a capital of $1,068,534,175, and circulation outstanding, secured by bonds, amounting to $740,063,776.

OPEN SEASON FOR BIRDS.

Texas Sportsmen May Now Enjoy Three Months of Shooting.

Open season for quail, duck and doves began yesterday and the first day brought out a number of marksmen. The season closes February 1, giving the sportsmen three months of shooting. The first day of the open season was unfavorable to good shooting. The morning was too cold for the quail to fly. The afternoon was better, and many Waco sportsmen were rewarded for a day in the field.

There is more quail this year than usual, due to the favorable spring weather. Doves are plentiful and some duck are found on the ponds and river.

The board approved of the plans formulated by President J. C. Hardy for the rushing of work on the fine arts building in order to have same ready for occupancy by September, 1914.

BUSY DAY FOR POLICE

ENDLESS PROCESSION OF PRISONERS BOOKED FOR THE CALABOOSE.

County Jail Fast Filling and Overflow Is Threatened—Many Suspicious Characters.

If the record which the police and county officers started yesterday and continued up until midnight holds out until morning, both the county jail and the city calaboose will be full to overflowing.

Drunks, vagrants, suspects, thieves and all manner of people came into the hands of the officers on last night. At the city jail the scene around the turnkey's desk, where prisoners are registered, resembled an election booth where the voters of a tenemnt district were casting their ballots. It was rushed like a soda-pop stand at a children's picnic. At the county jail the same condition, although not quite as strenuous, prevailed.

Several Held as Suspects.

The real work of the police and other officers began shortly before the parade at 6:30 o'clock. From that hour on up to midnight the police patrol wagon was on the run. Calls from various parts of the city came at intervals of ten minutes and each call brought another prisoner.

So far only one or two arrests of any particular note have been made. Several suspects have been picked up by the officers. These will be held until investigation can be made. In the event the police's suspicions are correct they will be held until after the Cotton Palace.

"Fly Cops" Coming Today.

Beginning today the local city detective force will be reinforced by detectives from various cities over the state. These will remain here until after the exposition to assist the local officers in detecting the crook who follows any considerable gathering of people.

The local officers have their eyes on a band of men who are here and whom they believe to come under the head of the undesirable. These are out-of-town people, coming here from other cities. On the arrival of detectives from other cities today the officers will "look them over."

BISHOP PARTY LIVE WIRES

200 in Crowd—Make Big Hit in Marlin—Are to Visit This City.

Marlin, Nov. 1.—There were 200 in the Bishop party here last night and Marlin citizens entertained with speech-making and a good supper at the Arlington Hotel. The "boosters" for the "city built to order" were en route to Dallas, where they will spend Saturday and Sunday at the fair and will then stop over Monday at the Cotton Palace in Waco. It was a jolly party of "live wires" and they never missed an opportunity to say something good about their home town.

The party was headed by Col. F. Z. Bishop, founder of the town of Bishop, and was traveling in a special train of seven Pullman coaches.

The stay Monday at the Cotton Palace is really the principal purpose of the excursion since most people have left the fair at Dallas.

FUNERAL OF C. W. ADAMS.

Floral Tributes Beautiful, With Special Designs From Organization.

Marlin, Nov. 1.—The funeral of C. W. Adams was held at the family residence at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon with the services at the home being conducted by Pastor J. W. Bergin of the First Methodist church, and Rev. W. W. Watts, field secretary for the Southern Methodist University at Dallas. There was a very large crowd present to pay their last tribute to the man whom everybody loved and honored.

The floral tributes were among the handsomest ever seen in Marlin. Flowers came from everywhere, it seemed, and the special designs furnished by the local Elks' lodge, the Knights of Pythias, the Commercial club and the stewards of the Methodist church were most elaborate and testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held by the various organizations of which he was a member. At the home the casket was banked with flowers and covered with the special designs.

Dr. Bergin made a lovely talk, touching upon the character of the man, his worth to the community and his work in the church. Dr. Watts, his former pastor, stressed the fact that his life was one worthy of emulation. The speakers only emphasized what the people of Marlin already knew with regard to the noble character of Mr. Adams.

Out of respect for the deceased, every store in Marlin was closed between the hours of 3:30 and 4 o'clock. When the funeral cortege passed the football park the game between Temple and Marlin was stopped until the entire procession had passed.

Halloween Party.

Marlin, Nov. 1.—A most enjoyable Halloween party was given at the home of Mrs. J. L. Woodland last evening, honoring Misses Annie Hunnicutt and Bessie Long. There were a large number of the young people gathered to listen to the weird stories of the witches, and it proved a most enjoyable event to all. The settings for the witch stories and tableaux were arranged in the back yard of the Woodland home, and when the guests arrived they were ushered through the reception hall and into the back yard, where they encountered a rough pathway in the form of bed springs, rattling chains and other weird sounds. Once into the back yard, the guests faced the witch of the evening, who stood beside her "witch pot" and told fortunes by palm readings. These difficult tasks were performed by Mrs. L. V. Hunnicutt and it may be said to her credit that she made good in the role.

Games were indulged in until a late hour, and the young folks were then ushered into the dining rooms, which was decorated in jack-o'-lanterns, black cats, owls and in the midst of their gayety a real live black cat bounded into their midst. When the commotion subsided the guests were served with delicious hot chocolate and cake.

The decorations in the yard and throughout the house were largely composed of jack-o'-lanterns, owls and black cats cut from pasteboard and paper. A real spooks' dance was indulged in around the witches' pot, which met the approval of the old witch, who looked on.

There were many present, among them the members of the High football squad being conspicuous. It is referred to as a most delightful halloween party.

WORKS ALL DAY

And Studies at Night on Grape-Nuts Food.

Some of the world's great men have worked during the day and studied evenings to fit themselves for greater things. But it requires a good constitution generally to do this.

A Georgia man was able to keep it up with ease after he had learned the sustaining power of Grape-Nuts, although he had failed in health before he changed his food supply. He says:

"Three years ago I had a severe attack of stomach trouble which left me unable to eat anything but bread and water.

"The nervous strain at my office from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. and improper foods caused my health to fail rapidly. Cereal and so-called 'Foods' were tried without benefit until I saw Grape-Nuts mentioned in the paper.

"In hopeless desperation I tried this food and at once gained strength, flesh and appetite. I am now able to work all day at the office and study at night, without the nervous exhaustion that was usual before I tried Grape-Nuts.

"It leaves me strengthened, refreshed, satisfied; nerves quieted and toned up, body and brain waste restored. I would have been a living skeleton, or more likely a dead one by this time, if it had not been for Grape-Nuts."

MISS. A. & M. BEATS FARMERS

M'ARTHUR IS STAR OF THE DAY

Right Halfback of Visitors Makes Big Gains and Virtually Wins the Game.

Dallas, Nov. 1.—Splendid gains by McArthur, right half for Mississippi A. & M. college, backed up by dogged work by his team mates, gave that team a 6 to 0 victory over Texas A. & M. here today The lone touchdown was made in the first quarter. McArthur received Texas' kick-off and skillfully eluding tacklers rushed the ball back forty-five yards. Mississippi lost the ball on downs but the Texans were unable to advance against the Mississippi defense and punted. Slowly but surely the Mississippi Aggies worked the ball back to Texas 15-yard line, when McArthur again was called upon and skirted Texas right guard for twelve yards. From the three-yard line Wells, Mississippi fullback, carried the ball across for the first and only touchdown of the game. Mississippi failed to kick goal. The visitors' goal never was in real danger.

Captain Beasley made the most consistent gains for the Texans. In the third quarter he made twelve, five and ten yards on successive tries but the Mississippi line braced and Texas lost the ball on downs. Texas goal was again in danger with the ball on their 3-yard line when the whistle blew on the final quarter.

Mississippi had gained forty yards by perfectly executed forward passes and was making desperate efforts to put over another score when the game ended.

VIRGINIA DRUBS VANDERBILT 34-0

A FUMBLE COSTS TOUCHDOWN

Commodores Once Within Striking Distance, but Slip Prevents Avoiding Shut-out.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 1.—Battered and bruised, the Vanderbilt University football team today lowered its colors to the University of Virginia, the score being 34 to 0.

The Virginia backs hammered the Vanderbilt line into a pulp, driving Morgan, big Vanderbilt center, from the game with an injured foot and necessitating numerous other changes in the line-up.

While Virginia's goal was threatened several times it was never in serious danger except in the final quarter.

Boensch, Vanderbilt quarter, darted through Virginia's defense on Vanderbilt's 15-yard line. Twisting and jumping, he spurted down the field, apparently assured of a touchdown. He passed all the Virginia players but Randolph, sub right half for Virginia, outdistanced the other pursuers and with a burst of speed tackled Boensch on Virginia's ten-yard line. A costly fumble by Vanderbilt on the next play ended the Tennesseeans chances to prevent a shutout.

Neither team scored in the first quarter. Virginia's first score followed a 30-yard forward pass from Gooch to White, who was downed on Vanderbilt's 15-yard line. Mayer and Gooch shortened the distance to the goal and Ray carried the ball over. Carter kicked goal.

The next touchdown came after Vanderbilt had been penalized for rough playing. Gooch shot a forward pass from the 25-yard line to Woolfolk, who caught the ball as he was crossing Vanderbilt's goal line. Carter again kicked goal.

Curlin, who started at quarter for Vanderbilt, made a costly fumble, which led to Virginia's third touchdown. White recovered on Vanderbilt's 27-yard line and Ray carried the ball over after three approaching plays. Carter kicked goal. The first half ended with the score 21 to 0 in Virginia's favor. In the third quarter Virginia rushed the ball by end runs, line plunges and off tackle plays from their 20-yard line to a touchdown, Ray carrying the ball over the line. Carter kicked goal.

In the last quarter Randolph replaced Mayer, and his fresh strength told against the Vanderbilt line. After several line plunges he crossed the goal line with the final touchdown. Boensch's spectacular run for 75 yards was the only feature after that.

The line-up:

Vanderbilt—	Position.	Virginia.
Chester	Left end	Coleman
Morgan	Center	Jett
Puttman	Right guard	Carter
Huffman	Right tackle	Woolfolk
E. Brown	Right end	Sillitto
Curlin	Quarter	Gooch
McQueen	Right half	Ray
Turner	Fullback	Landes

Summary—Officials: Referee Berger (Princeton); umpire, Riseley (Colgate); head linesman, Cole (Michigan). Scores: Touchdowns, Ray 3, Woolfolk, Randolph; goals from touchdowns, Carter 4. Time of quarters, 15 minutes. Subs: Virginia, Randolph for Mayer, White for Coleman, Mayer for Randolph, Speer for Mayer; Vanderbilt, White for Huffman, Boensch for Curlin, Cohen for McQueen, Huffman for Morgan, Warren for Murray, Preston for Chester.

Auburn 7, Louisiana 0.

Mobile, Nov. 1.—Brilliant play by Kirk Newell, captain and left half of the Auburn team, was the main factor in Auburn's victory over Louisiana State University here this afternoon 7 to 0. The only touchdown of the game came in the third quarter, when Auburn's victory was made possible by a fifty-yard run by Newell from the center of the field, placing the ball within the shadow of Louisiana's goal posts. Harris, fullback, tore through the line and placed the ball within a foot of the goal line. Another plunge and it was over, Arnold kicking the goal.

Arkansas 26, Austin College 7.

Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 1.—Although defeating the Austin College team of Sherman, Texas, in a pretty game here this afternoon, the Arkansas Razorbacks were scored against for the first time this year. The final score was Arkansas 26, Austin College 7.

Forward passing by Tuck of Austin and the general playing of Parchman and May for Arkansas featured. Tuck's passing was probably the best ever seen in the south, but his individual starring could not win against the smashing line bucks of May and Parchman and the punting of Cock of Arkansas.

Giants 3, White Sox 2.

Beaumont, Nov. 1.—The New York Giants nosed out the Chicago White Sox here this afternoon by a score of 3 to 2. Both Faber and Wiltse were touched frequently, but Wiltse had a shade the best of the breaks. The game was full of snap and the crowd of over 2000 people enjoyed it thoroughly.

Score—		R.	H.	E.

He will later go to Houston, where he will join the White Sox and proceed from there to Vancouver, B. C. From that port the team will sail on its tour of the world.

BAYLOR TEAM IS RALLYING

Gridiron Gladiators Profited By Defeat—Now Strengthening Weak Points Disclosed.

Having gotten a taste of victory after several crushing defeats, Baylor's football team, at home from the clash with Trinity University at Waxahachie Friday, feels that there is a chance to make a much better showing in the remainder of the season and the members are in good fighting form. The next game comes Tuesday afternoon on Carroll Field with Daniel Baker College, followed by Austin College, Sherman, which team will come to Waco November 13 and then by a contest with A. & M. at College Station on November 22, closing the season with Southwestern University in Waco on Thanksgiving day.

In the contests with the State Universities of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana, the Baptist team, new and inexperienced, was outclassed, but the contest with those teams helped to point out the weaknesses of the locals in such a forcible way that these defects have begun to be remedied and better playing throughout the remainder of the season is assured. The Baptists expect to win all of the remaining games, with the possible exception of that one with A. & M. and they are confident of making a strong showing against the Farmers, if they do not defeat them.

M'GREGOR BOYS TRIUMPHANT

Win Easy Victory From Waco High School, Piling Up the Score of 26 to 0.

McGregor, Nov. 1.—McGregor High School walked away with an easy victory over Waco High this afternoon by a score of 26 to 0. The local eleven took the jump on the visitors and played them off their feet during the first half, breaking through the line at will and making frequent gains with a short forward pass. Waco strengthened in the third quarter and held her own, but was unable to advance the ball into scoring distance. The nearest approach to the McGregor goal was 20 yards.

The locals too lead with a touchdown in the first quarter, added two more in the second, and a fourth and final one in the third quarter.

The punting of Minier for Waco was exceptionally good and featured the game. Brown at full halfback, made the best long gains for Waco. Circling end on one occasion he made 20 yards.

Herreshoff Takes Golf Honors at the Gov. Cup Meet

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 1.—Frederick Herreshoff of Garden City took final honors in the annual fall golf tournament of the Atlantic Country club, defeating Maurice E. Riseley of the home club for the governor's cup 2 up. Herreshoff was never down. Riseley successfully came from two down and evened the match, but the strain of his play in the morning game with Walter J. Travis told on him and he wavered on the last two holes.

Riseley eliminated Travis in the forenoon in a hard twenty-hole match for the honor of meeting Herreshoff for the supreme honor this afternoon. The Garden City finalist defeated Richard Mott, Huntington Valley C. C., in the other semi-final round.

The cards for the final rounds were:
Herreshoff—Out 40, in 38; total 78.
Riseley—Out 41, in 39; total 80.

Marlin High 46; Temple High 0

Marlin, Nov. 1.—Marlin's football team demonstrated its right to battle for all-state interscholastic championship honors here this afternoon when it defeated the Temple team by a score of 46 to 0. Chesley Snell at quarter played a great game for Marlin. Adams and Lenoir also were good ground gainers. It was the fastest football game played here this season, and the score might have been even larger had not Coach Caldwell put in subs during the last half.

Plaster casts will be given an alabaster effect by dipping in a strong solution of alum.

ALLEN MAY NOT BE RE-ELECTED

HORNSBY IS THE MAN WANTED

Likelihood of Changing Baseballs. Leidy Makes One Grand Purchase. To Meet at Fort Worth.

Houston, Nov. 1.—No Texas league president will be elected until November 24, at which time a meeting will be held in Fort Worth.

Wilbur F. Allen, the present head of the Texas league, may not succeed himself. Opposition was made to his re-election at today's meeting of the Texas magnates, which was anything but harmonious. Morris Block of San Antonio and Joe Gardner of Dallas opposed his re-election.

All of the managers of the Texas league clubs were present. Other than the two named, none expressed a preference. Judge John W. Hornsby of Austin is the man the opposition wants for president.

Other business was of a routine nature.

Those present today were: President Allen, Walter Morris of Fort Worth, W. R. Davidson of Waco, Joe Gardner of Dallas, W. Quebedaux of Austin, Morris Block of San Antonio, George Leidy of Beaumont and Doak Roberts of Houston.

Manager Leidy announced that he had purchased Catcher Bobo and Pitcher McCuller from the Austin club, but did not announce who would take the place of these men. Later he announced that he was elated over the purchase.

The magnates expressed themselves as displeased with the class of baseballs the manufacturing company furnished this year. Although the company has a five-year contract with the Texas league, it may be decided to open negotiations with a rival company. A special committee will report on this matter at the Fort Worth meeting.

The league officials were dined at the Rice Hotel as guests of the local management and will occupy a special box at the Giants-White Sox game tomorrow at West End Park and expect to return home tomorrow night.

Georgia Tech 26, Sewanee 0.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—Crashing through Sewanee's line at will and circling the ends for long gains, Georgia Tech's football eleven this afternoon defeated the Tennessee team here 26 to 0. Homer Cook's 80-yard run around Sewanee's right end gave Tech a touchdown in the first quarter. It was followed by another in the second and one each in the third and fourth.

Tech was certain of the game from the first few minutes of play. Time after time the Tech backs went through Sewanee's wavering line, turning to the forward pass and end runs when the Sewanee team rallied and halted for a moment their hammering.

Patten, Tech quarterback, proved himself a strategic general. Sewanee was outguessed at every turn.

Unable to advance the ball when it was theirs, Sewanee played a punting game, returning the ball after their backs were thrown, often for losses.

Navy 39, Lehigh 0.

Annapolis, Nov. 1.—Navy's football eleven easily defeated the Lehigh University team here today, 39 to 0. The game was marked by long, tearing plunges through the line by the navy and in addition there were two runs of nearly the entire length of the field by Miles and Nichols, who went in as sub fullback and quarterback, respectively, in the last period.

From the first few minutes of play the game was Navy's, and at no time was the opposing team at all dangerous.

Not only were touchdowns scored, but placement goals, safeties and attempted drop kicks and one or two forward passes featured in the struggle.

The visitors' great fault was poor tackling.

Michigan 43, Syracuse 7.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 1.—A savage offense, the product of a desperate eleven, gave the University of Michigan football team a 43 to 7 victory over Syracuse this afternoon. During the first two periods the orange line melted against a whirlwind attack which produced touchdown after touchdown. Syracuse braced in the third quarter and game Michigan a battle. In the closing minutes of play Syracuse made a game rally. Castle, left half, contributed four brilliant runs, and a 25-yard dash by Travis, substitute right end, enabled the easterners to cross the Michigan goal.

Jimmy Craig, playing his first game of the season at left half, was the mighty power behind Michigan's offense. Time after time for two periods he streaked around the ends or battered between the tackles.

Michigan relied on straight football for consistent gains. Yost used few spectacular plays of the nature he usually discloses during the big games and as the game progressed, when victory appeared certain, he tried out a number of substitutes.

Minnesota 21, Wisconsin 3.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—Wisconsin's conference football championship was lost this afternoon when Minnesota's eleven inflicted an unexpected one-sided defeat on the Badgers 21 to 3. Their aggressive attack proved too strong for the Wisconsin system of defense.

It took Minnesota some time to get started, but when the Northerners once got into their stride they kept Wisconsin backed up close to the goal. The result of the game puts Minnesota in a position to contest the conference title with the University of Chicago in their contest at Minneapolis on November 15.

The game was one of the fiercest ever played in Madison and substitutions and injuries were numerous. Tollefsen, quarterback for Minnesota, struck over the eye and knocked temporarily unconscious, was most seriously hurt.

Notre Dame 31, Army 13.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The Army football eleven was beaten by Notre Dame today by a score of 35 to 13. The cadets were outclassed in every department of the game, and except in the second quarter, when they scored both their touchdowns, they looked like novices beside the westerners.

Notre Dame's long forward passing and pretty open-field play was spectacular and a revelation to eastern football enthusiasts. Out of fourteen attempts with the forward pass, the westerners made twelve good long distance gains.

Fullback Eicenlaub plowed through the Army line for good gains and bowled over the interference in slashing style. Hoge, left half, and Merrill at right end, played best for the cadets.

Yale Quarterback Injured.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 1.—Percy G. Cornish Jr., Yale's best quarterback, will not play football again this season. His jaw was broken during the game with Colgate this afternoon and tonight Dr. Leonard Sanford, the university physician, said that because of his injury Cornish would not be able to get in the game again this year.

McLaughlin, a Colgate sub end, it was learned tonight, dislocated his shoulder during the last period, but finished the game.

Rhodes Students Athletes.

London, Nov. 1.—Rhodes scholars at Oxford are jubilant over toh fact that one of their number won every event in the freshmen's sports at Oxford this week. The American, E. D. Havens of New Jersey, and N. S. Tabor of Providence, R. I., captured three events. Havens won the 100-yard dash and throwing the weight and Tabor won the mile race.

The fact that in only two contests did an Englishman win as much as third place prompts the Westminster Gazette to conclude in an editorial, that "whatever be the theory of selection of the Rhodes scholarships there must be some athletic criterion."

Penn Freshies Win Shell Race.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—Freshmen won by one length the annual fall interclass eight-cared shell race of the University of Pennsylvania today on the Schuylkill river. The sophomore crew was second, juniors third and seniors last. The distance, one mile and 440 yards, was rowed in seven minutes 40 seconds.

Milburn Polo Player Weds.

New York, Oct. 1.—Devereaux Milburn, star polo player, and one of the American champion team which won from the British team last summer, was married at Westbury, Long Island, this afternoon to Miss Nancy Gordon Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele of this city.

Rivers and Cross Matched.

New Orleans, Nov. 1.—Joe Levy, manager of Joe Rivers, Mexican lightweight, announced tonight that he had closed a deal with Promoter McCarey of Los Angeles for Rivers to meet Leach Cross in a twenty-round bout Thanksgiving day.

COLGATE BEATS YALE

MUCH VAUNTED DEFENSE OF BLUE CRUMBLES BEFORE VISITORS.

Victors Are Well Drilled, Heavy and Fast—Tackles Open Great Gaps in Eli Line.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—Colgate found Yale's much vaunted defense more of a tradition than an actuality today and defeated the blue, 16 to 6, by superior football. It was the first time this year that Yale has been scored upon and Colgate goes down in the football hall of fame as one of the very few colleges in the country to defeat Yale.

Colgate's team was fast, well balanced and splendidly drilled. It appeared heavier than Yale's. It's two giant tackles, Parker left and Abel right, opened great holes in the line outside of tackle, through which the fleet backs swept for good gains. The consistent offense of the visitors was the best seen on Yale field in many days. Yale was weakened by several substitutes in the line. Cornish, who was playing a star game at quarterback, had his jaw broken just before the close of the second period and his understudy failed to measure up to his standard.

Colgate made two touchdowns and a goal from placement. One touchdown was the direct result of a fumble and the other partly so. Thompson, who succeeded Cornish, fumbled a punt when tackled and it was Colgate's ball on Yale's 15-yard line. Five rushes brought a touchdown. The second came when Knowles, Yale half back, standing back of his own goal for a punt, let the ball slip through his fingers, and Riley, Colgate right end, fell on it.

In the last period, Brook, Colgate's left guard, sent the ball between the uprights from the 25-yard line for a goal from placement.

Yale's touchdown came in the second period just after Colgate had scored. The blue, playing fiercely, rushed the visitors off their feet, until finally Knowles made a dash from the end run for 15 yards and crossed the line. Guernsey, Yale's sub fullback, tried a drop kick just before the period closed, but failed.

Harvard 23, Cornell 6.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—The strength of the Crimson first line and the weakness of the second string were brought out today in Harvard's game against Cornell. While Brickley, fullback, Hardwick, left half, Captain Storer, right half, and other regular Harvard players were in the line-up, one touchdown was scored in each of the three periods and Brickley added his customary goal from field.

In the last period Coach Haughton sent his substitutes in and they crumbled against Cornell. Although they held Cornell for three downs, they could not prevent a score on the fourth rush.

Cornell almost failed to make the touchdown, for Barrett, right half, plunged through center and brought up against the canvas-covered goal post. He stood grasping the upright, unable to get to the other side. He pushed the ball around and Referee Langford ruled a touchdown had been scored.

The three Harvard touchdowns were all scored by Brickley. Brickley also tried two goals from the forty-yard line, which failed. The successful goal was made from the 16-yard mark.

Princeton 54, Holy Cross 0.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 1.—Princeton's reconstructed football eleven defeated Holy Cross this afternoon by 54 to 0. The visitors never threatened Princeton's goal line. The Tigers showed the result of the past week of regeneration by displaying a series of forward passes, netting gains from 10 to 35 yards, with Captain H. Baker, left half, Law, right half, Hammong, left end, and Glick, quarter, doing the bulk of the work.

In addition, Princeton opened up her game, with Baker flashing around the ends, Glick faking passes for quarterback runs through the line and Law faking kick formations for forward passes.

Princeton made frequent fumbles and secured frequent penalties for offside and using the hands illegally.

Chicago 23, Illinois 7.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—In a brilliant rally, Chicago today crushed Illinois 23 to 7 and maintained its pace in the front of the conference championship race. Illinois led through the first half with seven points scored in the first few minutes of play, when Fogue, quarer, ran back a punt through the whole maroon squad for a touchdown, but their defense melted away before the maroons in the second part.

Chicago fought hard in the first half to score, but fumbles and incomplete forward passes prevented. In the second half Chicago rushed the Illinois men off their feet. At the end of the third quarter they had scored two touchdowns. In the final quarter Chicago scored two more touchdowns by using straight football.

At least 25,000 saw the game.

Bleachers at Depauw Collapse.

Greencastle, Ind., Nov. 1.—One hundred or more persons, most of whom were women, were hurt, eight seriously, when the bleachers on Depauw athletic field collapsed just before the Depauw-Rose Poly football game here this afternoon.

It was estimated that more than 700 men and women were on the bleachers when they went down. Members of both football squad did good work in disentangling the twisted mass of lumber and humanity. The game resulted in a score of 14 to 7, with Depauw on the long end.

The swaying of the crowd in cheering the Depauw team when it came on the field is believed to have been the immediate cause of the collapse.

Carlisle 34, Georgetown 0.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Resorting in the main to straight football, but occasionally varying the attack with a forward pass or criss-cross formation, the Carlisle Indians overwhelmed Georgetown University here today 34 to 0. The Indians battered Georgetown's line repeatedly and the locals were on the defensive practically throughout the game. On the defensive Georgetown never threatened the Carlisle goal. Captain Costello, quarterback, did heroic work for Georgetown, averting several touchdowns.

Dartmouth 21, Amherst 7.

Amherst, Mass., Nov. 1.—Dartmouth won a hard fought game from Amherst today 21 to 7. The contest was closer than the score would indicate. Amherst holding the green for downs many times, twice within the 5-yard line. The game ended with the ball in Amherst's possession on the Dartmouth 15-yard line, after a march of fifty yards down the field.

Penn 17, Penn State 0.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The University of Pennsylvania team, with the help of the trick plays and good generalship, defeated Pennsylvania State today by the score of 17 to 0. In the last minute of play Pennsylvania State carried the ball to the Quakers' 4-yard line, only to lose it on a grounded forward pass.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work in Texas

THE STATE PRESIDENT SENDS WEEKLY LETTER

Dear Friends:

Everything is now in readiness for our great convention and the success of this meeting depends upon you.

The tremendous amount of work connected with the preparation necessary in getting up this convention can only be realized by those who have a hand in geting up the varied matter so essential to a successful whole.

What part the individual club is in duty bound to play in the convention is to seriously consider its obligation to the mother organization, the Texas Federation of Women's clubs and to make every possible effort to have a representative attend the convention.

A large attendance is inspiring and bespeaks appreciation of the many fine features provided not only by a hard worked committee on program, but by a no less hard worked local board, the members of which have enlisted practically all of the citizens, of the hospitable, hostess city, Corpus Christi, in order to furnish you entertainment of an exceptional character.

Then, too, we should pay tribute to Mrs. Philip N. Moore, past president of the general federation, and let her see our convention at its best. It is indeed an honor to have gained her consent to come to us, for this she does at great inconvenience, being obliged to lay aside the many duties that fill her busy life.

So again I ask that each club send a delegate. If you have failed to receive a credential card, this will be furnished you at the convention, provided you present your receipt for dues paid up to date, or provided you pay at the convention.

I would call the attention of clubs to the fact that a delegate can represent only one club; that the constitution does not permit a delegate to represent more than one club.

Do not embarrass the club delegate by forgetting to furnish her with the receipt for paid-up dues, for without it she cannot receive recognition.

Letters are being received for state year books. These will be issued by the incoming administration, the new law provides that each administration get out only one book.

The executive board will meet on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Nueces hotel, and all members of the various committees are cordially invited to be present.

Looking eagerly forward to meeting a large delegation at Corpus Christi, believe me always,

Faithfully yours,

MRS. ELI HERTZBERG,
President, Texas Federation Women's Clubs.

MRS. GOODHUE-LECKIE IS REGAINING HEALTH

The recent cards from Mrs. J. R. Leckie, formerly Mrs. Josephine Goodhue of Beaumont, come from Harrowgate, one of the mineral water resorts of England. Mrs. Leckie reports to her Texas friends that she is perfectly recovered from the serious illness which visited her during her last coming to Texas. This is assuring news, for Mrs. Leckie was a very sick woman when she reached her home in England.

WORD FROM MRS. PENNYBACKER IS SENT FROM INDIANA

The request of Mrs. Pennybacker is that her club women friends of Texas be told that her heart is with them in their great convention at Corpus Christi. "But," she says, "Alas! the days that I might be with the beloved women of my home state, I will give to New York." Mrs. Pennybacker will reach Texas only in time for Thanksgiving. She then takes a short rest from very strenuous life. She takes time to send the message that New York state has already accorded her every courtesy. This shows the broad-mindedness of the club spirit. For, Texas found New York a hard battle, in her work for Mrs. Pennybacker. New York lost, but New York is magnanimous in defeat, for she recognizes that Mrs. Pennybacker is well worth the fight which Texas made.

Next week finds Mrs. Pennybacker in Florida, from where the lapse of distance is made to New York. She congratulates Texas upon the presence of Mrs. Philip N. Moore, whom she predicts will give much to the Texas federation by her wise counsel.

GLIMPSE OF CONVENTION AT SAN ANTONIO

At the convening of the United Daughters of the Confederacy on Tuesday morning, about 300 delegates were present, representing 132 chapters. The usual routine business was gone through for the first day. Mrs. Charles Barrett, the Texas division historian, read a magnificent report and evinced unusual interest and energy in her work. She created so much enthusiasm that her name was suggested for candidacy at the coming New Orleans convention for historian-general, a national honor to Texas. Our state has already furnished two national presidents. Mrs. Barrett reported papers from 132 chapters. Mrs. Baugh, recorder of crosses, reported 511 cosses issued to sixty-seven chapters.

One of the most unique and entertaining features opening day was the musical numbers contributed by the veterans. One played the violin, accompanying the orchestra, while the old heroes sang "The Little Bronze Cross" to the air of "The Old Oaken Bucket," one of the sweetest of the old-time airs. Another song was "When the Roses Come Again." After these songs the welkin rang with the "Rebel Yell" of the '60s.

At the rendition of these numbers, the veterans arranged themselves in a receiving line to grasp the hands of the Daughters of the Confederacy as they filed past. The orchestra was especially fine in rendering the antebellum airs.

A telegram was sent to Miss Decca Lamar West of Waco, who is sick in New York and unable to attend.

STATE EDUCATION BODIES RECOGNIZE CLUB WOMEN

It is noted that a representative from the Texas Federation is assigned place upon the program for the State Teachers' Association, which meets in Dallas with Thanksgiving. This recognizes the interest and the active work of the club women in the cause of education. The especial topic is in line with betterment of the rural schools.

On Saturday, the Conference of Education held annual sessions, also, in Dallas. On this board are two past federation presidents, the Mesdames Cone Johnson and Pennybacker. The club women individually are receiving letters acknowledging their interest and urging their attendance.

THE TRIVIUM CLUB, LIBERTY, SENDS OUT NEW YEAR BOOK

One of the last year books for 1913-14 comes from the Trivium club of Liberty. This club is one of the most deserving in all Texas. It exists in a very small town, half way between the two larger club centers of Beaumont and Houston. Thus, what might be of interest attracts from Liberty rather than to it. Notwithstanding, there is a band of twenty active and two honorary members, who do really good things. The study for a number of years has been the course of Shakspere outlined by Miss Kate Friend, the plays for this season being Julius Caesar and Merry Wives of Windsor. The addition of David Copperfield has been made in the wake of the Dickens centenary in which so many of the clubs turned towards this half forgotten author. The Christmas and the new year season marks the division between Shakspere and Dickens. On March fourth a Texas day makes prominent the life of Sam Houston, and finds the annual election of officers. The open session of the club comes with early April, and this closes the year. This club has been affiliated with the State Federation since 1902. Seldom does a district or a state meeting find the Trivium delegate's seat unoccupied.

MISS MARY JOHNSTON SENDS OUT NEW BOOK

We have grown so accustomed to think of Mary Johnston as a woman who depicts life and character of the south, that we are scarce prepared to read her latest from any other mental poise. But we must. Miss Johnston has avowed the cause of votes for women, and "Hagar," her latest book, is along this line. "Hagar" was published on October 25, hence has not reached the library table. The story is a thoroughly American woman—southern by birth, cosmopolitan by force of circumstances, a suffragist by conviction and a home lover by every feminine instinct. The heroine of "Hagar" writes and speaks for suffrage fearlessly, yet preserves that all powerful moderation, and forfeits none of her rights of family and womanliness. She is a Virginian of ultra conservative circles, yet she thinks for herself. The story shifts from the Virginia home to many foreign cities, a New York apartment, and finally to a tiny French village. This book, while sugragism is involved, is typically a love story. It is well written, and has received much favorable review in advance of its publication. In reading "Hagar" the London News is free to say that Mary Johnston, our own southern girl, is a follower in the footsteps of Thackery.

CLUBS ARE REMINDED OF DELINQUENT DUES

Following the many details of opening a new year, many clubs are failing to realize the close proximity of the State Federation, when, for delegates to be seated, the receipt for dues must be at hand. Mrs. Homer D. Wade of Stamford, as state treasurer, has sent notice to clubs who have not sent dues; also, Mrs. Hertzberg is in her weekly letter this morning reminding of same. This should be attended to at the earliest possible moment. Do not wait until the club meets again. The matter is an obligation and every president should attend to it immediately. With hundreds of clubs, it is no matter for a treasurer to have all accurate; again, she must have her books balanced, and audited in order to make her report at the federation. This she can do, if the individual club does not respond promptly to payment. Do not wait until the delegate goes to Corpus Christi. There the distraction of the crowd, the late arrivals of some, and countless other causes make it imperative for every club president right now to attend to this matter. Send to Mrs. Homer D. Wade, Stamford.

BEGIN TO FORM JUNIOR CLUBS NOW IS THE ACCEPTED TIME

One of the first requests made of the Texas clubs after the election of Mrs. Pennybacker as president general of the club women was "Do agitate the forming of junior clubs." The object is self evident, to train the young girls to the club idea. We must recall that we women of today are the pioneers; we are the first club women. If our principles are not strengthened in the women to come, where will be the result of all which we have accomplished? The formation of the junior club solves the difficulty.

What May Be Done.

Youth must be amused. It is not time for the abstruse principles of the "uplift of humanity," "social service" "altruism" and such. Form the club, have the beautiful picture studied, have readings from the alluring poems, present scenes from the drama; bring out the girls' activity along lines which interest girls. Every young woman inclines to a beauty yard; she will sell Red Cross stamps. There is much for the foundation of higher civics. So let the junior club at first be full of pleasing diversion. Incite loyalty and tenacity of purpose. By and by, with maturity and larger experience in life, the principles of the mothers will actuate the daughters, and the junior spirit will pass on to the adult earnestness of purpose in club life.

Now Is the Time.

Is it not timely that this subject should receive attention from the club women? It is the time when we will all be gathered in Corpus Christi for the interchange of ideas. Some work will be finished and some new begun. Why not this subject of junior clubs be broached? It takes time for a new idea to crystalize, but this is not new. All over Texas there have been girls' clubs. So far, none has been organized and directed by adults which should be the case. From the multiplicity of subject now engaging women's attention, surely there is something in every town of sufficient interest to enlist the young girls. Let us think about this seriously. The club movement is now finding the first advocates feeling the disposition to retire and to let the work fall to more active shoulders. What will we do if these younger women do not take up their heritage of good work for others?

THE WACO WOMEN ACTIVE IN THEIR HOSPITALITY

The two weeks to come will find every latch string without woman's door in Waco. Their great Cotton Palace opened on Saturday, and the work which the women have done is something remarkable. They occupy the second floor and there through capable and energetic chairmen, have gathered an exhibit which challenges anything of its kind in the south. Arts and crafts, china decoration, pictures from reputed artists, typical scenes from foreign lands by German, Italian and Bohemian women now residents of Waco; curios of rare interest, Confederate relics, artistic needlework, woman's handiwork for sale, culinary dainties, all manner of device for saving labor, all this and much more is attractively displayed. But more interesting than all as applied to a Cotton Palace is the array of pieces modelled by the children of Waco from cotton. It is wonderful, simply wonderful to see what the little folks have done. A tea room will dispense hospitality, women will check and nurse babies, and much more is woman's work for Waco's annual exposition.

But there is more. The parade exclusively of women on November the eighth, will find three miles to represent every phase of woman's activity in this city. Nothing will enter this parade without appropriate decorations, so that the pageant will be one of beauty as well as an exposition of Waco women. The surrounding towns are sending their women to participate. The evening will find a vaudeville from Waco woman's talent. In all Waco is hostess and she hopes every woman in Texas may find the time to pay her a visit within the coming two weeks.

NEIGHBOR HAS JOKE ON BRYAN.

Commoner Worked All Day In Sun Clearing Another Man's Land.

Dr. H. A. Lawton, who is a neighbor of Secretary Bayan when the latter is wintering on the Florida coast, arrived at the Astor with a tale of how Col. Bryan set out to clear up his Florida estate last winter.

"You see," said Dr. Lawton, "the colonel's land adjoins that of the prosecuting attorney of Dade county, Mr. Billingslea. A lot of that ground down there is covered with what is about the same as a jungle. There is the gumbo-limbo tree, for instance, which will grow if you simply cut off a twig and stick it in the ground, and when you start out to clear ground there you have a job before you. But when one day Col. Bryan announced that he was going to clear his land himself, and bought a brand-new ax and a hatchet to do the job with, none attempted to dissuade him. So Mr. Billingslea and I called for him with my car one morning.

"We found him dressed for the work in a checked gingham shirt, no collar, and a straw hat, and we set him down where he wanted to get out.

"'Now, be sure,' he enjoined us, 'not to come back for me before nightfall.'

"We promised, and as we turned back we saw he was already tackling the nearest bit of the jungle.

"When we got back at the promised time the colonel stood waiting for us. Not only from the condition of his shirt was it apparent that he had been working on that broiling hot day, but a respectable mass of forest had disappeared. It astonished me to think a man could cut down so many tough trees in one day, even with a new ax.

"'Well,' called the colonel, as we drove up, 'what do you think about it?' casting his arm about with a sweeping gesture.

"'As for myself, I could only say it was a mighty good day's work. But Billingslea looked about, in a sort of surprised fashion. His eyes had quickly taken in the spot Col. Bryan had been working on.

"'You have done well, colonel,' he cried, 'and I have to thank you, sir, for beginning on my land.'

"'Why, what do you mean?' demanded Mr. Bryan.

"'You haven't reached your land yet,' explained Billingslea; 'you have been working all day on mine,' and he pointed out the boundary mark.

"Mr. Bryan removed his hat and scratched his head. Then he smiled whimsically. He climbed into the car.

"'Not a word about this,' he cautioned us as we drove off. But I have chuckled so much over it that if I don't tell it I'll simply explode."

NANCY LEISHMAN NOW THE DUCHESS OF CROY

The civil marriage ceremony between Miss Nancy Leishman, daughter of John G. Leishman, former American ambassador to Germany, and the Duke of Croy was performed in Switzerland by a magistrate in the town hall of the village of Versoix, a small place on the Lake of Geneva, about four and a half miles to the north of Geneva.

A Louisville negro was caught with a number of hides in his possession, for which he could not reasonably account, and was brought into court charged with stealing.

"Guilty or not guilty?" thundrede the judge.

"Not guilty," emphatically responded the negro.

"Then how do you account for the fact that you were in possession of two $5 bills when you were arrested, although you are known to have been unemployed for a year?" demanded his honor.

"Jes let me relate the circumstance, Mr. Jedge——"

"And that three hides, of which you claim to know nothing, were found hiding in your cellar?"

"I dunno, jedge, but——"

"And that you were seen coming out of the tannery with three more?"

The negro scratched his head in silence for a minute, then blurted out:

"Lookey here, Mr. Jedge, if you is gwine to get so troublesome an' so quisitive 'bout this little matter, I's jest pintedly gwine ter take back what I said 'bout not guilty an' make it guilty."

TO GIVE PRIZES FOR CROP RECORDS

ARE TO DISTRIBUTE $10,000

One Hundred and Sixty Awards in All—Consider Yield Per Acre at Lowest Cost.

Dallas, Nov. 1.—The Texas Industrial Congress will hold its fifth annual convention in the convention hall of the Dalas Chamber of Commerce on December 13. At this time the congress will award 160 prizes, aggregating $10,000 in gold, to those of its contestants who have made the largest yields per acre of certain field crops at the least expense.

The railroads of the state, in accordance with their usual practice, are expected to make special rates for the convention and a large attendance of delegates, contestants, members of the congress and visitors is expected.

Besides awarding the prizes the year's work will be officially reviewed, a program to be announced later will be carried out and officers will be elected to serve the congress during 1914.

During the months of January, February and March last, a campaign was carried on by the congress in all counties of the state to secure the largest possible number of contestants for the prizes offered for better farming, and this campaign received the loyal support of the newspapers, commercial bodies and individual business men, ranchmen, and farmers everywhere. It resulted in enlisting 10,869 contestants, or pupils, in better farming, in 215 counties—886 in the four-crop model demonstration farm class, 3704 in the Texas corn club, 4,621 in the Texs cotton club, 1,462 in the unirrigated forage crop class, and 196 in the irrigated forage crop class.

Tabulating Contestants Records.

The work of each contestant in endeavoring to secure the largest yield per acre at the least expense has gone steadily on during the year and the reports of yields and cost of production per acre are coming into the office of the congress daily for tabulation and comparison, and will be received until November 15. Whenever results are reported by anyone that may entitle him to a prize, a blank form of affidavit is mailed to the contestant that he and his witnesses may go before a notary and make oath to the facts as claimed. Whenever any results are turned in that appear unreasonable they are carefully investigated, especially if they would be entitled to a prize award—to the end that no injustice may be done to any person.

The following are the prizes to be awarded on December 13, for best results in better farming. It will be noted that the prizes are not given for the largest yields, but for the largest net profits, the congress desiring to impress the lesson that it is not the amount of money the Texas farmer receives for his crops that benefits him, but what he has left from this sum after the expenses of producing the crop have been paid.

Classifications.

Class A, four crop model demonstration farms—For the largest combined yields of merchantable crops, cost of production considered, produced on four one-acre plots cultivated in cow-peas (the vines to be plowed under at maturity), kaffir or milo, cotton and corn; $3,000 in 25 prizes: First prize, $1,000; second $500; third, $250; fourth, $150; fifth, 100. Twenty prizes of $50 each for the twenty next best results.

Class B, boys' and girls' Texas Corn Clubs—For the largest yields of corn grown on one acre, cost of production considered; $2,500 in 55 prizes: First prize, $500; second, $300; third, $250; fourth, $125; fifth, $75. Fifty prizes of $25 each for the fifty next best results.

Class C, boys' and girls' Texas Cotton Club—For the largest yields of middling cotton grown on one acre, cost of production considered; $2,500 in 55 prizes: First prize, $500; second, $300; third, $250; fourth, $125; fifth, $75. Fifty prizes of $25 each for the fifty next best results.

Special combination prizes—To any contestant entered in both Class B and Class C, winning first prize in each class, a special award of $500.

Class D, unirrigated forage crops—For the largest yields, cost of production considered, from two acres of either kaffir or milo, $1,000 in 12 prizes: First prize, $200; second, $200. Ten prizes of $50 each for the ten next best results.

Class E, irrigated forage crops—For the largest yields, cost of production considered, from two acres of either kaffir or milo, $1,000 in 12 prizes: First prize, $300; second, $200. Ten prizes of $50 each for the ten next best results.

In addition to these prizes nineteen scholarships, offered by the University of Texas, will be awarded to successful contestants.

The convention will be officially made up of officers and committeemen of the congress and delegates selected from the counties, cities towns and agricultural, industrial and commercial organizations of the state, together with such members of the congress, contestants, invited persons and other friends as may decide to attend.

$20,000 for Prizes in 1911-12.

The Texas Industrial Congress during 1911 and 1912 spent about $55,000 of which $20,000 went for prizes. Estimating its yield at about three times the state's average yields—in kaffir, milo and cow-peas they are about seven times the state's average—and figuring the increase over the state averages at market prices, it has turned into business receipts of Texas over half a million dollars, or ten dollars for every dollar expended in those two years. This increase in business, however, does not represent the principal benefit to the state. The chief purpose of the congress has been to make better farmers, and the teaching of better farming is of course the only possible means to this end. The 6,000 farmers in 1911 and 1912 and the 11,000 farmers this year who through the encouragement of the congress have learned to produce more at less cost have received a lasting benefit and are an advantage to the communities in which they live, in several ways—in ability to raise better crops every year, in furnishing an object lesson to their neighbors, and in preserving the fertility of the land. The financial gain to the business of the state, a necessary accompaniment of the movement for better farming is so far as the educational work of the congress is concerned, an interesting by-product of its campaign, affording only partially a test of its value to the state.

New York Housekeeping Expense.

New York, Nov. 1.—The budget committee of the board of estimate announced today that it had drawn up a budget calling for only $192,995,551, for New York's housekeeping expenses next year. Although this is an increase of $284,110 over the budget for 1913, it shows the smallest increase of any budget for many years. As a rule the yearly increase has been about $10,000,000. The committee estimated the general fund of the city at $42,500,000, indicating that the tax rate for Manhattan might be reduced next year from $1.84 to $1.77.

Twenty-five years ago Argentina had to import its flour. Today it sells wheat to the world, the annual harvest value amounting to more than $500,000,000.

WOMEN LABOR LAWS.

Pennsylvania Statute Is in Effect—54 Hours a Week.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 1.—Pennsylvania's new women employment law went into effect today and the limit of hours of employment for women and girls will be 54 per week, except in the home and on the farm. The new law prohibits the employment of women or girls for more than six consecutive days and not more than ten hours in any one day.

One of the features of the act is that 45 minutes must be allowed for the midday meal and a rest period of the same length after continuous employment for six hours. Night employment is limited to telephone operators over 18 years of age and to women employed as managers, superintendents, clerks and stenographers.

The department of labor and industry, which is charged with the enforcement of the law, will, according to a statement issued by Commissioner Jackson, be reasonable and work to bring about the conditions required by the statute without entailing unnecessary hardships. The effect of the law will be to cause many changes in industrial and mercantile establishments and its applicability to theatrical people and various classes of employes will be worked out after advice from the attorney general's department.

Boy's Prank Causes Trouble.

Kansas City, Nov. 1.—A boy's Hallowe'en prank last night caused trouble for the police and the fire department. The boy spied a telephone cable spool in a street. A little block of wood held it from rolling down hill. The boy waited until he was sure there were no policemen watching, then removed the block.

It started slowly, but as the great cylinder, six feet in diameter and weighing 1,000 pounds, rolled on its momentum increased. Just before it reached Twelfth street, crowded with motor cars and pedestrians, it was traveling thirty miles an hour. Then it crashed against a water plug. The hydrant was snapped off at the base and the rushing water shot into the door of a saloon.

The water flowed down the street in a torrent. It took the police, the fire and water departments two hours to stop the flood and restore order.

A bell made of concrete is said to have almost the same resonant qualities as metal.

Enormous Chrysanthemum.

New York, Nov. 1.—A chrysanthemum fourteen feet in diameter with 1,800 yellow blossoms is a new record set by Adolph Lewisohn, in an exhibit of the Horticultural society of New York, which opened today at the Museum of Natural History. The long late fall enabled Mr. Lewisohn's gardener to bring the plant to a perfection to which he said would never be brought again and this was probably the largest chrysanthemum plant possible to grow.

Buys Deed to Manhattan Island.

New York, Nov. 1.—It is a well known item of history that Manhattan Island was originally purchased for about $24. The deed of this sale, given by the Indians, sold last night at auction here at about seventy times the original cost of the island. The deed was bought by George D. Smith for $1,700, the highest price bid at the sale of many valuable historical documents. The deed is written on vellum and attests in the Dutch language the transfer of the island to the Dutch in 1630.

Outdoor Air for Adenoids.

Boston, Nov. 1.—Adenoids will heal themselves in four cases out of five if the child suffering from them is given plenty of outdoor air, according to Dr. T. F. Harrington, director of school hygiene in Boston. In addressing a teachers' association last night Dr. Harrington said:

"The knife is necessary only when there is a discharge from the ear and danger to the hearing or when the blood supply is cut off from the brain and feebleimindedness and glandular trouble seems imminent."

Former Custer Man Dead.

Clearfield, Pa., Nov. 1.—Wm. Caldwell, aged 56, who missed the massacre of General Custer's force on Little Big Horn because he was sent to General Reno with a message, is dead here. Caldwell, who was 18 years old at the time of Sitting Bull's slaughter of Custer's band, was one of two men who had been sent out for aid.

Eleven-Year-Old Hero.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Gallantry in saving the life of a child at the risk of his own has won for eleven-year-old Russell Porter Reeder, Jr., a silver medal of honor from the United States government. Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department today announced the award in recognition of Reeder's heroic conduct in rescuing George E. Mullen, six years old, who fell overboard from a small boat moored to a wharf at Fort McKinley, Great Diamond Island, Maine, August 5 last. Young Reeder is the son of Capt. Russell Porter Reeder, coast artillery corps, who is stationed at Fort McKinley.

NOTED JAPANESE IN HERO WORSHIP

TO RETIRE FROM BUSINESS

Memorial Temple to His Friend—Industrial School for Children to Be Built.

Tokio, Nov. 1.—A picturesque instance of Japanese hero worship is reported from Kobe, where Sanjin Murano, a millionaire business magnate, has announced his intention of consecrating his life and fortune to the spirit of the late General Nogi, the hero of Port Arthur, who, together with his wife, committed suicide by harakiri on the night of the funeral of Emperor Mutsuhito last year. Mr. Murano has decided to retire from business and has severed his connections with all the concerns in which he has held important posts.

The announcement was made on the anniversary of the tragic death of the great soldier, whose loyalty and devotion to the country and its ruler have been held in great admiration and reverence by the retiring business man.

Mr. Murano will build a temple at Fushimi, in the vicinity of the mausoleum of Emperor Mutsuhito, as a memorial to General Nogi, and in that sanctuary Mr. and Mrs. Murano intend to spend their remaining days. He will also build an industrial school for children of the poor in order to cultivate the spirit of industry and the love of work, which the late General Nogi always insisted upon for the rising generation of Japan. For this purpose Mr. Murano has given one million yen.

Mr. Murano started his life as a modest municipal official, and the fortune he has amassed is due to his own hard work and business talent. He is now sixty years of age.

Plague of Rats.

The entire population of the small island of Nakashima, of the Ten Islands Group in southern Japan, has been threatened with extermination by a veritable plague of rats.

Nakashima is inhabited by a dozen families, all engaged in agriculture. The rodents increased there at such an enormous rate that they absolutely took possession of the island, ravaging the farms and devastating the crops, and actually attacking cattle and other livestock. The inhabitants killed or captured 5000 of them, but not before they had lost all their provisions. The authorities were forced to send a quantity of rice and barley to save them from starvation. Meantime, a campaign was organized from without to exterminate the rodents. This was a difficult matter, as they had burrowed retreats in all parts of the island.

Congress of Religions.

Leading Japanese have accepted a suggestion coming from religionists in the United States to hold a universal congress of religions in Tokio in the spring of 1915.

The suggestion was brought here by the Rev. Dr. J. T. Sunderland, who is traveling in the Far East, representing particularly the American Unitarian association and the British and Foreign Unitarian association. The object of the congress is that of breaking down the existing barriers that divide religions and nations and races. The idea, therefore, has been welcomed in Japan as a step in bringing about a closer understanding between the peoples of the United States and Japan.

In outlining the scope of the congress, Dr. Sunderland argued before the Japanese that religion has oftentimes proved an antagonizing force instead of a uniting element between races. He thought that a congress where all religious ideas, including Buddhism, Shintoism, Mohammedism and other sects should be represented would be helpful. There is no idea, he said, of criticizing or attacking any religion. The goal is to bring them into sympathetic relation without trying to destroy or change any of them.

The Tokio congress will be preceded by similar congresses in Europe, the Near East, India, Ceylon and Shanghai, and will be followed by a final congress at San Francisco.

During his stay in Japan, Dr. Sunderland made many addresses. He was greatly impressed with the marked development in the educational system of the country and was especially struck with the zeal of the Japanese girl students, whom he addressed at the Woman's University of Japan on what to them was the absorbing subject of the higher education of women in the United States.

Houston Ship Channel.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 1.—The Houston ship channel will be completed in March, 1914, when it will be turned over by the United States government to deep sea navigation. To prepare for the coming of the big ships, the city is planning the construction of free wharves and docks at the turning basin, located at the upper terminus of the channel. Construction is to begin at once.

Cadillac
Standard of the World

Those who are within the world of Cadillac ownership are enjoying luxuries to which you must remain a stranger so long as you are outside that world

Motoring as you know it, and motoring as the owner of a 1914 Cadillac knows it, are two distinct and different things.

It is not that the two speed direct drive axle has changed the principle of the Cadillac engine.

But it has conferred upon it powers which it did not possess without it.

It has altered the performance—changed the character of that performance—and changed the sensations resulting from that performance.

So, those who are within the world of Cadillac ownership, are enjoying luxuries to which you must remain a stranger so long as you are outside that world.

And they are marked, these differences—these peculiar luxuries of the Cadillac.

So marked, that we doubt if you can drive the memory of them out of your mind after a single ride in the Cadillac.

They are not easy to describe—though you will be conscious of them before the car has traveled half a mile.

But, let us see if we can give you an idea.

You know what the Cadillac—and the Cadillac engine—were before the advent of this 1914 car.

You know that it was notably free from tremor.

You know that it did not lunge forward, but forged forward, majestically, like a battleship.

These were the natural fruits of Cadillac construction—refined and developed to an extraordinary degree.

And now, new qualities and new functions have been conferred upon it, by means of a second—supplemental—principle.

This other principle—the two speed direct drive axle—takes the Cadillac at its high point of development and extends it.

The new Cadillac axle has two direct drive gear ratios.

Eliminating all technicalities from the subject, the advantage of the high direct drive gear ratio consists in the fact that through it, a given speed of the engine produces an increase of 42 per cent in the speed of the car.

Out of this central improvement grow those differences in operation to which we have referred.

Keeping in mind the more slowly moving engines, you sense at once that infinitely greater steadiness must follow.

Holding fast to the same mental picture, you see that vibration must be reduced almost to the vanishing point.

Imagine the car with the low direct gear, operating at an engine speed of 700 revolutions per minute.

The car will travel 21 miles per hour.

Shift the electric switch and pass into the high direct drive gear ratio, and the speed of the car increases to 30 miles an hour with no increase in the speed of the engine.

Unconsciously, when you change gears, you look forward to the apparent effort and labor of the engine to be increased.

It does not come.

The trembling does not come.

No shock, no disturbance is communicated to the car or its occupants.

The steady pressing onward of the car is uninterrupted—the smoothness is continuous.

You forget the engine, you forget the car. There is only quiet—and a soft swinging through space.

Is it any wonder that Cadillac owners are volubly enthusiastic?

They have this velvety mode of travel of which you have yet to learn.

They have attained it by methods which lower the fuel consumption, decrease friction and reduce appreciably the cost of operation.

They have artistic body designs whichs make it difficult to suggest any sense in which their beauty could be heightened.

They have progressive, scientific engineering development.

They have the certainty of the Cadillac Delco system of electrical cranking, lighting and ignition.

They have the improved Cadillac carburetor, hot water jacketed and electrically heated.

They have entrance and exit for front seat passengers on either side,—right hand drive and right hand control with all of its advantages and no disadvantages.

They have the simple electric switch for shifting from high direct to low direct gear, or vice versa.

They have Cadillac standardisation, true alignment and interchangeability of parts.

They have the product of an organization inspired by the highest ideals.

They have the Cadillac glorified and refined.

They have a car entitled to the distinction,

"Standard of the World."

"GOOD WORDS" PRISON NEWSPAPER CHARACTERIZES INTENTIONS AS GOOD.

STAY IN PRISON IS VOLUNTARY

Mental State Much to Do With Punishment, and Not Felt by Commissioner.

Atlanta, Nov. 1.—The efforts of Thomas M. Osborne of New York, who recently served a self-imposed sentence at Auburn prison to learn at first hand the psychological effect of penitentiary life upon the minds of prisoners, today were characterized as well meant but futile, in an article appearing in Good Words, the paper printed within the walls of the Atlanta federal prison.

This article, under the caption, "An Amateur Convict," said that "Mr. Osborne's trip to Tophet with a string tied to himself" was both estimable and entertaining and that he deserves credit for directing attention to prison problems. The article adds, however, that though this "penitentiary Columbus really may have gained some ideas about physical existence in jail, he actually got no deeper than the surface of the infernos in which all bona fide convicts must live."

It is pointed out that Mr. Osborne undertook his self-imposed hardship fortified by the excellence of his motives and a contemplation of the plaudits he undoubtedly would earn through his martyrdom. "That," says Good Words, "is the main obstacle which prevented him from attaining his object, for real convicts have no such support or encouragement."

The article calls attention to the fact that the prisoner who, at the end of his term, slinks out into the world with a $5-bill in the pocket of his prison-made clothes has no applauding public waiting to "crown him with wreaths of reform and humanitarianism." The convict has not the comfort of meditation upon present heroism or future renown, says the article. "The only companions of the prisoner's solitude," it continued, "are vain regrets for the past, shame and humiliation at the treatment to which he is subjected in prison and the dread prospect of disgrace and persecution which await when he goes back to the world."

Mr. Osborne, says the article, never will know anything of prison life which he might not just as well have learned as an observant visitor. The secret of seeing prisons through a prisoner's eyes, it is pointed out, cannot be handed from one person to another at will. "It will take root only in prepared soil, and Mr. Osborne's mind is a kind of loam that will take a great deal of fertilizing before becoming available."

Hope is expressed that good will come of Mr. Osborne's experiment and it is suggested that if judges and prosecutors were obliged to qualify by spending a term in prison no longer than that of Mr. Osborne "justice and decency in administration of criminal law would be greatly advanced."

Good Words is published by the prisoners, and, as is stated in an editorial in the current issue, articles appearing therein present the views and ideas of the prisoners and not those of the officials.

Jim's boss sent him upon the roof to paint it. That was early in the morning. Toward nightfall the boss clambered up the ladder to see whether his workman had flown away or been eaten by the birds. There was Jim sitting on the edge of the house singing, says the Washington Star.

"Jim, you lazy piece, what have you been doing?"

"Nuffin'."

"Didn't I send you up here to paint the roof?"

"Yessir."

"Well, did you do it?"

"Yessir."

"What else did you do?"

"I went to sleep."

"Why didn't you come down if you had finished?"

"'Deed, boss, you jes' said paint de roof. You nevah said nuffin' 'bout comin' down."

TO CONTROL IN FLOUR

AMERICANS WILL SEEK TO SUPPLY TRADE OF THE WORLD.

Canadian Warns the British Millers of the Effect of the Tariff Law.

Liverpool, Nov. 1.—Alexander Mackenzie, a wealthy wheat rancher of Saskatoon, is here investigating the condition of the grain market, and he has taken advantage of his visit to warn the wheat and flour importers of the British Isles that the passing of the American tariff law means the attainment of the long cherished ambition of American millers to the control of the flour markets of the world. Speaking on this subject the Canadian rancher said:

"It has long been the cherished ambition of American millers to control effectively the flour markets of the world, and it now appears as if this dream was in a fair way to be realized. The realization of this dream will not work any hardship on the Canadian wheat grower, as it will be distinctly to our advantage to have such a near market for our grain, but how it will fare with the British and Continental millers. When they were able to secure our wheat regardless of the long haul, which was offset by the American duty, everything was well, but if the millers of St. Paul, Minneapolis and other great flour centers of the Middle West states, near the Canadian boundary, adopt for their trade motto, 'flour only for sale,' they can well afford to stand pat, selling their flour at the actual cost of production if necessary, and still make good profits on the by-products, which have hitherto enriched the British and Continental millers.

"I am surprised that the millers here are so indifferent to the threatened loss of business, which will be inevitable, for from the moment of the ill-starred reciprocity campaign the American flour men have been preparing to take advantage of the removal of the duty on Canadian wheat. The Canadians are also under no illusions as to the advantages which will accrue to them from the new tariff, as witnessed by the fact that they are now preparing to ship across the border 3,000,000 bushels of oats, which they have been holding in anticipation of the passage of the new act."

Investigate Indian Conditions.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Commissioner Sells of the Indian bureau, has summoned the governors and principal chiefs of the five civilized tribes, Superintendent Kelsey, of the Union agency, and all the national tribal attorneys to hold a conference with him here next Monday to discuss Indian minor probate conditions in Oklahoma.

The commissioner is investigating this situation preparatory to taking aggressive action looking to reforms. He regards the conditions surrounding the handling of the property of Indian minors as one of the most important and possessing problems affecting the tribes in Oklahoma. Preliminary conferences were held at the bureau this week with Superintendent Kelsey and the tribal attorneys, resulting in the call for the chiefs and the governors.

EPISCOPALIANS MAKE CHURCH HISTORY

Forty-Third Triennial Convention the Most Important Gathering of Communion—Peace and Unity Is Maintained in Spite of Many Differncee.

Although the forty-third triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church left three important subjects unsettled, the convention made church history and was one of the most important gatherings ever held by the communion.

Not only was the convention significant from a legislative standpoint, but the peace and unity of the church, which it was felt by many at the beginning of the sessions were in jeopardy, were maintained with the most harmonious relations among the so-called High and Low church factions.

Important questions, which might easily have precipitated such unfortunate situations, were decided amicably, and as one legislative shoal after another was safely passed, it was evident that the delegates took into consideration the views of others who differed with them, and tried to create a kindly spirit in which to attain calm judgment, and to preserve that unity within the church for which they are striving so hard.

Change of Name Postponed.

The change of name of the church, a subject that has been agitated for a number of years, was brought before the convention through a memorial from California. The true spirit of harmony which prevailed was shown by the action upon this question, which many feared would cause discord. Although a strong minority favored the change, the entire subject was postponed, almost without debate, until a future convention.

Probably the most radical resolution introduced was that of Dr. William T. Manning, leader of the High Church party, by which it was provided that a two-third vote of both houses should be necessary to make any change in the title page or any other section of the prayer book. This resolution passed the house of deputies early in the session, but was mislaid and reached the bishops too late to be considerrd.

The house of deputies passed an amendment to the Good Friday collect, eliminating the words "Jews, Turks, infidels and heretics" and substituting "Those who know Thee not." Upon this resolution the two houses were deadlocked and the measure failed of passage.

These changes related principally to the relations which the church is endeavoring to establish toward the world at large, but there have also been important actions taken which touch more closely the internal government of the church.

Internal Changes Made.

Probably the most important of these changes is the adoption of the resolution of a joint commission which recommended the establishment of a system of provinces within the church. This reorganization provides for an organization of each province similar to that of the general body of the church, with a synod of one house, consisting of all the bishops residing within the bounds of the province and of the clerical and lay deputies chosen by the general dioceses and missionary districts, with the provision that the bishops might meet in separate sessions whenever they so wished.

First Province—Diocese within the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Second Province—Dioceses within the states of New York and New Jersey and the missionary district of Porto Rico.

Fourth Province—Dioceses and missionary districts with the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Sixth Province—Dioceses and missionary districts within the states of Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado.

Seventh Province—Dioceses and missionary districts within the states of Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Eighth Province—Dioceses and missionary districts within the states of Idaho, Utah, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, California and Arizona, and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and of the missionary district of the Philippine Islands.

Court of Appeals Voted Down.

The proposed canon for a court of appeals, which would hear and determine appeals from adverse rulings of courts of review and of trial courts of the church, providing such appeals were taken only on questions relating to "doctrine, faith and worship," was rejected by the house of deputies.

A question affecting the government of the church upon which the two houses were deadlocked related to the creation of a negro bishopric with a member of that race to preside over the colored congregations. The deputies voted to create a new commission to study the question and report at the 1916 convention, while the house of bishops authorized the creation of a colored bishop. No agreement was reached on the question.

Late in the convention the problem of representation in the National Federal Council of Churches came up and threw the house into a lively debate on the advisability of federating with other denominations. The question finally settled itself into a debate concerning the differences between unity and federation, and into the technicalities relating to principles of faith and order endangered by such federation.

For Church Federation.

Although the opposition to the measure was strong, the spirit of aloofness was overcome, and the desire to do all in their power to promote kindlier relations with other sects as a step to that day when church unity will prevail led the majority to vote in favor of federation. Rev. Dr. Arthur B. Kinsolving of Baltimore seemed to come nearest the mark when he reminded the delegates that the Lambeth conference decided that this subject could be approached best through lines of practical procedure, or, in other words, through the practical work of social service reform.

The whole trend of the day in all churches is toward this same work of social service, and the report of the social service committee and the resolution presented by Rathborn Gardner, lay delegate from Rhode Island, calling for the church to put herself on record as in favor of the reform of industrialism, and as standing for the ideal of social justice and the achievement of a social order in which there will be a more equitable distribution of wealth, go far to show the real interest which the churches are showing in practical things.

Legislation affecting the house of bishops was passed, which provided that, at the expiration of the presiding bishop's term of office, a presiding bishop should be elected without regard to seniority, which has heretofore been the attribute which has determined that office. This was proposed in 1910, and had waited the necessary three years for its adoption. The bishops, it was felt by many of the delegates, had enacted the only piece of reactionary legislation of the convention in voting against making the sessions of the house of bishops open to the public.

Strong Protest Against Divorce.

The convention touched lightly on matters relating to marriage and divorce, though emphatically putting itself on record as against the latter.

The huge sessions of the missionary societies and the consideration of problems for enlarging the work have shown the stand taken by the church in regard to missions. Never before have there been such great collections, and never before have boards been able to report so much progress.

The collection of the Woman's Auxiliary alone amounted to $300,000, the record gift of this arganization. The board of missions reported that during the last three years the gifts to missions have amounted to $3,484,000, and the legacies to $312,974, making the wonderful total of almost $3,797,000. This is outside of the special offerings, which brings the amount well over $6,000,000.

Cincinnati is to have a permanent exhibit building for wares made in that city.

He Should Worry.

At least one Detroiter is possessed of a philosophical turn of mind that should send him through life content with his lot, says the Free Press. Recently he had the misfortune to break an arm while cranking his automobile. A few days later a friend encountered him on the street and started to sympathize with him because of his trouble. The man with a broken arm sat up in his seat and eyed his friend closely.

"Why should I worry?" he inquired.

"Your accident," said the astonished sympathizer.

"Say," confided the injured one, "I haven't any holler coming on that score. Do you know just a few days before I broke my arm I took out an accident policy that pays me $25 a week? I hire a chuaffeur now for $15. That leaves me $10 every week with which to buy gasoline for the car. Not so bad, eh?"

Figures and Food.
(Answers.)

Whether we eat to live or live to eat, there is no getting away from the fact that each one of us consumes an enormous quantity of food.

Have you any idea how much? If not, the following figures probably will startle you. A scientist with a love for statistics has investigated the whole question; and, according to this authority the average old gentleman, during the process of attaining his three score years and ten, disposes of something like 54 tons of solid food and 53 tons of liquid.

He will have eaten 12,000 eggs, 400 pounds of cheese, about four tons of fish and, could it have been all baked at once, a loaf of bread equal in size to an ordinary family hotel.

But think of the vegetables devoured! Our scientist says a train three miles long would be required to bring a life's supply to the average man; though in this same train it might also be possible to carry his 500,000 cigarettes, his half ton of tobacco, his 10,000 pounds of sugar and his 1,500 pounds of salt.

Members of House Puzzle Over Gift for White House Bride

Washington, Nov. 1.—Members of the house of representatives are exhibiting much interest in the selection of their wedding gifts for Miss Jessie Wilson, the white house bride to be. While no definite decision has been reached as to the character of the gift, most of the members are said to favor silver. It is thought likely therefore that a silver piece will be selected.

Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, will play an important part in the selection of the gift. The suggestion that Miss Clark should give her advice in the matter came from Minority Leader Mann, who also started the movement for a present for the president's daughter. Miss Clark is now visiting friends in Northern New Jersey and it is understood that she will shortly visit the shops in New York City to look at the latest creations there and report later.

ENGLISH HOP CROP SHORT

Prices Soar But Independent Dealers Will Not Come to Market.

London, Nov. 1.—The London hop market is experiencing a crisis unprecedented since the famous season of 1882, when hops attained a price never reached before or since.

For several years English hops have been plentiful, but of a poor quality, and the ruling price was so low that all of the weaker growers were driven out of business, leaving only the independent farmers in the field. This season the crop in England and Austria is very short, and the market had hardly opened when prices began to soar. In the United States the crop is plentiful and good, and, almost from the opening of the market, the price on the other side has been ten cents lower than here. In spite of the high price no hops have been brought to market, and the surviving growers are enjoying their vengeance to the fullest extent. All of them can hold on as long as they please and with the season two weeks old there are no signs of weakening on their part. The only buyers who are happy are those who foresaw the conditions early enough to buy American crops in advance, some of whom have made fortunes on their deals.

Other buyers are very pessimistic over the situation and declare that the cheapness of hops in the United States cannot save the situation long, as the price there is bound to go up as soon as the American growers realize the situation here. Some of the dealers are already predicting that the price will finally surpass the historic level of 1882.

CLUB TO MOURN FOR PRESIDENT

FRENCH JOCKEY IS ONE OF THE MOST EXCLUSIVE IN EUROPE.

VACANCY TO BE HARD TO FILL

Has Many Distinguished Members. Only Admits Those of High Social Position.

Paris, Nov. 1.—The death of the Duke de Fezensac, head of the great Montesquoiu family, renders vacant French Jockey clu, one of the world's French Jocqey club, one of the world's most exclusive clubs.

Founded in 1833 on the same lines as the English Jockey club, by the celebrated Lord Henry Seymour, it numbered among its fourteen foundation members the Duke of Orleans, the Duke of Nemours, Prince of the Moskowa, and Count Demidoff. High social position and large fortune have always been indispensable conditions of membership; one black ball in six suffices to exclude. The etiquette of the club is of the strictest, and a long period of mourning will elapse before the election of the new president takes place. The post is not an easy one to fill.

First, there are the social qualifications, which are many; secondly, the successful candidate must devote much time to his duties. Both the late Duke de Fenzensac and his predecessor, the Duke de Doudeauville, were admirable in these respects. The president is usually taken from among the four vice-presidents, but of these at present two are considered too elderly and neither of the other two seems to have enough weight for the post. The Jockey club has a predilliction for members of French noble families and, outside of royalties, admits comparatively few foreigners. There are at present a thousand members; but it is only on rare occasions that anything like that number assembles. The club is a solemn and dignified institution. It never gives entertainments and women are rarely, if ever, admitted.

Is a New Policy.

"America's first step towards a new policy," is the way George Scelle, professor of international law in the University of Dilon, describes the Porter prosal which resulted in the international convention of 1907 on the coercive recovering of contract debts from defaulting states. This policy has resulted, the professor writes in the Franco-American Review, in a de facto protectorate of the United States over several Latin American countries. The "protectorate" must not be taken in its ordinary sense, as "implying the giving up of interior government and especially the control of exterior relations to the agents of the protector who are ostensibly installed in the administration of the protected country."

"The recent interventions of the United States," says he, "in Central America, in San Domingo, Honduras, Nicaragua and Mexico, recall attention to the constant manifestation of North American imperialism in the affairs of the Latin states. This coercive action comes about as a result of disorder. It takes a logical course according to the circumstances of the case appearing at one time as a political intervention, or at another in the form of tutelage, financial in principle, political in effect, pacific in result, which one scarcely knows how to classify among the institutions of international law. Notwithstanding criticism directed against this policy, it appears impossible to deny that the work undertaken is one of civilization."

Lieutenant Colonel E. Picard finds that the firing of one shell of the twelve-inch naval gun costs 4350 francs, or about $976. This amount is divided as follows: The cost of the projectile, which weighs 440 kilogrammes (about 970 pounds), is 1500 francs ($300). The charge weighs 135 kilogrammes (about 297 pounds), and costs 1100 francs (about $220). The gun costs 350,000 francs (about $70,000). Taking the life of the gun as 200 shots, each shot would cost 1750 francs, or about $350.

An Invisible Uniform.

The enormous role which the dirigible and the aeroplane will have in future wars has convinced European governments of the necessity of discovering an invisible uniform. During the recent French manoeuvres the troops of both sides spent a good deal of their time in deceiving the enemy's air craft. Immediately an aeroplane appeared on the horizon, the order was given to hide, and the soldiers were forced to lie behind hedges or under whatever cover was available until the air scout was out of sight.

The French military authorities acquired the conviction that the only hope of taking an enemy by surprise in modern warfare lay in being able adequately to hide from his air ships, for it was demonstrated that by means of their air fleets both General Pau and General Chomer, commanding the armies of the French manoeuvres, had almost as accurate a knowledge of their enemy's movements as of those of their own troops.

The cloth for future French uniforms which proved to be the least visible from above appears to be a blue-gray material, light in tone, with a reddish tinge. It is quite distinct from khaki and from the greenish cloth which was tested in the French army a couple of years ago.

THE MARVEL OF THE COTTON PALACE

Electrical inventors have harnessed the lightning and put it to so many uses that it is really a marvel to contemplate. Mr. Edison says electricity is only in its infancy, yet Mr. Edison has given to the world so many electrical devices that make life easier for us, that it is hard for us to see, as he does, that there is still room for greater improvement. We see the housewife busily engaged in other duties while the motor operates the washing machine; we see the hot stove eliminated while she irons with ease and comfort; we see the toast quickly prepared for the morning breakfast, and a chafing dish for the midnight luncheon. Throughout our shops, factories and mills quiet running but efficient motors operate the various machines quietly, efficiently and economically. Our streets are made as light as day, and our merchants announce their wares in flaring headlines throughout the night.

The advance in the uses to which electricity's Cousin, Gas, is put are almost on a par. The new gas range and stoves, as well as water heaters and numerous other devices, bear witness to the peace and comfort to be derived from the modern use of this old essential commodity.

THE COMBINED
ELECTRICAL and GAS EXHIBIT
BY THE ELECTRICAL AND PLUMBING CONTRACTORS OF WACO WITH TEXAS POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY

Is, without doubt, the most wonderful, novel, beautiful and complete display of electrical and gas appliances, which has ever been made in the State of Texas. The electric and gas booth at the Fair occupies a space of 2100 square feet, and is designed for the purpose of promoting the electrical and gas industry and acquaint the public with some of the many uses to which these appliances can be put. It is very apparent that the designers have spared nothing in their efforts to make this the greatest exhibition of all time.

BAYLOR WOMEN STUDY SOCIALISM

NEW INTEREST IN ATHLETICS

Miss Alice Mansell Engaged to Assist Miss Maxwell in the Girls' Physical Department.

Members of the Baylor Round Table, composed of the women and wives of the faculty, are now engaged in a serious study of Socialism and several papers on various phases of this subject were contributed at the regular meeting of the club at the last meeting with Mrs. W. H. Pool.

Mrs. J. L. Kesler, Mrs. S. R. Spencer, Mrs. J. W. Harrell and Miss Sudie Buck all read papers on the subject, which will be studied until after the holidays, when another line of serious study will be taken up. There is an element of social life injected into the club from time to time, but this does not interfere with the regular study course in any way.

Enlarging Physical Work.

Due to the enlarged work in the girls' physical department at Baylor, Miss Annie Maxwell, director, has found it necessary to secure assistance. For her assistant she has secured Miss Alice Mansell of this city, who possesses a varsity "B" and who has had large experience in the various forms of athletics in which the young women of the university engage.

$1,750 Subscribed for Baths.

Student subscriptions to the fund for the erection of a modern bath house at Baylor university have now reached the $1,750 point and it is confidently expected the sum will reach $2,000 by the time all the students have been seen. This is an even larger sum than was anticipated by the promoters of the movement and they are greatly encouraged.

Now that the students have shown their good faith in the project by putting up cash and negotiable subscriptions for the bath house, the board of trustees will be called upon to make a donation on behalf of the university and the business men of the city will be given an opportunity to assist in the work. A total of $5,000 will be needed to complete the bath house, which will be one of the best in this section of the country. It will be of brick construction and provided with hot and cold water and steam equipment for the treatment of bruises.

Art Club Formed.

To further the study of those things which relate to art, the students of Baylor enrolled in the art department have formed the Art club. Miss Hallie Walker is president, Miss Willie Mae Henry vice president and R. W. Fletcher secretary. Serious work will be done throughout the college year.

J. R. Collier, member of the board of Baylor trustees, accompanied by Mrs. Collier, went to Mumford the past week to attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Inez Wood, fine arts, 1910, to Dr. Collins of that city. Prof. and Mrs. Henry Trantham, the latter a cousin of the bride, also attended the ceremonies.

Dr. Montgomery and wife of San Benito have been in the city the past week as the guests of their daughter, Miss Vida Montgomery, of Baylor.

Miss Beeby's Lecture.

Miss Beeby, state secretary of the Young Women's Christian association for the colleges, was at Baylor the latter part of last week and dellvered an interesting address before the college Young Women's Christian association Friday night.

President Brooks of Baylor is away on a trip to Decatur college, Decatur; Burleson college, Greenville, and to Little Rock, Ark., where he was due to fill an engagement to deliver an address before an educational gathering.

Rev. J. M. Dawson, Baylor 1904, who has been in the city the past week preaching at the Brooke avenue revival, delivered three chapel addresses at the university during the past week, to the delight of the faculty and students.

Prof. Kesler to Convention.

Prof. J. L. Kesler, dean of the college at Baylor, will leave tomorrow for Knoxville, Tenn., where he will attend the nineteenth annual meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States. The University of Tennessee will be host to the educators and a representative gathering is assured. Prof. Kesler will read one of the more important papers before the conference, his subject being "Equitable Treatment of Credits from Other Colleges."

SUFFRAGE SOCIETY TO MEET.

Members of National Association Will Gather at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 1.—With the program complete, practically all arrangements have been made for the annual convention of the National Suffrage Association, which will meet here December 1 for a five days' session. The program, as announced by suffragist headquarters here today, calls for an unusually busy week for those who are seeking universal suffrage for women. About 1,000 suffragists are expected to attend and noted speakers are on the program for addresses. The convention will begin its sessions the same day congress convenes in regular session and it is planned by the suffragists to mark the opening of an active campaign to persuade congress to pass the pending constitutional amendments granting nation-wide suffrage to women. The suffragists plan to appear before committees of the house and senate and have chosen their best speakers to present their claims.

The day preceding the opening of the convention will be marked by a big mass meeting. Speakers on the program included Anna Shaw, president of the association; Miss Jane Adams of Chicago; State Senator Helen R. Robinson of Colorado, and others. A celebration of the winning of the vote of Illinois for women and the adoption of a new constitution will be features of the convention.

Rather Too Cheap.
(Washington Star.)

Setting aside a day to be known as Father's day, as advocated by Representative Moore, seems kind and considerate. But to select June and make pinning a rose on father the ceremony looks like an effort to take advantage of an inexpensive abundance.

MOTOR TRUCKS TO BE USED FOR MINE RESCUE WORK.

TRUCK USED FOR MINE RESCUE WORK.

To rescue and revive injured miners and thus reduce the loss of life and lessen the injuries resulting from the periodic disasters in the coal mines of the United States, the Bureau of Mines of the Department of Interior has evolved a new system of relief work involving the extensive use of motor rescue trucks of a special design equipped with all the paraphernalia known in the science of relief work.

The truck's compartments carry pulmotors, oxygen pumps, tanks, respirators, fire extinguishers, explosive materials, a complete underground telephone system, full stock of miners' and firemen's tools, complete ambulance equipment and medical supplies.

The Lid.

"What do you think of my new hat?" she asked. She stood before him with it on, a green one with red things.

Her husband looked at her so admiringly that she felt for the moment like some one else's wife.

"It's a peach," he said. "It's a pippin. It's a corker. It's a bird. It's a daisy.

"Oh, I'm so glad," she cried. She had on, besides the hat, a spirits of nitre colored shindig with Persian fuzz trimming.

"Oh, I'm so glad," she repeated. (See above.)

"Yes," he went on enthusiastically, "it's a wonder. It's a honey. It's a dream. It's a winner. I've always told you you ought to break away from those severely plain lids."

"Oh, I'm so glad," she reiterated. (See above.) "And just to think, Augenblitz, it only cost $49.75!"

He dropped his paper (for he had a paper) and swallowed hard.

"If you want my candid opinion of that hat," he said at length, trying to keep his voice down to an easy conversational level, "it's the limit! It's fierce. It's bum. It's a sight. It's a mess. Take it back. The simple things are more becoming to your refined style of beauty."

The sitting room clock put up its hands to hide a smile.

A New Version.
(From the Kansas City Journal.)

"What's the idea, George?" inquired Mr. Washington. "Why do you chop down this cherry tree? Have you anything against cherry trees?"

"No, sir."

"Maybe you are in favor of deforestration?"

"No, sir."

"Doing this for a moving picture concern?"

"By no means."

"Then why chop down a tree?"

"I just thought of going on the stump," replied the future father of his country. And then Mr. Washington realized that George was a born statesman.

Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson Is the Fifteenth White House Bride

WHITE HOUSE GUEST CHAMBER HAS BEEN FURNISHED BY WOMEN OF THE MOUNTAINS

Manufactures of the South have been used in furnishing one of the great south guest chambers on the second floor of the White House, adjoining the bedrooms used by President Wilson. In the process of renovation, which has been going on all over the executive mansion this summer, the guest chamber has been entirely furnished and redecorated principally with products of the South.

More than 60 yards of upholstering material made of cotton, picked, ginned, carded, and woven by women of the Southern mountain country, used for hangings, cushions, and furniture coverings, furnish the keynote of the decorative scheme. A four-poster bed, cotton rugs, and other furnishings in harmony with the general scheme complete the chamber.

Mrs. Wilson will give her personal attention to the rearrangement of many rooms when she returns to the capital from the summer White House at Cornish, N. H.

Invitations to the marriage of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the President and Mrs. Wilson, to Mr. Francis B. Sayre, in the White House, November 25, have been sent out. Between seven hundred and eight hundred persons were invited.

The President and Mrs. Wilson believe that the wedding should be modest, as that of a girl should be who always has taken more interest in home affairs than in society, and yet the official position of the family demands that it be more. Just where to draw the line has been the question.

And now there is to be the fifteenth bride to join the list of graceful and gracious ladies who have gone before. On Nov. 25 the famous old east room will witness another brilliant scene when Miss Jessie Wilson, second daughter of the president, becomes the bride of Francis B. Sayre. Again the walls will be banked with exotic flowers, and once more the soft strains of the wedding march will come from the palm-screened Marine band. Perhaps the sentimental can then imagine the shadowy brides of the dim past standing in this latest bridal train and smiling their blessings on the scene. Miss Jessie's friends can wish her no better luck. At other weddings "happy is the bride the sun shines on"; but in official Washington life this saying can be paraphrased, "happy is the bride who is married in the White House."

The approaching marriage of Miss Jessie Wilson, however, is but keeping up the traditions of the official mansion. Cupid has been constantly on the job. A singular fatality from his darts has attended presidents who had the temerity to enter the White House in a state of bachelorhood. Three of them have possessed this hardihood, but only one emerged unscathed. Cupid has batted .667 in the presidential matrimonial league. Tyler and Cleveland both became benedicts while president. James Buchanan alone emerged a bachelor, thus proving the crustiness of his nature, or his strength of character, whichever you choose to call it.

White House Honeymoons.

Those fortunate and fair women who were married in the White House may not monopolize the distinction of being the only White House brides. There were ten of these, but four others who spent their honeymoons within the executive mansion, also deserve the title. For instance, Andrew Jackson, Jr., son of "Old Hickory," was married to Miss Sarah Yorke at her home in Philadelphia, but he brought her immediately to the White House, and she was regarded as a White House bride by the people of that day. In the same way the marriage of Maj. Abram Van Buren, son of the eighth president, to Miss Angelica Singleton, in South Carolina, made the latter a White House bride. President Tyler, in the early days, did not adopt the royal custom, later followed by President Cleveland, of having his own wedding solemnized in the White House, the home of the chief magistrate. He married Miss Gardiner in New York, and brought her as a bride to the White House. And Col. and Mrs. Fred Grant, married in Chicago, spent their honeymoon days in the White House.

The tale of White House romance is one which runs back beyond the life of the building of the present White House, back to the old, first White House, a structure which presented a decided contrast to the beautiful mansion of today. We hear it described as a neat, but plain, piece of architecture, built entirely of hewn stone, giving an impression of stability rather than beauty. This was the building destroyed by the British during the war of 1812.

Miss Todd First in List.

It was just before these turbulent times that the house had been newly decorated for the Madisons. The chairs and sofas were gorgeously upholstered in yellow satin, and the curtains were of yellow damask, hung with festoons and flutings. It was here in this effective setting that Mrs. Madison persuaded her cousin, Miss Todd of Philadelphia, to be married. Miss Todd was a beautiful little Quakeress. She demurred at the lavish display which the Madisons planned for the wedding, but finally acquiesced. She was the first White House bride, and the festivities in connection with her wedding were the wonder of her time. She married John G. Jackson, then a member of congress from Virginia. He was the great-uncle of "Stonewall" Jackson.

The first wedding in the present White House was that of Miss Maria Monroe, the youngest daughter of President Monroe, who on March 9, 1820, married her cousin, Lawrence Gouverneur of New York city, who had been for two years the private secretary to the President's family. Because of a disputed point of etiquette, which occasioned much discussion at that time, this wedding was deprived of much of its natural gayety and made into a rather quiet and private affair.

Diplomats Not Invited.

The foreign ministers were uncertain or not whether they should call and pay their compliments to the prospective bride, and some of them inquired of Mrs. Hay, oldest daughter of the president, who assumed the social duties of the White House, as to the amenities to be observed. Mrs. Hay had never visited the homes of the foreign ministers because their young ladies had not called on her first. Therefore she decided that her sister, Maria Monroe, could not receive and pay visits which she herself, the mistress of the White House, could not reciprocate. This was notice served on the diplomats that they would take no part at the wedding.

The reigning style of weddings in New York was adopted. This permitted only members of the family and intimate friends to witness the ceremony, which took place in the blue room. The east room at this time was used as a playroom for the children. After the wedding the bridesmaids were told that their company would be dispensed with until the following week. At the expiration of that time a reception was held, and the bride was formally introduced to every one. These bridal festivities came to a startled halt, however, when Stephen Decatur was murdered. The Decatur ball was the first to be given in the White House bride's honor, and, as the murder occurred immediately afterward, all other invitations were recalled.

The year 1826 witnessed the marriage of Helen Jackson to John Adams, the first son of a president to be married in the executive mansion. The wedding took place in the east rom. Miss Jackson was related to the famous Adams family of Massachusetts. She was a frail girl with beautiful, classic features, and at her wedding was described as "looking like an angel in her gown of white satin and soft lace." Her health was very poor, so the ceremoney was of the quietest sort.

Two in Jackson's Time.

During the administration of President Jackson there were two weddings at the mansion. Despite his record as a warrior, the president was very fond of young company and enjoyed giving aid to Cupid. Therefore, when Miss Lewis of Nashville, Tenn., who was a guest at the White House, announced her engagement to M. Paqueol, secretary of the French legation, and afterward Minister from France, Jackson invited her to be married in the White House. She did not require much urging to accept his hospitality. It was a great honor, and besides M. Paqueol was desirous of being the first foreigner to take a bride from the White House. The wedding was a pretty and interestnig one with a large attendance of diplomats and other foreigners.

Again, in 1832, President Jackson prevailed upon his neice, Miss Easton of Tennessee, and Mr. Polk to take their marriage vows in the east room. As neither bride nor bridesroom was widely known in Washington the wedding was of necessity small and rather quiet.

Miss Sarah Yorke of Philadelphia became the bride of Andrew Jackson, Jr., in 1835. This wedding took place in Philadelphia, but afterward, as stated, Mrs. Jackson took up the social duties at the White House and "presided with grace and dignity," according to the chronicles of the day.

In 1838 a president's son was married away from the parental roof. Maj. Abram Van Buren married Miss Angelica Singleton in South Carolina. She was the daugheer of a wealthy planter of Sumter county. Until this time during the administration of Van Buren there had been no mistress at the White House, so Maj. Van Buren's wife was an especially acceptable addition to the family when he brought her there to grace the entertainments.

Introduced by Dolly Madison.

Miss Singleton was educated in Philadelphia and spent the winter following the completion of her studies in Washington with her uncle, William C. Preston, senator from South Carolina. She was introduced to the president by Dolly Madison and became a favorite at the White House before her marriage. She had the reputation of being a woman of rare accomplishments, graceful of manners, and vivacious in conversation. She was universally admired. Later in life she was presented at many foreign courts.

Elizabeth Tyler, youngest daughter of President Tyler, was married to her cousin, a Mr. Waller, congressman from Virginia, in the White House in 1842. She was only 19 years old, a surprisingly lovely girl, and very popular in Washington society. Many people wondered how she could be content to give up the belleship of Washington for a quiet country life in a Virginia home. Cupid evidently had a way in those days of arranging that, for we are told that she never regretted her choice, and that Mr. Waller made her an excellent husband and brought her much happiness.

The wedding was in the blue room and the bride was radiant in her long veil. The intention was to have a quiet wedding, but it was really a grand affair and one of the few and last festal occasions when the mother of Miss Tyler was able to be present. Not the least conspicuous guest at the wedding was Dolly Madison.

Two years later, in 1844, after the death of his first wife, President Tyler married Miss Gardiner, the daughter of his friend, former Senator Gardiner of New York. The president became attracted to her by the coolness and heroism which she displayed when her father was killed on the Princeton by the bursting of a large gun. The boat was making a trial trip down the Potomac when the accident occurred. From this time an intimate acquaintance followed, which resulted in their marriage in the Church of the Ascension, in New York city, June 26, 1844. Miss Gardiner was strikingly handsome, and she retained her health and youthful appearance until late in life.

Marine Band's First Function.

Soon after their arrival at the White House there was a reception, at which the heads of the departments and foreign diplomats offered their compliments and made welcome the new lady of the mansion. A magnificent bridal cake and magnums of sparkling champaigne awaited the guests. The Marine band rendered selections and gayety reigned supreme. This was the first appearance which history records of that famous musical organization.

Mrs. Tyler received rather ostentatiously on her reception days. Twelve girls were her attendants. They dressed alike and stood six on each side of her slightly raised receiving platform. She herself wore a headdress of bugles resembling a crown and a gown of purple, with a long court train. This suggestion of royalty at her fetes was the cause of much comment.

Nellie Grant's Splendid Wedding.

A truly romantic White House wedding took place during the administration of President Grant when Miss Ella Wrensall Grant, better known as Nellie Grant, married Algernon Sartoris. This celebrated event was solemnized in the east room on May 21, 1874. Young Sartoris was an Englishman, who had fallen in love with Miss Grant on a steamer bound from England to New York. He was not 22 years old and she was barely 17. It was eighteen months later before the consent of the president could be won.

The floral decorations at the wedding were marvelous in their beauty and profusion. The east room was decorated with real orange blossoms sent from the south, and above the heads of the couple as they stood to be married was suspended by threads of flowers a huge bell, formed wholly of the rarest white flowers, making an exquisite background.

Col. Fred Grant was best man. There were eight bridesmaids—Misses Conkling, Frelinghuysen, Porter, Sherman Drexel, Dent, Barnes, and Fish, all famous names then as now. They wore gowns of white corded silk covered with white illusion, with soft puffs and plaitings caught up with flowers, the sashes of the same material as the gowns. Four of them were distinguished by pink roses and the other four by blue flowers. As the bridal procession advanced the bridesmaids came first, followed by Mrs. Grant and her sons. Then came the bride on the arm of her father, who gave her away with ill-concealed emotion. The bridesmaids formed a semicircle about the bride and groom.

The bride's gown was a marvel of loveliness, white satin elaborately trimmed with point lace and valued at $1,500. Her hair was artistically adorned with orange blossoms. Several hundred guests were present, including members of the cabinet, officers of the army and navy, the members of Congress and the judiciary, as well as numerous guests from out of town. A breakfast was served which was said to surpass any spread ever served in the White House up to that time. The young couple went to New York on a special train, and after a few days sailed for Europe.

That same year Col. Fred Grant brought to the White House his bride, who was a Miss Honore of Chicago. They spent the first six months of their married life at the mansion, where Mrs. Grant's charming personality proved of great assistance to the White House family.

Escorted by President Hayes.

In 1878, during President Hayes' administration, his niece, Miss Emily Platt, made her home at the White House. She was a great favorite of Mrs. Hayes, assisted her often at receptions, and made many warm friends in Washington. It was therefore of interest to every one when her engagement to General Russell Hastings was announced. Once more the blue room was the chosen spot for the wedding ceremony. It was splendidly decorated. A large bell, composed of 1,500 buds and blossoms, was suspended from the center of the ceiling, and from it garlands were gracefully twined to the walls of the room. At 7 o'clock the band struck up Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the bride came down the broad stairway, escorted by the president. She was exquisitely gowned in shimmering white satin, and made a lovely picture as she stood beneath the bell of flowers. A supper was served afterward in the private dining room. The newspaper record of that date mentions as an important fact the presence of a great many children—nephews, nieces and cousins of the bride.

President the Bridegroom.

In 1886 the White House was the scene of a most important event, not only a wedding, but the wedding of a president, the brilliant affair that stands out as the one and only occasion when a president was married in the executive mansion. The bride was Miss Folsom of Buffalo, a woman of unusually charming personality. She arrived in Washington at early dawn on the morning of June 2, 1886, and was met at the station by Miss Cleveland, the president's sister, who drove with her to the White House, where the president greeted her at the entrance. The south room, next to the library, beautifully decorated, was set aside for her use. Breakfast was served at 8 o'clock, and the remainder of the day was devoted to his duties by the president and to repose by the bride-elect.

By 6 o'clock that evening the crowds were gathering about the grounds. The ceremony did not begin until 7. The interior of the president's house was in festal array. The east room presented a magnificent appearance. The floral decorations were the most elaborate ever seen in the White House. The four mantelpieces were banked with roses, orchids, lilies and maidenhair fern, plants filled the fireplaces, the mirrors were festooned with roses, the chandeliers were wreathed with ropes of smilax. The centers of the four large columns, which were encircled with roses of various colors, were adorned with shields 4 feet in length, bearing the national arms, the stripes formed of red and white roses on a field of blue. One mantelpiece was banked with dark pansies bearing the date of June 2, 1886, in light pansies, and the other mantel was covered with red roses.

Church Bells and Whistles Sound.

At 7 o'clock the Marine band struck up the Mendelssohn wedding march, the first gun of the national salute boomed from the arsenal, and every church bell and whistle in the city added to the glad acclaim. The president and Miss Folsom entered from the private dining room and the 50 guests stood in a semi-circle about the happy pair. The company, though small, was distinguished.

Tall, graceful, blue-eyed and fair, Miss Folsom looked indeed the ideal American bride for whose hand a president even might be proud to sue. A vision of loveliness she is said to have been as she stood there, blushing before her audience. Her gown was of ivory satin, trimmed with Indian silk, arranged in Grecian folds over the front of the corsage and fastened in folds of satin at the side. She carried no flowers and wore no jewels but her engagement ring. Her train was a marvel of graceful arrangement, as long as the room itself, and it could have easily reached from the spot where the vows were pledged to the corridor through which the bridal party had come, except for the bride's deft management of it, whereby it lay in a glistening coil at her feet.

Just as the president and his bride were leaving the White House on their wedding trip a message of congratulations was received from the queen of England. They spent their honeymoon at Deer Park, in the mountains of Maryland. Mrs. Cleveland proved to be one of the most charming hostesses of the White House, and was well loved by the American people.

Miss Roosevelt's Wedding.

Of all the White House weddings in a hundred years none created more interest among high and low throughout the civilized world than that at which the daughter of President Roosevelt, Miss Alice Lee Roosevelt, was united to Representative Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati. This notable event occurred February 17, 1906. The floral decorations surpassed in value and splendor anything else Washington had ever known. The ceremony took place in the east room in front of one of the windows, which was draped in cloth of gold, rimmed with curtains, the whole being ornamented with ropes of smilax and Easter lilies.

At noon the bride entered the east room and advanced down an aisle formed by two ropes of white ribbon. She and the bridegroom stood upon a raised platform, where all present could see. Beneath them were priceless oriental rugs, on which rested a prie-dieu, upholstered in white cloth with white satin ribbons and filled out with bride's roses and lilies. At the rear of the platform a little impromptu altar was erected, just large enough to admit Bishop Satterlee.

The bride's gown was a magnificent creation of heavy, cream satin, princess style, with a court train of silver brocade, the yoke and elbow sleeves of exquisite rare lace. The tulle veil worn off her face was caught up by a coronet of orange blossoms, and clusters of the flowers nestled in the lace on her shoulders. Her bridal bouquet was a beautiful variety of orchids arranged in a cascade; the stems were tied with white chiffon and satin ribbon. The only ornaments she wore were the gift of the bridegroom, a magnificent necklace of diamonds, and that of her father, a diamond brooch.

The east room was divided into two compartments, one of the members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps, the family and intimate friends, and the other for the hundreds of other invited guests. More than a thousand invitations had been issued. The east room was crowded to its capacity. The

At the Central Presbyterian church, the special musical services have been in progress for several weeks, and are considered to furnish the most excellent vocal music that has ever been known in this church.

The Metmodist church are today receiving reports on the closing of the conference year, which will show the best year in the history of the Waco churches, and will be the most progressive report that is to be presented to the Conference at Temple on Nov. 5.

Seattle Wars on Rats.

Seattle, Nov. 1.—The finance committee of the city council has decided to introduce an emergency appropriation of $1,000 to employ additional rat catchers to aid the present force in the war on rats along the water front, resulting from the finding of rodents infected with bubonic plague.

Health Commissioner J. E. Chrichter told the committee that sixteen plague infected rats have been caught this month.

Four years ago, the last time plague infected rats were found in Seattle, twenty-six infected rats were caught. Dr. Crichter said his present force of rat catchers was inadequate.

Held Responsible for Bond Values.

Washington, Nov. 1.—In transportation of stocks, bonds and other securities the interstate commerce commission today held a carrier is responsible in case of loss, for the market value of the securities only and not the par value.

The decision was in the case of the Acme Portland Cement company against the American Express company, in which the express company charged $2,172.50 for transporting securities from New York to Seattle and based its rate on par value.

The commission held that the charge based on market value should have been $158.25 and ordered reparation amounting to $2,014.25.

Town Famous for Feud Battles Destroyed.

Jackson, Ky., Nov. 1.—Practically the entire business section of Jackson, scene of many feud battles, was destroyed by fire early today. The postoffice, Thompson hotel, two churches and a score of other houses were burned. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

Governor McCreary has been asked to call out the Jackson company of militia to protect property, as it is feared local authorities are unable to do so.

Rates on Stereotype Plates Attached.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Freight rates of stereotype plates for newspapers were attached before the interstate commerce commission by the Western Newspaper Association with branches in many important cities. The defendants in the proceeding are the several hundred railroads operating in official and southern classification territories.

The complainant demands a reduction averaging about 30 per cent in the rates to be affected through a change of classification. The present rates are alleged to be unreasonable.

At the Auditorium.

Saturday—Al H. Wilson, matinee and night.

But one attraction is announced for this week at the Auditorium, Al H. Wilson, who will play a matinee and evening performance Saturday. He comes with everything new, including management, play, company production, in "A Rolling Stone." The Louis B. Mayer company and Ben Stern have expended both money and good taste to make Mr. Wilson's position among prominent stars what they think his talent, both as an actor and singer, entitles him to. With this end in view Robert Milton was engaged to stage Herbert Hall Winslow's comedy drama, and to select a cast made up of players, each one of whom must be exactly suited to the requirements of the part he or she was selected for. The scenic environments were chosen with equal care, and to add to the effect of the new songs composed by the star, half a dozen very young and pretty girls were engaged. Laura Lemmers, who has the principal female role, was formerly Grace George's leading woman, and Lizzie Wilson, sister of the star and prominent on both the vaudeville and legitimate stage, has a character role.

Little Boy Blue.

Briefly, "Little Boy Blue" is a romantic relation with many humorous side-lights and musical incidentals of the finding of the lost heir to a Scottish fortune, estates and a title, to say nothing of a four-cornered love affair. Oddly enough the plot is laid in Paris and starts on its merry melodic course within the four walls of the famous Bal Tabarin cafe. A little waitress—evidently an aristocrat, despite her calling—turns out to be the half sister to the missing heir. She and an impecunious French Marquis are in love with each other but she spurns him upon learning that he, for the sake of his creditors, has agreed to wed another for a cash consideration. It is the girl whom the Marquis is ready to marry because of her wealth, who is about to receive the legacy long unclaimed, and which rightfully belongs to the little waitress' half brother. Partly in pique at the Marquis and also for the loyal purpose of gaining time sufficient for her brother's arrival to claim the legacy the little waitress dons boys' clothing at the suggestion of a seeress and a detective and impersonates her half brother who is the last of a long line of earls, one of whom the great Gainsborough immortalized in his famous painting, "Little Boy Blue." The proof of relationship lies in a birth-mark that for centuries has been in evidence on the left shoulder blade of all the Goberdeens and it is while putting the little feminine conspirator to the vital test that she is forced to confess that she is not the young heir but "only a girl." Her Scottish uncle, who has been won by the charm of the supposed youngster, is heartbroken at the deception and he is about to wreak vengeance upon the person of Dupont, the detective, when the real heir himself arrives upon the scene restoring peace and happiness, giving his sister's hand to the Marquis who meanwhile has proven his sincere devotion to her, and permitting his hetress cousin to marry the man of her choice, a harmless English army officer.

At Crystal Theatre.

At the Crystal theatre, will be a two-reel drama, "The Spender."

When Florence Lawrence appears in a play, that play must be worthy of her efforts. Her last play, "The Girl o' the Woods," was a masterpiece of dramatic construction, and, what with the wealth of personal magnetism Miss Lawrence projected into the production, it rose far above the ordinary feature. Nothing is allotted to this clever and world-renowned motion picture star but the best—her talents demand it. In "The Spender," written by Harry Salter and George Hall, we have a story, perfect in technique that takes the leading lady into a fresh phase of character delineations. She plays the part of an actress, not the ordinary sort of an actress, but one who sacrifices, who pursues the stage for reasons quite different from those which has direlicted the picture and staged it in wonderful style. There are many scenes, which, in magnitude and perfection of detail, surpass all previous attempts in the same direction.

The story opens when Flo (Miss Lawrence) is a child of the south, playing in the fields and sunshine with her friend, Bob, the boy across the way. Life is a joy to them; he swears he wil lalways love her and that when he returns from college he will make her his wife. That is his promise.

Several years pass. Flo has become a successful star in vaudeville. In her dressing room one evening one of the girls shows hear a beautiful tiara, saying that it was a gift from Bob Lang, a young millionaire, the greatest spendthrift in the city. It develops that he is an easy mark whom everybody is trimming.

The same evening he is in a box with some of his club friends and here Flo recognizes him—the same old Bob. She sings to him. He pays no attention. He gives a big dinner, but fails to invite her. She goes with the manager and here she observes him being cheated out of his money by his own friends. Returning home she thinks over the days when he took her fishing; she decides to get possession of his money and save it for him.

Bob has failed to recognize the girl of his boyhood dreams. However, he becomes infatuated with her again and willingly assists with large checks when she so demands. By the aid of a looking glass she wins much more of his money in a game of poker at her home. Later, he backs her in a show of his own and with this money she buys the old home.

He is notified that his account is overdrawn at the bank; he suddenly finds himself broke. When his club friends hear of it he is turned down. Desperate thoughts flood his mind as a note reaches him from the little actress. It is in a distinguished handwriting. It says: "Come to your old home." He thinks over bygone days of of little Flo. He obeys the call. At the old place he finds the girl that he spent his fortune on. She confesses all and, no longer the actress, she goes to the arms of the man she has saved from poverty.

PRINCE GOVERNS BRUNSWICK.

Differences Between Two Homes Settled.

Berlin, Nov. 1.—The government of the Duchy of Brunswick, which has been without a reigning duke since 1884, was assumed today by the young prince, Ernest August of Cumberland. The prince married Princess Victoria Luise, only daughter of the German emperor, on May 24.

The differences between the two princely families of Hohenzollern and Guelph have thus been settled, for the new duke, in a declaration issued today, promised unswerving loyalty to the German empire, and emperor and to the federated rulers of Germany. He thus implicitly, although not actually, renounced his pretensions to the throne of the kingdom of Hanover, annexed to Prussia in 1866, when it allied itself with Austria against Prussia.

Prince Ernest August's father, the Duke of Cumberland, rightful heir to the kingdom of Hanover, as well as to the dukedom of Brunswick, has steadfastly refused to renounce his claims to succession to Hanover and therefore has not been permitted to reign as duke of Brunswick. He has lived in exile in Austria.

Since 1884 the Duchy of Brunswick has been under a regency first of Prince Albert of Prussia, and then of Duke Johann Albrecht of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, whose office lapses with the accession to the throne of the new duke.

Complete formal transfer of sovereignty and the state entry of the young duke and duchess will take place on November 3.

Fresno Dan Upheld.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—"Fresno Dan," the California seeker for a share in the $500,000 estate of the late Daniel Russell of Melrose, is declared the rightful claimant in the report filed in the supreme court today by Gilbert A. Peevy, master in the case, who listened for eleven months to the testimony. "Fresno Dan" says the master is undoubtedly the son of the late Daniel Russell.

The report of the master settles the case so far as the facts are concerned and appeal must be based on questions of law.

The Russell will case has been before the Massachusetts courts for four years.

Y. M. B. L. at Lampasas.

Lampasas, Tex., Nov. 1.—The progressive citizens of this place have just completed the organization of a Young Men's Business league with a large membership. The officers chosen were H. Hoffman, president, and R. L. Walker, secretary. One of the first official acts of the new organization was the naming of November 5 and 6 as good roads days.

'Possum Walk at Grapeland.

Grapeland, Tex., Nov. 1.—The Grapeland 'Possum club has designated Thursday, November 27, as the day to pull off their 'possum walk. It will be featured after the Cuero turkey trot. Some 200 'possums will be in the parade, after which they will be barbecued and served at a public dinner to be given by the club.

A Spirited Race in a Spanking Breeze

Start of the Race

Hundreds of Boys and Girls, and Grown-Ups Too, Assemble Each Fair Day On the Brink of a Pretty Little Lake in Central Park To Sail or Steam Their Little Craft.

THERE has been a period in the lives of all of us when we dared many a spanking for the joy of sailing a boat, or even a chip in a bathtub or gutter. Spankings had no terrors for those of us, fired with an ambition born of a hazy knowledge of the daring deeds of Vikings, to explore with our rude and home-made craft foreign shores, even though they be but the far side of bathtub or the last navigable point of the gutter that flowed past our back gate. These, perhaps, were instincts that were handed down to us from our far travelled discoverer, one Christopher Columbus, and in consequence, we are all born skippers with a do or die determination to outsail the other fellow.

There is one little spot, however, set in a sylvan glade of rare beauty on whose broad and glistening bosom there floats more little sail yachts and power boats, that represent in the aggregate a fortune, than any other in this country. This is the boat lake in Central Park, New York, where nearly a thousand miniature boats are daily sailed and steamed by their owners, whether they be children or grown-ups. This may surprise you, for be it known these grown-ups are even more ardent and enthusiastic skippers than the average boy who overflowed the bathtub on Mother's newest rug in order to prove the sea worthiness of his little craft.

Nestling under a bluff which sweeps down from the Fifth avenue side of the park and overlooked by the stateliest and costliest mansions occupied by the wealthiest residents of New York, the little boat lake's shores are met by sweeping greensawards which reach down to its limpid waters in a gentle slope, affording delightful vantage points for hundreds of rest seekers, or artists, who have chosen this spot as one of the most exquisite bits of landscapes in the park. It has been reproduced on thousands of canvasses and the glimpse one gets of the gray walls and turrets of the Metropolitan Museum of Art through vistas of verdant boughs adds but a deeper charm to the picture.

Morris Rules Here.

A boardwalk surrounds the lake which covers, perhaps, an area of three acres and this walk is crowded from morn till dark with hundreds of enthusiastic yachtsmen and yachtswomen. On the far eastern shore of the lake, standing back a little from the walk, is a little boat house, and this is in the tender care of Morris Fay, a genial and courteous old Celt who long since kissed the Blarney Stone as well as winning his spurs as a salt of the old school. Morris is a born sailor and he loves with a devotion little short of idolatry the little boats that are stored, through a special permit gained from the City's Park Commissioner, in the boat house. No fee is exacted by this graft ridden city for this privilege it seems and in consequence barefooted and ragged little boys and girls from the East Side are just as welcome to sail their boats here as the children of scores of parents who reckon their wealth by millions.

In all there are upwards of a thousand little yachts, sail and power, stored in the boat house. Many of these were fashioned by the hands of their owners. Others were purchased at stores, or else from retired seafaring men who spend the long winter evenings in their homes whittling out yachts after the model, perhaps, of the boat on which they made their most memorable cruise. These they sell to the little children of the rich at fabulous prices after, of course, the boat in question has been brought to the park and tried out.

From early spring to the day the lake takes on a skim of ice, it is crowded with boats of all sizes and classes. When the first warm sun of spring softens the air and removes the sting of winter from the atmosphere, scores of these husky old skippers may be seen slowly making their way to the lake, tenderly bearing their boats. If they are of the opinion that the trial spin of their boat is to be in secret they are vastly mistaken, for the children of Fifth avenue, as well as those of the East Side, know just as well when it is time to go to the lake as the oldest salt. There is always a big gallery on hand to observe these trial spins—and critical observers they are, too. These little fellows know a boat the moment their eyes rest on one, and further they are not easily swindled when it comes to making a deal. Of course many of them are children of parents who keep a yacht in commission and they absorb much of their nautical lore from the crew of their father's yachts.

There are many men, young and old, unable to enjoy the thrills of yachting in the true sense of the word, who seize upon the pleasures afforded by the park lake as the next best substitute. Many of these men are employed as clerks and their evenings are spent in fashioning boats from models of some celebrated yacht of international prowess. These yachts are brought to the lake in the early spring and put overboard. If they are right, they are stored in the boat house and from then on every possible moment that can be spared from business is devoted to the sailing of these little craft. It is surprising the keen rivalry that springs up between owners of boats and when a real race is on the interest is as keen and intense as though a Lipton cup was hanging in the balance.

To indicate that American Cup Defenders have proved popular models there are no less than a hundred Reliances in the boat house, and each is a supposedly exact replica of the American conqueror of the Lipton challenger. Sunday morning is a popular time for the grown-ups, although hundreds of children from the East Side swarm about the lakeside on that day.

Where Rich Meets Poor.

But the fellowship that exists between rich and poor is one of the most delightful features of this cosmopolitan sport. Frequently a ragged little urchin from the East Side, who knows more about a boat in a minute than half of the men who pay a hundred thousand dollars a year to keep a yacht in commission, will journey to the lake with a crust of bread his hard-working mother has spared him for his luncheon. He will be joyfully hailed by a faultlessly dressed son of a Vanderbilt or a Gould who, attended by maid or valet, is at the lake to sail his yacht or race his miniature motor boat, the latter in all probability costing two or three hundred dollars. When the noon hour arrives a footman will be seen approaching bearing a hamper from which is spread on the lawn a spotless and snowy cloth preparatory to serving the al fresco luncheon. The honored guest in all probability is the little urchin whose pocket is bulging with the hard crust he brought from home. He is liked because he knows everything possible to be known about a boat, and further, if the Vanderbilt or Gould boat should have a flaw he would not hesitate to tell its owner so. That is why he is so popular.

Many of the races sailed over his little course are widely heralded, and when it becomes known that boats of a certain type, and the best in the class, are to be pitted against each other an enormous outpouring of enthusiasts follows. Men, women and children journey from one end of the Island to the other to watch these races and strange to say there is far more interest in the sailing races than there is in those of the power boats, despite the high speed and proportionate cost of the latter. Some of these motorboats are imported and the engines in them alone cost one hundred or two hundred dollars. Some of them attain speed of twenty miles an hour, and their steering gear can be so adjusted that they can encircle the lake many times without accident.

But it's an interesting spot and a democratic one. And there is none there more interesting than old Morris Fay when he can be induced to talk, although this is not often, for he is far too busy attending the wants of his many patrons, all of whom swear by him.

A Tax Suggestion.

The difficulty British Chancellor Lloyd-George had in deciding what to tax and what to leave untaxed in this year's budget recalls the story of an earlier chancellor of the exchequer who was reduced to despair in similar circumstances, says the London Standard.

Finally he decided to consult a friend who had on several occasions helped him to find fresh sources of revenue, and having written to this friend he waited hopefully for his reply.

The friend's suggestion came by return of post. "Put a tax on umbrellas," he wrote, "and make the bishops order the prayer for rain to be read in all the churches.

RADFORD SAYS TO PLANT CORN

FORMER HEAD OF FARMERS' UNION CALLS ATTENTION TO DEMAND.

FAMINE FOR FIFTY YEARS

Need of the Cereal for Feeding in This State Must Be Met Locally.

(By Peter Radford.)

We have had a corn famine in Texas for the past fifty years, and I want to appeal to the Texas farmers to plant more corn. It causes an annual drain of more than thirty million dollars upon the resources of the farmer and this spectre of want should be driven from the land. The remedy is very simple—plant more corn.

The farmers in the corn belt report one of the heaviest demands in recent years and also state that the buying has been done chiefly by farmers to be used for feeding work animals and other livestock. The Texas crop of 1913, according to the United States department of agriculture, is about 155,300,000 bushels, while the requirements for the year is said to be not less than 200,000,000 bushels. The Texas Grain Dealers' association is the authority for this statement, and according to these figures, there will be an enormous shortage of 45,000,000 bushels. This shortage will have to be shipped in from other states and countries, and Texas farmers will be required to spend approximately $30,000,000 to supply this deficiency.

Effect of the Tariff.

With the signing of the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill by President Wilson, on October 3, this grain was made a free trade product, the duty of 15 cents per bushel being removed and corn produced in foreign countries is now permitted to compete in price with the Texas product. At the present time a cargo consisting of 250,000 bushels of Argentine corn is en route to Galveston port, but this shipment is consigned to a Wichita Falls milling concern and none of the imported cereal, so far, has been purchased by farmers for livestock, but there can be little promise of relief from that country, as Argentine's average annual production of corn is approximately equivalent to that of Texas, while her population is twice as great and her livestock supply more than eight times that of the Lone Star State.

It is not likely that the farmers of Texas will receive any benefit from the new tariff insofar as the purchase of corn is concerned, as the United States exports this cereal, supplies 75 per cent produced on the earth's surface, and fixes the world's prices. The only one in this state who can possibly benefit by the removal of the tariff is the Texas dealer, and then only where the cost of transportation is cheaper from foreign countries to Texas than it is from the corn belt of the United States to Texas. We have had an annual shortage of approximately 50,000,000 bushels of corn in Texas for the past decade, which has been supplied largely by Illinois, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas and a few other states.

1913 Second Largest Crop.

The average annual corn production of Texas during the past decade has been 140,000,000 bushels, while the yearly requirement has been around 200,000,000 bushels. The 1913 crop was the second largest ever produced in Texas from a production standpoint. The 1908 crop was the largest in the history of the Texas industry, amounting to 201,848,000 bushels, and valued at $119,090,000. The total farm value of the 1913 crop, which amounted to 155,300,000 bushels, has not yet been estimated by the United States department of agriculture, but the average price throughout Texas on October 1 was 82 cents, compared with 66 cents per bushel on the same date last year. The average will not prevail for the entire year, however, and it is safe to estimate that the total farm value of the 1913 crop will not exceed $100,00,000.

As we consume more corn in Texas than we produce, the Texas crop demands a higher price than the average crop of the United States. Figures compiled by the crop reporting board of the United States department of agriculture show the price per bushel of the Texas cereal on October 1, 1913, to be 7 cents above that of the average for continental United States.

Collin Leading Corn Country.

Collin is the banner corn producing county of Texas and one of the largest crops ever produced has just been gathered in that county. According to the latest government reports 150,000 acres or 35 per cent of its cultivated area is devoted to the raising of this grain. In acreage, corn follows very closely the same sections as cotton, and as a rule, the leading cotton-producing counties of Texas take high rank in corn yield. Corn is a commercial crop in 240 of the counties of the state and sixty-nine farms out of every one hundred produced this cereal to some extent.

Acreage on the Increase.

While present indications are that there will be an increased corn acreage next year, it is not sufficient, as the acreage of this product has been on a steady increase for a number of years. Comparing the 1912 acreage of Texas with that of ten years ago and the average yearly acreage from 1903 to 1907 with the annual average from 1908 to 1912, it will be found that an increase of 25 per cent has been witnessed, while the acreage of wheat and oats shows heavy decreases.

Small Crop Brings High Prices.

The price of 82 cents per bushel quoted by the United States department of agriculture on October 1 is unusually high for Texas. The yearly average price during the past ten years has been 60 cents, although the maximum yearly price of 80 cents was reached in 1911, when the yield was only 50 per cent fo the average crop. The minimum yearly price of 48 cents was paid for the Texas product in 1903, when the production was 4,000,000 bushels above the average crop.

The first government statistics relating to corn in Texas were compiled in 1897 by the census bureau. Since that time the production, as well as the acreage, has shown an uninterrupted and strikingly rapid increase, while consumption has more than kept pace with production.

SECRETARIES TO HAVE A MEETING

YEAR HAS BEEN SUCCESSFUL

President B. B. Cain Will Make Report of the Work—Subjects to Be Discussed.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 1.— B. B. Cain, president of the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's association, has issued an official call for the annual membership meeting of the organization, to be held in Fort Worth on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 11 and 12. In discussing the work of the association, Mr. Cain said:

"The year has been the most successful one in the history of the organization and a report of the work will be made to the membership by me and the chairman of the committees. It is within the scope of the work of the organization to review the industrial growth of the state during the year and to point out the obstacles that retard progress.

The subjects will be considered detached from the ambition of designing politicians and freed from partisan strife. The viewpoint of industry will be given by men whose achievements and patriotism authorize them to speak.

Anti-Trust Laws.

The executive committee of the association at a recent meeting in Fort Worth discussed the effect of the suits filed by the attorney general against the Magnolia Oil company, and also against the M. K. & T. Railway company, upon Texas securities and investments, and referred the subject to the membership meeting for disposition.

In this discussion it was insisted that our laws should be so modified as to make it impossible to appoint a receiver for corporations without notice, except in cases where it is first shown that notice could not be given and there is imminent danger of a loss of property or the impairment of some right which could not otherwise be preserved and protected. It was not considered conducive to industrial progress that suits such as the one against the M. K. & T. Railway company should be warranted by our laws. Now that we have an efficient railroad commission charged with the special duty of dealing with the railroads, it would seem that such suits should not be possible without the sanction, if not upon the initiative, of the commission. Such authority should not be vested in, nor such responsibility rest upon any one man. Temptation to use it as capital, politicel, if not otherwise, is too great. Again, such a suit should not be resorted to without a careful consideration of its effect upon the general welfare, and whether or not some other remedy might be applied without injury to the public. The commission is peculiarly fitted for such a duty, whereas it could hardly be expected that a person in the position of attorney general will be otherwise guided than by the strict command of the law as he construes it, sometimes moved by an overzealous and too ambitious regard for duty. A power so far-reaching in its consequence ought not to be confided to or imposed upon the attorney general.

There are so few available men whose professional training and business experience qualify them to wield a censorship over industry, and the state is so large in area and population that it would be almost impossible for the voters to select in every instance a thoroughly capable man to exercise so important a duty; then the election of a new attorney general might, in some cases, create a new wave of disturbance over the industrial waters which have already been too often troubled for the good of the state.

The business interests of the state have shown an ability and a disposition to adjust themselves to changed conditions, but the hazard of anticipating a new interpretation of the law as it relates to the operation of railroads, and the application of a new code of official conduct every two years is too speculative a system to obtain the confidence of investors nad places too heavy a burden upon industry.

The membership of this association is composed of men whose business affairs bring them in direct touch with actual transactions and their views on such matters are final in so far as relates to investments and their conclusions a judgment rendered by industry from which there is no appeal.

The campaign of patronizing home industries which the organization is carrying on with the aid of the press, is proving a most efficient service to the manufacturers. Industrial patriotism is essential to our growth and progress and we cannot hope to become powerful in trade unless we patronize home industries.

It is conservatively estimated that 60 per cent of the output of the Texas factories must seek an out-of-state market, while the foreign factory supplies a large per cent of our home trade. Building up our manufacturing institutions will be an important work of the convention.

The Farm Life Commission.

The Farm Life Commission has dealt intelligently with the practical problems of agriculture and the result of its study of the needs of the farmer will be presented for the consideration of the convention, together with the recommendations for future activities of the commission.

The chairman of the Farm Life Commission, S. A. Lindsey of Tyler, has spent the summer studying agricultural conditions in Europe, and particularly marketing methods successfully employed in those countries that have more nearly mastered the problems of trade, and his report will be one of unusual interest.

Peter Radford, the manager of the commission, who is a practical farmer and one of the most vigorous thinkers in the state, will bring to the convention a message fresh from the soil that will reveal the needs of agriculture in a plain and simple manner.

These men have sounded the keynote to agricultural progress, organization and co-operation, and much has been accomplished through their efforts.

The general work of the organization during the year will be reviewed by the membership and its future course mapped out.

The commercial clubs are urged to send delegations to the meeting, and all business men are invited to be present.

The railroads have granted a rate of a fare and a third for the round trip and a large attendance is anticipated.

Mrs. Martin H. Glynn, wife of the new governor of New York state, who steps into the office because of the ousting of William Sulzer, is one of the most charming women of Albany, capital of the state, where there are many old Knickerbocker families. She probably will see that the name "People's House" is very soon forgotten. Both she and the new governor are common-sense, practical people, with no sham. Mrs. Glynn has entertained much in Albany for years. She has a beautiful country place near and that has been the scene of many social activities. Yet the family is democratic, and the society of which she will become the leader will be much broader than the old exclusive society of Albany.

Counterfeits and How to Detect Them

An Exclusive Interview On the Subject With the Director of Uncle Sam's Money Factory-The Government Seeking a New Paper That Will Baffle Imitation - Safeguards.

CAN you think of a kind of paper that would be really "different?"

The chances are that if you can Uncle Sam will reward you handsomely, for Uncle Sam is very much in need, just now, of just such a novelty.

But don't grow hopeful before you know what is required. Mind you, the sort of paper that will meet the government requirements must be genuinely distinctive and it must be distinctive in every sense of the word. Moreover it must be so unique that nobody can imitate it successfully. Indeed, that is the object, to make it beyond the possibility of imitation.

Probably you have guessed by this time the object of this Federal "paper chase." It is to afford a new means to thwart the counterfeiter. The paper which has heretofore been used in the manufacture of our currency is distinctive and the source of supply is so controlled that no interest other than the Treasury Department can purchase it. It has served its purpose, too, this familiar paper with the silk threads that so many look for as a guarantee that a bank note is "good," but, impelled by the spirit of progress and improvement, the officials at Washington have gained the idea that maybe something even better can be discovered in the paper line.

A Talk With Uncle Sam's Money Maker.

To get expert opinion on counterfeits is no easy matter because the men who know most about the subject do not like to call attention to the existence of counterfeits by discussing them. The following is the fullest statement on the topic ever made by the man who, above all others in the United States, has made a study of the subject, namely, Mr. Joseph E. Ralph, the Director of the U. S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where is produced all the paper money in use in this country and in the American possessions over seas.

Taking up the subject of counterfeits in general and their detection, Director Ralph said: "There are two classes of counterfeits, viz, simulative and exact. Simulative counterfeiting is that class that has the appearance of real money but will not bear close inspection. A very striking example of this class is a certain well-known oil painting by a celebrated artist that has occasioned many wagers as to whether it was a real bill or a painting when hung upon the wall, but which, of course, would not deceive any one upon close inspection. Exact counterfeiting is virtually impossible unless one had access to the appliances and knowledge of all the processes now in use in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

"It is possible for a counterfeit to belong to both these classes but the great majority of counterfeits belong to the simulative class and require only reasonable care and scrutiny to be detected. The danger to the public arises when a counterfeit is so close to the exact class as to usually escape detection. As a general rule, the longer a counterfeit is in circulation the nearer it approaches the exact class, the flaws or differences being hidden by the effects of wear, dirt and age.

Preventatives Of Counterfeits.

"The methods in common use to prevent the counterfeiting of bank notes consist of the employment in currency manufacture of distinctive printing; intricate engraving; multicolor designs; and distinctive paper. There being only two classes of distinctive printing, namely, surface and intaglio, the latter is almost universally selected, as it admits of more delicate and intricate lines and has a greater range of light and shade. It is also too expensive to be commonly practiced, and the results, if well done, are sharply distinguished from surface printing. Its chief characteristics are sharpness and fidelity of fine lines with great intensity of color in the heavy ones. These features are not possessed by any other known process of printing, as any method of increasing the color in surface printing makes the fine lines coarse and vice versa.

"Before photography became a popular art, intricacies of engraving were considered the principal protection of bank notes and great dependence was placed upon the interlaced geometric curves of the currency designs, inasmuch as the least variation in their precision of formation would be apparent for the reason that each curve was identical or belonged to the same order as its neighbor. These curves are always produced with great care by a machine of great precision of workmanship and adjustment. However, this system has lost something of its value inasmuch as photography reproduces its chief characteristics—regularity of formation—with ample fidelity.

Portrait Engraving, A Safeguard.

"Portrait engraving being the highest type of the art always has been considered and is today one of the chief safeguards. The expression of a human face is a very subtle thing when produced by a few lines. The least thickening or change in direction will completely alter it. It would seem as though photographic methods would reproduce portrait engraving perfectly but it has been found that in order to secure brilliancy in the printed effect recourse must be made to hand work or rebiting in etching that causes enough departure in the lines to change the expression sufficiently for it to be discernible without very close inspection.

"Theoretically it would seem entirely possible to design a color protective scheme that would preclude photographic reproduction. Extremely intricate and ingenious schemes for protection on this plan have been presented to us and the Bureau has actually investigated the merits of a great number of these methods ranging all the way from the suggestion of a tyro who wanted bank notes printed upon paper closely ruled with yellow lines, to a complex system of selected colors arranged by Mr. Frederick E. Ives. Even this latter system is now of doubtful value, however, and will become less so as the science of photography advances.

"An English expert has amplified the color protection scheme so as to include a secret emblem or mark, ordinarily viewable only through a ruled screen. This method is novel but valueless as the multitude of lines now on our U. S. notes, reproduced with such precision and fidelity by the transfer process, form a continuous secret code for direct comparison with a proof of the original plate and a counterfeit will soon disclose any hand work, especially in the finer lines. Color protection schemes in general make it extremely easy to produce a simulative counterfeit. Their intricacies and brilliancy distract the eye from the main design, so that a simple three color reproduction will suffice for the ground work and a surface print of the main design will answer, the luminosity of the paper being reduced by the mass of colored tint. Moreover, continuity of lines, tone values, etc., are all lost in the maze of colors.

The German Idea A Good One.

"The German notes embody a color protection scheme that does not have the disadvantage just mentioned in so pronounced a degree. Moreover the Germans make use of a tint that baffles the usual photographic processes and they also emboss the paper so that while the note is new and available for a photographic copy the actual lines are quite distorted. Also, the characteristics of intaglio engraving are amplified by employing bold engraving and using ink that approximates the varnish laden stamping ink.

"The notes put out by the German government show more study and advancement than any of the other foreign currency and are undoubtedly well adapted to the conditions in the country where they are in use. To be sure they are open to easy simulation but that is a condition that is probably of little concern to the Germans because notes are not in such universal circulation in the German empire as they are in the United States, and the German people are not so careless in receiving money. It is manifest that the German notes are quite expensive to produce and will not stand the usage common to the United States notes but notwithstanding all their disadvantages it is a question if their example should not be followed, in part at least, in the design of the paper money of the United States.

Distinctive Paper Is Important.

"Some distinctive feature of the paper, such as watermarking or the insertion of colored fibre, is considered the best method of circumventing the counterfeiting of securities, as to reproduce the distinctive feature would require considerable machinery of such a character that it could not be secreted or used without attracting attention. And, in addition thereto expert knowledge and considerable experience in paper making would be necessary.

"The paper used up to date by the United States government is distinctive in other ways than merely the localized fibre. The surface texture of a new bill does not disclose it but a partially worn one does. The peculiar 'feel' of a partly worn bill is not due to age and wear alone but to certain treatment of virgin stock and the varied processes that a bill goes through in the Bureau—processes which are not ordinarily employed in handling paper. The localized fibre, while readily simulated by the pen so as to require very close scrutiny to disclose the counterfeit is, nevertheless, a widely known and easily determined protection.

"What is known as wire watermarking is of little if any value as a protection against counterfeiting, as it may be readily simulated by localized pressure, but medallion or reinforced watermarking, as it is called seems to be of some value and may yet be adopted for U. S. notes if it can be introduced in paper of long and strong fibre. The insertion of various materials in the web of the paper as it is formed has been proposed from time to time, but all such safeguards may be simulated if a counfeiter will take the trouble to paste two or three sheets together.

The Raising Of Bills.

"An important phase of this subject of distinctive paper is found in the need for means that will prevent the raising of bills. It is highly desirable, too, that counterfeiters be prevented, if possible, from procuring distinctive paper for counterfeit bills of high denomination by erasing the printing from genuine bills of lower denominations. A well-worn, fairly executed counterfeit may be passed as genuine if it is printed upon genuine paper as the presence of the silk fibre and the 'feel' are considered by some persons as undoubted evidence of authenticity. A recent counterfeit, a fifty dollar bill, was made in this way and it required close examination ere certain differences in the background could be detected.

"The requirements of a method of preventing counterfeiting are probably well understood by all persons who have looked into the subject. It must absolutely prevent simulative counterfeiting. Whatever method is used should not be capable of production without the use of extensive machinery for a secret process cannot remain secret for any great length of time. Moreover the successful safeguard against counterfeiting must be one that can be deteriorated by reasonable wear and rough usage and yet the cost should not exceed the present cost of producing bank notes."

DO NOT WAIT FOR THE RUSH.
It is sure to come. All indications point to this. Prices in Waco real estate will soar. The time to investigate and buy is now, now, before the public realizes that Waco is growing and building up fast; and Princess Place is in the direct line of Waco's greatest and best growth. The most conservative men in every walk of life admit that the modern improvements that are being installed within a few blocks of Princess Place and where lots sell from $700 to $1100 each are bound to increase the values of the adjoining properties. The car line running every twenty minutes night and day within easy walking distances will encourage quick building. Come and see the sixteen new homes already built close by; come and see how Waco is growing. There is no doubt that Princess Place is the best buy in Waco for the money. Our prices, $150 to $295, full size city lot. Only $5 a month without interest; no taxes. Waco is growing. Are you going to wait and pay the other fellow the profits?

Markets By Telegraph

Cotton.

New York, Nov. 1.—The cotton market recovered an early decline today, but failed to hold its rally and was more or less unsettled, with the close steady at a net loss of 4 to 6 points. Weakness in Liverpool was attributed by private cables to increased offerings of actual and while the local market was steadied by overnight buying orders, first prices were 2 to 6 points lower. Prospects for continued clear weather in the south and more seasonable temperatures, as well as the decline abroad, seemed to unsettle the confidence of Friday's buyers and the market soon broke to a net loss of 10 to 12 points.

Offerings were well taken, however, and the market rallied during the middle of the morning. Predictions of bullish ginning figures for the period ending last night probably helped this advance, while there also were reports that interior factors were refusing to follow the decline in futures.

There was a good deal of realizing on a rally which carried active months back to about the closing figures of last night. This checked the advance and the market later eased off on reports that a Montgomery firm estimated the crop at 14,-$80,000 bales minimum.

The southern correspondents of a local firm estimated ginning to November 1 at 8,787,186 bales comparing with the official report of 8,869,220 last year and 9,970,-995 two years ago.

Gilbert & Clay's Letter.

New York, Nov. 1.—While weather conditions throughout the south have been unfavorable for the crop during the past week and current estimates of the yield average slightly below 14,000,000 bales, the local market has been under heavy liquidation and as a consequence prices have declined some 50 points. The selling seems to have been induced by outside influences rather than conditions immediately affecting the cotton trade. Financial troubles in India, the unsettled situation in Mexico and the quiet trend of business generally have restricted active buying here as prices approached 14 cents while holders pressed their holdings on the market in an effort to secure the full benefit of the high prices. No effort was made to support the market and in this way give courage to new buyers to accumulate at a certain figure but notwithstanding the general demand has been in good volume on the scaledown, thus holding the market steady in tone. During the past week reports have been current of an easier basis in Texas but this undoubtedly applies to the low grades only as white cotton appears to be in demand at full prices for both European and domestic spinning interests.

Grain.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Oklahoma reports of acreage, 30 per cent larger than last year, and of growth conditions the best in a long time, put a weight today on the price of wheat. There was a heavy feeling at the close, which was ⅝ to ¾@⅞c under last night. Corn finished ⅜ to ½@⅝c off and oats down ⅜c to ½@⅝c. The outcome for provisions varied from unchanged figures to ⅞c decline.

It was an official state report that gave prestige to the news regarding the wheat condition in Oklahoma. Flattering advices from other authorities referring also to the winter wheat crop elsewhere, obtained thus a degree of credence which was speedily apparent in the downward course of the market. Attempts to rally wheat proved failures without exception.

Corn sagged because of a sharp break in prices at Liverpool, owing to fine weather favoring the movement to market.

Pressure of imports from Canada made oats rule heavy. The market suffered too from an excessive week-end liquidation by longs.

Although provisions at first weakened with hogs, prices later displayed a relatively firm tone. The change of sentiment came about chiefly through bullish estimates of what would be shown by the monthly statement of the warehouse stock of lard.

Stocks.

New York, Nov. 1.—All signs pointed to a dull stock market today and traders accordingly were not disappointed by the complete stagnation throughout the session. With a holiday in London and one in the home market Tuesday, there was little prospect of much business before the middle of next week. At the opening today there was a slight easing off of some of the leaders. Canadian Pacific receded a point. Room traders took advantage of recessions to retire short contracts and buying of this nature was effective in raising prices slowly.

Among other inactive issues the movement was wider. Mexican Petroleum, which lost seven points yesterday, broke 3 more to 54, a new low record. Subsequently it rallied strongly. Americans Linseed shares again were prominent. The common rose 1 and the preferred 1⅝, extending the week's gains of the preferred to 9 points. American Tobacco broke 6 points.

The strain in the money market in connection with the turn of the month was reflected in the bank statement. For the first time in almost a year the clearing house banks reported a deficit at the end of the week. The cash loss of $7,330,000 was much larger than expected and at the same time there was an increase in deposits of nearly $20,000,000.

Bonds were steady, total sales, par value $760,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call on the week.

Case for the Court.

The conversation in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to the great game of litigation and the bank roll required to properly play it, says the Washington Post, when Congressman Dan V. Stevens of Nebraska, recalled an incident that occurred in the office of a Western lawyer.

One day a man entered the office of the lawyer, said that he had had a dispute with a neighbor over the shooting of a dog and wanted the matter headed for court.

The lawyer listened to the details of the case, which did not look very promising, and then thoughtfully pondered.

"Look here, Mr. Smith," he finally remarked to the would-be client, "I don't think it would pay either you or me to carry this case to any length. Don't you think that it could be settled out of court?"

"Oh, yes," was the prompt rejoinder of Mr. Smith. "As a matter of fact, I suggested it."

"I see," musingly responded the lawyer. "The objection comes from the other side."

"Yes," said the client, just a little regretfully, "the bloomin' yap won't fight."

By Counsel.
(From the Docket.)

An old gentleman, now deceased, never seemed to be satisfied unless he had several cases pending in court. He left surviving him a son who seems to have followed in his footsteps and has continued to keep up his father's record of proceedings in court.

Several of the attorneys were talking about his court troubles one day, when one of them told the following about the old gent:

The old gent had just won a case in the justice court, when the loser, in a very combative frame of mind, exclaimed: "I'll law you to the circuit court!"

Old Gent—I'll be thar.

Old Gent—I'll be thar.

Loser—I'll law you to 'ell!

Old Gent—My attorney'll be thar.

The suspended sentence yesterday saved Grover Farris, aged 20 years, from serving a term of five years in the state prison. Farris entered a plea of guilty to burglary.

The jury recommended to the court that his sentence be set at five years' imprisonment and that his sentence be suspended. Farris confessed to the jury and court that he burglarized the store of Sam Amster at McGregor. Knives, razors and other articles were taken.

35 Years for Douglass.

Thirty-five years' imprisonment was the sentence handed out by a jury yesterday in the Fifty-Fourth district court to Will Douglass, negro, convicted of rape. Uncertainty of It.

Judge Gary, apropos of the never-ending trust investigations, said the other day in New York:

"An old shellback sat on a windswept ocean pier carving toy ships with a jackknife, and about the edge of the pier played a half a dozen urchins. The water was deep and turbulent, but the urchins took all sorts of risks, and finally the old shellback, dropping his work, grabbed up a couple of them and spanked them soundly.

"'What did you do that for?' a bystander asked the old shellback.

"'Well, cap'n,' he replied, 'it ain't that I care a tinker's durn whether they fall in or whether they don't What I can't stand is the gosh-hanged uncertainty.'"

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers should apply to any case of a similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Building, College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Elizabeth says: "I am troubled with a constant headache which also affects my eyes. My breath is awful, as I have a severe case of catarrh in the head and throat."

Answer: I receive daily hundreds of letters from people who have suffered as you do and who have been relieved with the following prescription: Make a wash by mixing one-half teaspoonful of Vilane powder, which you can purchase from any druggist in 2 oz. packages, and add to this one pint of warm water, use this in the nostrils daily to thoroughly cleanse them. A catarrh balm should be used with this. This is made by mixing one teaspoonful of Vilane powder with one ounce lard or vaseline and apply well up into the nostrils twice a day. If this is used daily your catarrh should soon vanish. It should, however, be used occasionally to prevent a return of the disease.

"C. G." writes: "If you know of anything that will cure dandruff, itching scalp and premature baldness, please let me know what it is."

Answer: For several years I have prescribed plain yellow minyol as superior to anything known for the treatment of diseased scalp. Get it in four-ounce jars with full directions. It quickly overcomes all diseases of hair and scalp and gives new vigor and intense natural color to the hair. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use for your friends.

"Mildred" writes: "I am constantly embarrassed because of the fact of my extreme thinness. I have absolutely no color in my face and lips and I am dull and lifeless most of the time. Please advise me what to do."

Answer: If you are so thin and pale and your lips and cheeks are so colorless it is because your blood is deficient in red corpuscles. This can be easily overcome by the use of three-grain hyponuclane tablets, which can be had from any druggist in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. When the blood is enriched by the use of these tablets your weight will increase, the color will come back into your face and lips and it will improve your general system so that you will become strong and healthy.

"Edna" writes: "I suffer with rheumatism all the time and I shall be very glad if you can tell me something to relieve me."

Answer: I can give you a prescription which will not only relieve, but should obliterate your rheumatism. This is my favorite remedy and from the number of letters received from people who have used it proves its value in rheumatism. The following is made by mixing well, taking a teaspoonful at meal times and again before retiring: Comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs.; iodide of potassium, 2 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; sodium salicylate, 4 drams.

"Morris" asks: "I have suffered with a chronic cough for almost a year, and catch a fresh cold every few weeks. Nothing the doctor gives me helps, so I write to you."

Answer: You need a thorough laxative cough syrup, one that not only relieves but surely drives it from the system. The following regularly used will oust any curable cough or cold promptly: Obtain a 2½ oz. bottle of essence mentho-laxene, mix it with a home-made sugar syrup or honey as per directions on bottle.

"Anxious B." writes: "I have in recent years been threatened with appendicitis, but would never consent to an operation. Indigestion, constipation and sedentary habits cause me much suffering. Kindly prescribe for dyspepsia something which you think will cure me and prevent appendicitis."

Answer: The most scientific and satisfying treatment for your trouble is tablets triopeptine; packed pink, white and blue, in sealed cartons with full directions. Most stomach disorders can be conquered by regular treatment.

"Nervous M." writes: "Loss of sleep, nervousness, loss of appetite and overwork has made almost a complete wreck of me. I have to work, but can scarcely drag one foot after the other. Please advise."

Answer: The condition you describe is prevalent, especially with brain workers. Use the following: Compound syrup hypophosphites, 5 ozs., tincture cadomene, 1 oz. Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals.

Farmer's Wife asks: "Will you please tell me how to overcome obesity?"

Answer: Obesity is burdensome. Excessive fat on the human body is unnatural and frequently results seriously. The best and safest method to reduce is to take regularly five-grain arbolene tablets. They are put up in sealed tubes with directions for home use, and any well-stocked druggist can supply them.

"Sara C." writes: "I am constipated and have a greasy skin. Suffer from headache, indigestion and some kidney trouble. I wish you to recommend a remedy."

Answer: The best remedy to relieve and master chronic constipation is called three-grain sulpherb tablets made from sulphur, cream of tartar and herb medicines. Taken regularly the blood is purified, the bowels and liver stimulated into healthy action and health established. They are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. These tablets are splendid for children, as they do not gripe or sicken.

"Mamma"—"I know of nothing better for bed-wetting than: 1 dram of tincture cubebs, 2 drams of tincture rhus aromatic and 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort. Mix. The dose is 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals."

HARRINGTON IS ALLEGED INSANE

NEW CHARGE RESULTS FROM INVESTIGATION BY OFFICERS.

MAY DROP CRIMINAL CASE

Police Believe Traveling Man Is Not Responsible for His Actions. Examination Tomorrow.

Charged with insanity, and scheduled to be arraigned before the county insanity examining board Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, John J. Harrington, traveling salesman for a Houston wholesale paper house, and an announced candidate for congressman-at-large from Texas, now faces two complaints.

The complaint charging insanity was filed yesterday and is signed by Deputy Sheriff Joe Roberts. Judge W. H. Jennings, Sam R. Scott and J. Levinski, the two former local attorneys and the latter a merchant, and Deputy Sheriff Roberts, are named in the complaint as witnesses.

Two Checks Involved.

The insanity charge against Harrington follows his arrest, which was made at Temple Thursday night and his return to Waco to face a charge of swindling. The swindling charge was made in a blanket complaint filed in Justice J. J. Padgett's court by Mr. Levinski. The complaint grew out of the alleged passage of two checks by Harrington, totaling $45. One check is said to have been signed John J. Harrington, and the other J. H. Harrington. Both were accepted by Mr. Levinski, one as payment for hotel bill.

Result of Investigation.

The insanity complaint came after an investigation made by the sheriff's office and by attorneys whom Harrington summoned to represent him when he was arrested on the swindling charge.

Harrington came to Waco from Brownwood only a short time ago. His family is now here and were yesterday in consultation with attorneys.

Mrs. Pankhurst Is on Equal Suffrage Soil First Time

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English suffragette leader, today stepped on equal suffrage soil for the first time, and for the first time addressed women who have the right to vote.

"I feel like dancing," she told the Chicago suffragettes who greeted her, "but I never dance."

She made two speeches and attended three receptions which extended over as many hours.

Mrs. Pankhurst told several hundred members of the political equity league that if the women of Illinois failed in their duty at the polls the fight for "votes for women" would receive a setback over all the world. She advised her hearers against party affiliation and against militancy.

Mrs. Pankhurst thought the attack today on Premier Asquith by women with dogwhips was "perfectly proper."

Mrs. Pankhurst attended the ball of the women's trades union league tonight.

TELEGRAMS PUBLIC

SULZER WIRED FOR AID WHEN IMPEACHMENT THREATENED, IT IS ALLEGED.

Charge Slips Show Former Governor Often Called Up McCall—Telegraphs Roosevelt.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Telegrams signed "Chester C. Platt," the name of former Governor Sulzer's private secretary, sent from the executive chamber the day before Sulzer was impeached, were made public today.

Another telegram, signed William Sulzer, which urged Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, "to interview the president as soon as possible and make an appointment for him to see Antisdale, Mitchell and some other friends at an early date," was given out.

That Sulzer frequently called Judge McCall by telephone was shown from charge slips from the telephone company. Only one of these calls was made after the impeachment charges had been voted.

Both telegrams and telephone charge slips were revealed by state employes auditing accounts of the executive chamber during Sulzer's incumbency.

A telegram signed "Chester C. Platt," and sent to Henry P. Burgard at Fulton, N. Y., August 12, read:

"Will you telephone or telegraph Assemblyman Geoghan immediately. He voted for Frawley report yesterday, but I think if you reach him, you can prevent him from voting for impeachment. Answer can you help us with other assemblymen? You ought to be in Albany."

Burgard is a democratic leader in Buffalo. Geoghan is a member of the lower house from that city.

Telegrams sent to J. J. Cummings, Geo. H. McGuire, M. Z. Havens and William H. Kelly of Syracuse, read:

"Can you bring influence to bear by telephone or telegraph upon (Representatives) P. J. Kelly and S. F. Kelly to prevent them from voting for impeachment resolution? Quick action necessary."

The telegram sent to Roosevelt, dated July 21 said: "Please interview the president as soon as possible and make an appointment for him to see Antisdale, Mitchel and some other friends at an early date. Am writing particulars."

Success is assured for the concatenation of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo who will assemble in Waco on November 8 as the guests of the local lumber dealers, members of the allied trades and the Cotton Palace association.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the Kirby Lumber company, 1701 Amicable building, final plans for arrangements were outlined. Some dozen lumbermen, hardwaremen, architects, builders and contractors attended the meeting. Decision was reached as to the form of invitation that would be mailed to the hundreds of lumbermen and members of the various wood-workers' trades over the state. This invitation will be placed in the post Monday morning. Accompanying it will be a blank slip which the recipient is expected to fill out and return, which will give the local entertainers an idea as to how many visitors may be expected.

Promises a Big Time.

The invitation promises fun, pleasure and amusement, a good dinner and a good time. Also in the same letter with the invitation will be placed a badge that the visiting lumbermen are expected to wear. This badge will be of white satin, with black lettering, two inches wide and eight inches long. It will bear the words, "Lumbermen, Hardwaremen, Architects, Contractors, Planing Mill Men, Allied Trades."

Parade and Feast.

Plans are being made to entertain 500 visiting members of these various trades. This plan calls for a parade with red fire, for a luncheon at the Elks hall, to be followed with vaudeville acts in that hall, also with free admission to the Cotton Palace grounds to all visiting members of those trades.

Committees were named yesterday to obtain funds for the entertainment.

The 8th is Traveling Men's Day at the Cotton Palace, also on that date the Woman's Parade, expected to be the most elaborate and gorgeous of the exposition, is to occur.

Tariff Affects Belton Market.

Belton, Nov. 1.—Revision of the tariff has already been felt to some extent in Belton, the Belton Mill and Elevator company being interested in a cargo of wheat consisting of 3,000,000 bushels, en route to the port of Galveston from the Argentines and due at Galveston within the next few days. The importation of foreign wheat constitutes a curiosity in this section, where nothing but native wheat has ever before been thought of.

CHARLES M. THOMPSON, HERO

Waco Man's Bravery Brings Him a Bronze Medal and $1,000 From the Carnegie Fund.

As a reward for the bravery which he showed in an attempt to save the life of Clara E. and Elizabeth Downs, Charles M. Thompson, 1322 North Eleventh street, this city, will receive a bronze medal and $1,000 in cash.

The award was made by the Carnegie hero fund commission, which has just announced from Pittsburg, Pa., that something like $100,000 is to be distributed in this manner. Thompson, who was foreman of a gas construction gang in Temple, Tex., on November 24, 1911, attempted to stop a runaway horse attached to a buggy in which Mrs. Clara E. Downs and her daughter, Elizabeth Downs, were riding.

Flirted with Death.

The horse became frightened and dashed past where Thompson was standing. Regardless of the danger, Thompson seized the bridal reins of the charging animal. He was dragged for a considerable distance. He failed to stop the horse, but succeeded in checking its flight, and it was finally brought to a standstill without serious injury to the occupants of the buggy. Thompson, however, did not escape so luckily. He was severely bruised and battered from his fight to stop the runaway and was compelled to abstain from work for some days.

Report of his deed was made before the Carnegie commission and as a result it was rewarded. The medal is as a badge of honor, while the $1,000 is to go toward the purchase of a home.

CITY ABLAZE WITH LIGHTS

Gorgeous Illumination Turns Night Into Day—City Hall's Luminous Electrical Dress.

By far Waco was better and more beautifully illuminated to greet the thousands who witnessed the opening of the 1913 Cotton Palace than in the past. Bright lights in the business section make the way as light as day.

The artistic as well as the practical effect had been attained. In the downtown section the streets, stores and buildings were brilliantly lighted, while the streets leading directly to the Cotton Palace grounds were well lighted. Noticeable were the lights on the city hall, and the street lights which lead out Austin and Franklin and out Clay street to the exposition grounds.

City Hall Illumination.

In the decoration with electricity of the city hall building, the plans had been entirely left in the hands of City Electrician Copley. More than 300 bright Mazda lamps were used in decorating the front of that building and they produced a brilliant effect. The cross section streets to the Cotton Palace were also lighted with strings of the same kind of lamps. Business houses had also given attention to illumination and electricity played its part in the opening of the show.

BIG INJUN AND FIREWATER

They Mix While Cotton Palace Festivities Are in Swing and Paleface Police Come Plenty.

Joe De Chapatulla, a full-blooded Mohawk Indian, was included in the catch of the police last night. De Chapatulla, who resides near Abbott, came to the city in company with a number of his paleface friends to witness the opening of the exposition.

In some manner, although it is a direct violation of the United States laws, the Indian obtained sufficient whiskey to put him in a happy mood. The whiskey also incidentally got him into trouble, as the police arrested him for disturbing the peace.

When arrested he had a half pint bottle about half full of whiskey in his pocket. The police inquired of him where he purchased the "fire water." The only information they obtained was, "From a man in a saloon."

pleaded throughout that she was as innocent as a little baby. She has relatives at Waco and it is said they have been called to Dallas.

Just what action will be taken by the grand jury Monday is not known. Officials after they were shown that newspaper men had learned all the proceedings before the grand jury were from to admit the facts in the case.

Was at Waxahachie.

Waxahachie, Nov. 1.—Mead Barr, brought from the Indiana reformatory to be investigated by the authorities regarding the Florence Brown murder case, was brought to Waxahachie late last night and lodged in the Ellis county jail. This morning he was still here and was closely guarded by the jailer. That official stated that he had positive instructions from the sheriff of Ellis county not to let newspaper men see the man. He admitted, however, that the person held was the one known to the public as the inmate of the Indiana reformatory.

The man was brought here in a big, black automobile, and accompanied by five or six officers. The trip here must have been made from Dallas or some point north, as the automobile came from that direction. The man was taken to a cell on the second floor of the jail and after a brief time the party that had him in charge left the city for the north in their automobile.

Constitutionalists Plan a Final Attack on Monterey

Matamoros, Nov. 1.—A final attack on Monterey with the combined constitutionalist forces now in the vicinity of that city was planned today at a conference of constitutionalist officers and leaders. The conference, which took place at Villa Apodeca, 12 miles east of Monterey, was participated in by Generals Jesus Carranza, brother of Venustiano Carranza, constitutionalist leader; Generals Pablo Gonzales and Lucio Blanco and Colonel Villareal.

Additional details of the fighting at Monterey were brought to the city today by constitutionalist officers. The destruction of several hundred freight cars and several of the city's largest buildings by cannon and fire is confirmed. The number of non-combatants killed in the fighting, according to these officers, has been greater than the casualties among the troops on either side.

Many of the wealthier class, it is stated, have been killed and the federals, the constitutionalists say, have summarily executed a large number of the poorer people who were suspected of aiding the rebels.

The constitutionalists claim to have had control of Monterey three days, October 23, 24 and 25, but withdrew temporarily upon the arrival of federal reinforcements from Victoria and Saltillo, taking with them, however, four cannon, ten machine guns and several hundred rifles captured from the federals.

The proposed combined attack upon Monterey, it was said, would begin as soon as the constitutionalist forces can be concentrated near that city.

COLDEST OCTOBER.

Records for Years Are Broken at Temple.

Temple, Nov. 1.—The coldest October weather that has prevailed in years was experienced in Temple and immediate vicinity. The temperature this morning registered at 27 above zero, or five below the freezing point. On another day of the past week the mercury went down to 28 above and on another day it registered at 28 above zero—freezing weather. The frost has been beneficial to cotton, causing many bolls to open that would not otherwise have done so, but flowers and shrubbery have suffered from the effects and present a wilted and bedraggled appearnce. The rainfall in the Temple territory during October was 6.79 inches.

TEMPLE TO AMEND CHARTER.

Temple, Nov. 1.—The city charter convention of fifteen delegates, which is holding sessions for the purpose of recommending amendments to the present charter, held a meeting last night and partially adopted sections relating to street paving and other street improvement, together with sidewalk construction. The convention meets regularly on Friday night of each week. At the next session the subject of paving, sidewalks and street improvements generally, will be finally considered and action taken thereon. The paving committee is composed of Messrs. T. J. Darling, chairman; Chas. M. Campbell and George Houghton.

TEMMPLE TO OBSERVE DAY.

Plans for November 5 and 6 Will Be Made.

Temple, Nov. 1.—Preparations are being made to observe November 5 and 6 as good roads days in Temple and vicinity and a mass meeting has been called for Monday, November 3, to organize and make arrangements. The ladies of the city have volunteered to serve dinner on the work during the two days.

Memorial Catholic Services.

Temple, Nov. 1.—A decree issued by Pope Pius X, commanding that all Catholic churches of the world would hold jubilee services commemorative of the sixteenth centennial of Constantine the Great, who in the year A. D. 313, established freedom of religious worship throughout the world, service will be held in celebration thereof at St. Mary's Catholic church of Temple three days, commencing Sunday, November 2, and lasting through the two following days.

Sheet Music bearing a vignette picture of Miss Eleanor Cameron, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. W. W. Cameron, is being published with a dedication to that young lady. The words are from the poem ,"Du Bist Wie Eine Blume," which translated is "Thou Art Like a Tender Flower." Hugo Lehmann of this city has taken the words from the poem by Heinrich Heine, one of the sweetest singers in Germany, and has composed the music, and because of the gift of the Cameron family of the park to all the people, he dedicated this piece of music to the little miss, whose picture adorns the title page.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter the acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a sorce of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

READS BLACK BOOK

REVEALS NO CONFESSION BY STEPHEN J. STILWELL, FORMER SENATOR.

Hennessy Talks—Stenographic Report Recorded—Bitter Against Murphy, Tammany Leader.

New York, Nov. 1.—Contents of Investigator Hennessy's "little black book," so far as it relates to his conference in Sing Sing with Stephen J. Stilwell, convicted state senator, were made public here today. It reveals no confessions. The names of Charles F. Murphy, State Senator Frawley and others are mentioned, but after fencing for hours with Hennessy, Stilwell refused to accuse anybody flatly of anything, insisting that he first get his pardon. When this was refused, negotiations were dropped.

The interview in the warden's office with a stenographer as an eavesdropper continued for hours. The stenographic report is broken and disjointed, this being explained as due to the noise of passing trains. The dialogue shows a keen verbal duel between Hennessy and Stilwell—the latter evasive and fearful of betrayal; the former seeking diligently for disclosures which he believes might permit Sulzer to challenge impeachment.

Demands Pardon First.

Stilwell is quoted as having said, among other things:

Hennessy—"You mean you want the pardon before you make affidavit?"

Stilwell—"I will give you the affidavit or anything, but I can't go before the grand jury. I will go the limit. I will prevent them from voting against the governor. I will put Murphy in jail and Frawley there, too, but I must protect myself. I must do it! There is no question but that you can get Frawley. I am pretty sure you can impeach Murphy, but there is no question about Frawley; but I can't see my way clear, I can't do it in justice to myself. I know what it means; no one knows better than I do. If the pardon is not there and I've got to come back there is no use talking. I can't do it even if I've got to serve the limit and take a chance of killing myself rather than have it handed to me."

Here the ex-senator continued to demand his pardon first. The record goes on: as follows:

Murphy Rolling in Money.

"If I was outside this minute, I would do it, whether I gain anything by it or not. I would get Murphy if it was the last thing I did before I died. I have reasons for doing it! God! My mind has almost left me."

Hennessy—Why is that a man like Murphy can move these things for years and years and nobody knows it?

Stilwell—Because the fellows that know it generally are afraid to come out. Where did Murphy get all his money from? He is rolling in money—he never had an office.

Hennessy—What is there about Frawley getting some money from some brewery?

Stilwell—I can prove that. He will always take money on these things. Each one of them got $5000 a year from the brewery association interests.

Mack Declares is False.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Norman E. Mack, former chairman of the democratic national committee, who was charged by John A. Hennessy with having turned over to Charles F. Murphy $50,000 collected for campaign purposes, declared the charge false in a statement given out here today.

Mr. Mack recently brought a libel action against Hennessy for charging him in a public statement with having appropriated campaign money to his own use. The suit is still pending.

The Wonderful Sulphur Island, Geysers and Magnificent Scenery of This "Scotland Under a Different Sky".

If you were to choose a land for sightseeing and at the same time were in search of health and had money and time at your disposal you could select no more delightful country than New Zealand. It is another Yellowstone Park with geysers, mud-holes and all the phenomena of that wonderful region, and just now it is attracting attention because the most remarkable natural sulphur factory in the world has been discovered there.

New Zealand is a queer and beautiful land where water meets the eye everywhere. Besides being surrounded by the deepest of blue seas the islands are filled with lakes and swift rivers, rowing and sailing are the chief pastimes. Never were there mountain lakes more apt to be ruffled by breezes or streams more rapid. Perhaps because boating is such a favorite occupation this country controls its own trade and the traffic to Australia and the South Sea Islands. The climate, too, is delightful, for it has all the range of latitudes and one passes from orange groves in the north to fields of oats and rye in the colder southern parts.

Only Thirty Years Old.

Thirty years ago this colony began. Now they export gold, sulphur, coal and wood in large quantities. In fact, wool growing is the chief agricultural industry. New Zealand sheep are noted the world over. Frozen lamb and mutton are large exports, and the business is conducted on scientific principles. So are the large co-operative butter factories and the industry of collecting the resin of the large Kauri pine, of which the markets of Europe use large quantities for glue.

All this goes to show that when you decide to go to New Zealand you will not go to a backward, uncivilized land, but to a country where the labor question has been solved enough to attract the attention of social students and where at least ten large cities are good imitations of the large towns of the British Isles.

On this very account it is somewhat peculiar that the great sulphur factory of White Island, twenty miles off the shore, in the Bay of Plenty, has not been utilized before. Seen from the shore, it looks quiet enough, but a white cloud hangs over it and can be noticed some distance at sea. Even in the brightest weather the cloud never varies, and White Island is flying its white vapor flag. In reality this is steam from hot springs and geysers which boil around the sides of a lake within the crater, for White Island is the crater of a partially submerged volcano, one thousand feet of which are above the sea. The whole island is perpetually making sulphur and because of its hot springs, soft sulphur laden ground and curious formations, it has long been the mecca for curiosity seekers. Every steam jet spouts a certain amount of sulphur, and there are hot springs containing over ninety per cent., in fact superior to the springs of Japan.

A Wonderful Mine.

Commerce has laid hands on this wonderful island and has started one of the strangest mining enterprises ever known. The lake which is filled with boiling sulphur springs has been drained and both the thermal and non-thermal parts of this island of about nine hundred acres are worked. When sulphur is so pure that it can be dipped out of a spring with a bucket it is no wonder that this island has been called "the eighth wonder of the world." To harness a seething and fiery island and make it obey the behests of man is a daring undertaking, and this is the first time that geysers and boiling springs have been utilized for such a purpose. But it is little wonder that man is desirous of utilizing this natural sulphur factory for one spring alone furnishes four tons of ninety per cent. pure sulphur an hour.

This remarkable White Island is really the beginning of the Taupo or volcanic district of New Zealand, which extends under the sea and makes itself known again in the northern part of the North Island of New Zealand. Though this section of the mainland is commonly called the Hot Lakes District, the lagoons are not always hot, and the queer White Island is in many respects a greater wonder than the mainland. Nature has surely emptied her wonderbox on White Island for having been the scene of volcanic activity for so many years its springs, yellow and giving forth precious minerals, arise from an apparently inexhaustible supply. This, too, within a small area. Naturally, this island has been for ages the subject of Maori tradition and many interesting legends cluster around it. The best knowing says that a chief's wife dropped a hot coal in the sea, and from it sprung this interesting volcano, the top of which protrudes today.

NEW ZEALAND
"THE BRITAIN OF THE SOUTH"

Magnificent Scenery.

The area of the hot district on the mainland is about six thousand square miles, and in it are volcanoes and many beautiful lakes. Four of the most interesting are Roto-rua, Roto-iti, Roto-ehu and Roto-ma. They lie in a chain, like pieces of silver strung together. But Taupo is so large and has such deep waters and frowning cliffs that it is better known to the average sightseer. In fact this crater lake surrounded by a rampart of huge cliffs much resembles our own Crater Lake which we have set aside as a National Monument. The glory of Taupo in floodtime is the cascades which make one leap from the top of the cliffs—some over a thousand feet—to the waters below. The Waikato river issues from this and old Maori tradition has it that the crater lake is connected with underground boiling infernal regions by a huge funnel.

Roto-rua is the social center of the thermal country and here government has become interested. There are fashionable hotels, public gardens, and all the modern sights of popular hot springs. Within ten miles of Roto-rua there are enough hot colored pools, geysers and sulphurous terraces to keep one sightseeing for weeks. New Zealanders have made a study of geysers and tell you they have geysers terrifically large and triflingly small without number. They know how to make a quiescent geyser boil by applying soap to its cavernous mouth and they also know how to make artificial geysers, one at least being made by inserting a lead pipe in the ground. This has been done as a curiosity and with no attempt at fooling persons into thinking it the genuine article.

The large geysers are beautiful as the huge columns rise, curl back and fall earthward. The sunlight plays on the water and steam and makes quivering rainbows, while "the light that never was on land or sea" seems to illumine the spouting waters until they slowly sink in seething whirlpools. Tourists come to Roto-rua in large numbers to bathe in the acid-sulphur and alkaline sulphur springs. An interesting feature in connection with these springs is that persons without money are cared for at the expense of the government. When one tires of Roto-rua he can drive to Taupo to see the wonderful lake or to Waiotapu, where the real infernal domain of the mainland begins. A series of hills surround a valley which is full of springs and sulphurous mud. Further on is the Devil's Trumpet with steam rising in great jets and geysers are galore, sending up clouds of vapor. Some erupt at stated intervals and others are so uncertain that no accurate computations can be made.

"The Geyser of Sparkling Waters."

Wairakei, the "geyser of sparkling waters," is probably the most wonderful of those on the north island. It empties every twelve minutes, and five of these is spent in preparation, in boiling and seething in the crater just before it showers upward. At first there is a slight indistinct sound, then bubbling, and finally water is spouted forth like a great white spray seeking to reach heaven. A short pause and it slowly recedes into the crater. No wonder all this section is called The Devil's Playground, for the minerals in the water make the ground red, white and black, and the whole earth seems a great thermal laboratory. The beautiful walls that surround the geysers and pools are made of the acids which the water and gases create. It is walls like these that on White Island are being utilized for the benefit of many countries.

An Island of Sulphur.

But let no one going to New Zealand be content with seeing White Island and the volcanic region of the north island. The southern island is remarkably picturesque with Alps and Fjords. Great mountain ridges run from north to south, fast rivers thread the valleys and there are deep and wonderful lakes. Best known of all its beauties are the Sounds, which resemble Fjords like those of Norway. Properly they should be called Fjords, but the name given by early explorers still clings to them. There are at least fifteen of them winding between cliffs and penetrating into the icy heart of the Alps.

The heights around Milford Sound are the loftiest of any. The Sound itself is a dark green stretch of salt water between cliffs less than a mile apart. In one place only five hundren yards of water separate them. All the Sounds are deep and in Milford the sounding line reaches bottom at nearly 1,300 feet. Cascades, cataracts and falls come down the high cliffs and some are estimated to be three thousand feet high. But measurement seems futile in these Sounds, they are so grand and beautiful. Means are taken to preserve bird life around them, and the government has set them aside as an insular refuge for all flying animal life

Texas Cotton Palace for 1913 a Pride to All The State

The "Greatest and Grandest" of them all—the Texas Cotton Palace—opened last night at the touch of the electric button beneath the finger of O. B. Colquit, the chief executive of the Lone Star State. And amid the blaze of glory and grandeur came the feeling that inspired the poet who wrote, "Breathes there the man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, this is my own, my native land." The Cotton Palace of 1913—the long anticipated and carefully planned exposition—is alive and up to expectation—and even more—reality. The hard work of the President and Directors and their assistants in the 1913 Cotton Palace has borne rich fruit. And all Texas, more especially Central Texas, will express a "Thank you" in making this the banner year for attendance. The house of Sanger Brothers extends sincere congratulations to the men nad women who have given so liberally and untiringly of their time and energy toward making this year's Cotton Palace the great success that last night's formal opening revealed it to be.

Waco has acquired much, as a city, to be proud of since the last Cotton Palace. The interurban is in operation, hotel accommodations are more numerous, many more miles of paved streets are in evidence, many handsome residences have been added and many new business buildings have been completed, with many more under construction. Waco has much to show her Cotton Palace visitors—the result of a steady growth toward 100,000 population.

Hundreds of Admirers Saw Sanger Bros. Exhibit at the Cotton Palace Yesterday

The Sanger exhibit is more beautiful than ever before, neither time nor money have been spared in perfecting the most elaborate display we have ever made, but in addition to the display of high class merchandise, we have brought here for the express purposes of exhibiting it in our section at the Cotton Palace ,the famous painting, valued at $50,000, "La Forge," which has only been in America a few months. It is a thing of beauty worth going many, many miles to see. As one stands and gazes upon the canvas the figure of the gray-bearded toiler seems almost to breathe, to move, the odor of the burning wood seems to come to the nostrils; the beholder is almost tempted to step forward and pick up the scattered tools, to brush the dust accumulation from the bench; to help, if one might, the venerable workman. Such a picture represents the type of men who exalt labor in its humblest and most obscure form. A study of the man, his task and his surroundings, is sure to inspire one with the power of the artist's achievements and the realization of the presence of genius. The artist, De Mareau, was born in Lyons, France, and died in 1893 at the age of thirty-four. The rest of his paintings are in the famous Palace Luxembourg, Paris.
